E.P. Coleman Gives Another Huge Donation To Hospital Drive

Hearnes Extradites Canaday

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today signed extradition papers to send Richard R. Canaday back to California to face two charges of forgery.

Canaday, now editor of the Jackson Post and Cashbook, was at the time of the alleged crimes a commission salesman of advertising for the Horse Lover's Magazine of El Cerrito, Calif.

The information charges he collected $63 in commissions for advertising by two ranchers and that he forged the ranchers' names.

Eugene G. Buschmann, Missouri administrative hearing commissioner who heard the extradition case, said California law was broad enough to cover what Canaday allegedly did.

Canaday's attorney, State Sen. Albert M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau, argued at the hearing May 17 that the papers were not advertising contracts but simply were space reservations.

Canaday still can make an effort to block the extradition by suing under habeas corpus sections of Missouri law.

60 Enrolled in Oran Head Start

ORAN -- The Head Start program sponsored by the Oran School District R-3 is in the second week of operation. Enrollment is about 60 children. There are a few vacancies for those who may have been late enrolling their children.

The program consists of four classes with a teacher and one aide working with each group. There has been a good response to the call for volunteer workers to help with art and play activities. Susan Edmondson, Peggy Wagoner and Evelyn Glastetter have been working often with the different groups.

A typical morning in Head Start may go something like this:

The bus lets the children out in front of their regular rooms. After finding the right bathroom, washing their hands and getting a drink, the children go into their own rooms to listen to records, group listening or free play periods. After milk and cookies there may be a period of creative self-expression involving art or music. Art activities usually include finger painting, using tempra paints or water color. Music includes singing, rhythms or making and playing musical instruments.

A rest period is followed with supervised play outside on swings, slides and in sand boxes. Playing with water, washing the toys and dishes in soapy water is a favorite activity. A hot, well-balanced lunch is served at noon. After eating, tooth brushes are in order before getting on the bus to go home.

The activities included in the above program help prepare children successfully and happily to enter first grade or kindergarten next fall. They are taught to listen to stories and then discuss or retell them, to respect the rights and feelings of other children and a readiness for learning to read and write.

House Hears $58.6 Billion Request for Defense Spending

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assuming that the war in Viet Nam may go on for another year, the House Appropriations Committee recommended today $58.61 billion in new Defense Department financing for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But the committee, in a report by Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., emphasized that the decision for full-year financing was "arbitrary" and "should not be construed as a prediction as to when the war will end."

"The date of the termination of the war is, of course, impossible to predict," it added.

The funds recommended by the committee, subject to House action next week, are $946.68 million more than President Johnson requested and almost $12 billion more than was appropriated in a comparable bill last year. Last year's initial bill was inadequate, however, and an extra $11 billion was provided in a second measure.

The money in the pending bill might not be enough, the committee noted, and several billion dollars more may be needed if combat operations continue at a high level.

A Republican minority report, agreeing that the huge appropriation won't be enough, called for creation of a "blue ribbon commission" to make an "independent and objective evaluation of the projected defense posture of this country."

"What could be more penny-wise and pound-foolish than to save a few cents on defense today only to lose the peace tomorrow?" the report asked.

The increases over the President's formal appropriation requests included $163.3 million for the new Nike-X antiballistic missile system and an unspecified amount for construction of one nuclear powered frigate instead of two conventional destroyers. The administration was opposed to both of these programs.

Also included, but not provided for in the President's budget, were $67 million to retain separate Army National Guard and Army Reserve organizations; $6 million to continue operation of a B52 fleet of 600 aircraft; $19.9 million for additional light observation helicopters; and $55 million to provide for increased production capability for the F12 interceptor plane.

Girls' State Elects State Officers

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- A 16-year-old Brentwood High School girl today was elected governor of Missouri Girls' State.

Miss Joy Johannesson, a Nationalist, defeated Miss Glenda Lane, Warrensburg, the Federalist nominee, in the general election. The vote was not announced.

Others elected to major offices of the mythical state were:

Nationalists-Kathy Gannon, lieutenant governor, De Soto; Barbara Branneky, attorney-general, Bridgeton; and Susie Coppin, auditor, Jefferson City.

Federalists -- Elaine Uchiyama, secretary of state, Creve Coeur; and Jane Russell, treasurer, Independence.

Elected to the Supreme Court were:

Castleberry Arrested

Police arrested Fred Castleberry, 23, of 522 Sikes Street, on a Scott County warrant charging him with writing a no-account check May 29 for $4.67 to the Walker's Super Market.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick said Castleberry is to appear in Magistrate Court Tuesday to face the charge.

He is presently in the Sikeston jail, but was expected to be turned over to Scott County authorities today.

Morton Calls for 'Sense of Purpose' In Viet Nam War

LEXINGTON, Ky. AP -- Sen. Thruston Morton, R-Ky., called Thursday night for President Johnson to "give the American people a sense of purpose" in the Viet Nam war.

Former President Harry S. Truman "gave a sense of purpose to the Korean War," Morton said. "There is none today."

Morton also told the Kentucky Federation of Republican Women the United States should cut off oil going to North Viet Nam.

Referring to a Polish tanker allowed to deliver its cargo to Haiphong, he said, "we control the sea but don't do a thing about it.

"With 250,000 boys under fire, we should not be afraid to do something," he said.

Housetrailer Rolls Down Levee

The only area highway accident occurred Thursday at 3 p.m. three miles east of Wyatt on highway 60.

A 1964 Ford, driven by Almeda Presley, 42, Sikeston, was pulling a housetrailer, when the trailer slipped off the edge of the pavement, causing it to run to the opposite side of the highway and down levee embankment and overturn. There were no injuries.

Shippers Object To Railroad Plan For Agents

CHARLESTON -- The City of Charleston Chamber of Commerce and local shippers and receivers of carload freight agreed at a committee meeting Friday afternoon to protest the abandonment of permanent and continuous agent service by the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Members of the group included chairman, David Rolwing; Jack Carson, P. J. Ponder, James B. Moran, Art Wallhausen Sr., and A. E. O'Hara, freight consultant for the Mid-South Soybean and Grain Shippers Association.

Major shippers listed by the committee include: S & S Grain, Ralph Carson Co., R. C. Davis, Cotton and Grain Co., Rolwing-Moxley Co., National Compress and Warehouse Co., and McBride Cooperage Co. Major receivers include Monsanto. Graham Brothers, Enterprise-Courier, implement dealers Bock Oil Co., Robinson Lumber Co., Terrell Lime Co., Martin Oil Co., Subsidy Commodity Program and several others.

The group voted to retain Attorney W. C. Banta.

Discuss Vegetable Crops For SEMO

GIDEON -- Vegetable production and processing for Southeast Missouri was the topic of discussion at a meeting of six Bootheel county extension directors and five other agricultural specialists and officials at a meeting conducted at noon Friday at the Sherman Hotel in Gideon.

Present for the discussion session were Henry DiCarlo, area horticulturist, and B. W. Harrison, district extension director of the Delta Research Center at Portageville; Carl Anderson, a member of the Missouri Commerce and Industrial Commission, and Maxwell Williams of Gideon; Bratton Wallace of Caruth, a former official of the Missouri Department of Agriculture; and the six county agents: Dr. Marvin C. Dobbs of Dunklin County, Bert Robbins of New Madrid, Tom Stroup of Scott, Glenn Patton of Mississippi and Tom Brown of Stoddard.

Used as a guide in the discussion was a booklet "Fruits and Vegetables for the Delta" written by James L. Pearson and Thomas G. Brown on the economic feasibility of commercial fruit and vegetable production and processing in the Missouri Delta region.

A copy of this booklet is being mailed to approximately 3000 fruit and vegetable processors in the United States in an effort to attract this type of industry to the Delta region. The group selected the Missouri Delta Corporation to serve as the contact organization for processors who make inquiry about the feasibility of growing vegetables in this area or in location processing plants here.

This area, which has been traditionally, a cotton growing region, is undergoing rapid changes as a result of new governmental farm programs. A major problem is the scarcity of jobs available, particularly for the seasonal day laborer, because of the rapid adoption of mechanical cotton pickers and improved herbicides for the eradication of weeds and grass in cotton fields.

The Missouri Delta, the agents and specialists agreed, has the resources for vegetable processing. The issue before the group was the feasibility of producing fruits and vegetables in the area and the practicability of establishing one or more processing plants.

The study made in cooperation with the Economic Research Service revealed that the annual output of a proposed freezing plant would be 14,475,000 pounds while the output of a canning plant would be 966,287 cases equivalents of 24 number 303 cans.

Capital requirements for the freezing plant would be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 for buildings and equipment and $1,165,000 for operating needs. The canning plant would require $693,148 for buildings and equipment and $855,000 for operating capital. It was estimated that net profit, after taxes, would be $126,943 for the freezing plant and $56,846 for the canning plant.

The freezing plant would need to employ approximately 62 seasonal laborers and 33 full-time employees, including management, with an annual payroll of $285,990. The canning plant would employ 88 seasonal laborers and 18 full-time employees, including management, with an annual payroll of $244,398.

It was also estimated that production of the necessary vegetable raw materials would increase net and gross farm income of the area by almost $75,000 and $595,000 respectively.

An organization for the specific purpose of promoting this vegetable project is expected to be perfected in the very near future. The organization would, in all probability, make application for funds to promote the project through the Missouri Delta Development Corp. to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Property Assessed Week of July 11

Church 260 Years Old

ZUNI, N. M. AP -- Zuni tribal and church officials have announced plans to restore the old Zuni mission church, believed to have been built about 1700.

The Zuni Tribal Council and the Franciscan Fathers of St. Anthony Roman Catholic mission estimate the cost of the restoration at $100,000.

Four Youth Corps Projects Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Labor today announced approval of four Missouri Neighborhood Youth Corps projects to provide summer jobs for 944 young people between the ages of 16 and 21.

The department will allocate $427,880 for its 90 per cent of the cost.

Largest of the projects is one at Jefferson City where 500 enrollees will work for state agencies. It is a project of the Missouri State Human Resources Corp., a non-profit organization. The federal allocation for the project is $219,400.

The Economic Opportunity Corp. of Greater St. Joseph was granted $131,770 for a project handling 288 enrollees.

The Bollinger County Economic Corp. Marble Hill, was allocated $37,550 to provide jobs for 78. The Perry County Economic Opportunity Corp., at Perryville, was granted $38,160, for a 78-enrollee project.

The department also announced approval of an on-the-job training project for four auto stock clerks at Chillicothe. They will get 26 weeks of training, with the department defraying $1.982 of the outlay for the training. The company, Rupp Brothers Auto Parts Co., will pay wages of more than $5,700.

City Helping With Jobs

Recently, city officials met with 25 leading citizens that live in Sunset, in an effort to ease the unemployment situation in Sikeston.

City Manager Raymert Miller said today that since that meeting, 50 applications have poured into his office offering skills varying from welding to cooking.

Any person needing employment is asked to call Ann Elliott at GR 1-2173.

His Donations Total One Million

Mayor Kendall Sikes, a member of the steering committee for the Missouri Delta Community hospital fund raising drive, announced last night, ladened with emotion, that to continue the drive for the construction of a new wing on the hospital, E. P. Coleman, Jr. has donated $400,000 for the expansion.

Last year Coleman gave $400,000, and $200,000 on the wing that was completed in 1960, making a total contribution of $1,000,000 for hospital improvements that are labeled "essential to the community."

Sikes said there remains $842,500 to be raised locally from people in Sikeston, Scott County, Mississippi County and New Madrid County.

Sikes said when bids for the construction were opened Wednesday, it was learned there was $600,000 more cost than "had been anticipated."

"It was a sad day," Sikes said.

"Mr. Coleman then told the group, 'the new addition can and will be built," Sikes continued.

Total cost of the new wing will be, including housing and equipment, $2,933,000. Boyer Construction Company was awarded a $2,260,000 contract Wednesday night for construction, Sikes said this was the largest single contract awarded in Sikeston history.

Master of ceremonies for the public information dinner held at the high school cafetorium was Dr. Harry E. Goddard of Kennett.

A special report was given by Harold Jones, hospital administrator, who said that hospitals are very complex machines, consisting of many things, personnell, doctors, people, etc.

Coleman followed Jones with a hospital progress report.

"We first applied for funds for a hospital in 1940. We didn't get it. We applied again in 1941 and got it. Before it could be built, however, the war came, and we could not find materials for construction.

"When the war ceased our contract had stopped. I went to New York and got it re-instated. Construction was completed in 1948 with 56 beds.

"In 1959 and 1960, we began a wing with 50 beds. That new facility was filled almost immediately when completed in 1962. This year, patients were in the halls half of the time.

"Wednesday we got a real shock. The contract was awarded for $600,000 more than we anticipated. We had to stop or go. We're gonna go," Coleman concluded.

Guest speaker was Harry Panhorst, administrator for Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. His theme -- "You couldn't make a better investment -- To save a Life."

He stressed that facilities of hospitals will be on trial more than ever now, "with the approach of medicare."

He said Missouri was second only to Iowa in ratio with persons 65 years old and older. He said it would soon be number one.

"A real shock to me was that this hospital here extends over a 25 miles radius and serves 52,000 Missourians," Panhorst said.

Overall construction costs will be $2,933,000. The new facilities will allow an addition of 54 beds, making available beds to 200 patients.

There are 185 employes with an annual payroll of more than construction program would double the employment, "creating a great economic investment to the area."

Construction has begun and is expected to be completed within three years.

Campaign headquarters are in the old Scott County Milling Company Building in downtown Sikeston.

This morning, Coleman, Jones and Panhorst appeared on KFVS-TV television as guests of the Breakfast Show.

For further information concerning the campaign, contact Page Keown, campaign director, GR 1-4882, or write to post office box 606, Sikeston, Mo.

Approves Grant For Charleston

CHARLESTON -- Notice of approval of a $6,439 federal grant by the office of housing and urban development was received here Wednesday by city officials.

The grant will pay two-thirds of a comprehensive 20-year plan for the city of Charleston, including such factors as land-use and zoning, transportation, community facilities, regulatory measures and administration.

The city will pick up the remaining one-third of the plan's cost. The firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, St. Louis, was selected last year as the organization which will make the study of Charleston.

Members of the planning commission, appointed last year, are Chairman Layton Pickard, Miss Frances Daniel, Dick Logan, Bill McNeary, Charles Wright, A. J. "Buck" Drinkwater, and ex-officio member Dick Carr.

Eight Treated For Emergency Wounds

Eight persons were sent to the emergency ward of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Thursday.

Simpson, hit leg on ladder of sliding board; Murlenia Walters, cut on finger on right hand; Lisa Kinder, Painton, fell and cut knee; William E. Williams, metal piece fell on right foot and ankle.

MU Medical Center Granted $406,000

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- Two federal grants of $406,000 have been received by the University of Missouri to complete the Medical Center as it was planned originally more than 10 years ago.

The Division of Research Facilities and Resources of the National Institute of Health approved $207,000 for a three-story addition to the Medical Sciences Building and $199,000 to expand existing research space in the same building.

The university previously had received a state appropriation of $440,000 for the project, contingent on receiving matching funds.

Mississippi County Students Get Degrees

CHARLESTON -- Five Mississippi County students received degrees June 7 from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

From Charleston -- Russell Hugh Graham, Route 1, Doctor of Education; Mary Carla Hough, Bachelor of Arts; and Stephen M. Rolwing, Route 2, B.S. in Mechanical Engineering.

From East Prairie -- John Aycock, 112 West Chestnut, Bachelor of Journalism; and Homer Dearmont Oliver, 210 Williams St., B.S. in Agriculture.

Reverse Psychology

CINCINNATI, Ohio AP -- Maybe it was the heat outside -- 91 degrees -- that had officials in City Hall thinking of the cold days ahead.

They awarded four contracts -- one to buy 4,002 gallons of antifreeze and the others to three companies to buy 2,040 tons of coal.

Oran Man Loses Fight for Life

ST. LOUIS -- A two-month fight for the life of David Hirschowitz, 23, of Oran, at Barnes hospital here was lost when the young man died at 11:47 p.m. Wednesday.

Hirschowitz, critically injured in an automobile accident near Cape Girardeau on Highway 74 on April 23, developed acute kidney failure and was brought to Barnes hospital on April 26 for treatment by one of the hospital's artificial kidneys.

He received 10 treatments from the kidney machine and 30 pints of blood. The complication which eventually caused his death was the development of an antibody in his bloodstream which caused the red cells to clump.

The clumping of the blood cells made it impossible for him to receive kidney machine treatments after last Friday.

His death was attributed to anemia resulting from the blood cell clumping, as diagnosed by Dr. Raymond G. Schultze, who led the renal team treating him.

"It was a difficult fight," he said. "I'm sorry we lost. This is the kind of patient that is usually salvageable, but David just had too many complications."

The case gained publicity when an appeal was made on a St. Louis radio station for contributions to help pay the hospital bill of about $9,000. About $1,285 was sent to the station and additional contributions were made directly to the patient's parents and through the First National Bank of St. Louis.

Born Oct. 23, 1942, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hirschowitz of Oran, who survive.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Jerry Menz, Brigeton, and Miss Golda Hirschowitz, at the home; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Birdie Harris, Aquilla, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Hirschowitz, Oran.

David served four years as a submariner in the Navy, spending much of that time in the Gulf of Tonkin east of Viet Nam. He had attended the Missouri School of Mines (now the University of Missouri) at Rolla and Southeast Missouri State College.

The body will be at the Earl J. Smith Funeral Home at Oran after 7:30 tonight. Funeral services will be Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Oran high school gymnasium with Rabbi Jacob Rold of the Hillel Foundation of Washington University, St. Louis, officiating. Burial will be in Forest Hills Memorial Garden near Morley with military graveside rites by the U. S. Naval Reserve Unit of Cape Girardeau, of which he was a member.

THE COMMUNISTS CONVENE

The Communist Party U.S.A. opened a five-day convention in New York on Wednesday (June 22).

THE COMMUNIST PARTY U.S.A. has become rather camp, like Mah Jngg, snoods, wedgies, Tiffany glass and the Big Apple. It is said that the party could meet in a phone booth and have room to spare. Or that most of its members are undercover F.B.I. men. In other words, no one takes the American Reds very seriously nowadays, except perhaps J. Edgar Hoover and the Reds themselves.

Nevertheless, the Communists are holding a five-day national convention -- the first since 1959 -- at Webster Hall in New York City which started June 22. Gus Hall, identified only as the party's "leading spokesman," addressed the Wednesday evening session, which was open to the public. The remaining meetings are being held behind closed doors.

The usual purpose of a national political convention is to nominate candidates for public office. Chances are that the Communists will run Herbert Aptheker for Congress from a Brooklyn district. Aptheker, the party's leading theoretician, had his passport lifted by the State Department last February after he took an unauthorized trip to North Viet Nam.

A SUPREME COURT decision handed down last Nov. 15 made the Communist Party convention possible. In an 8-0 opinion, the Court reversed Justice Department orders demanding that two party members register with the U. S. Attorney General, as required by the Internal Security Act of 1950. The decision appeared to render the act unenforceable. At least, the Communists seem to think so.

The party has gone steadily downhill since 1945, when it had between 75,000 and 80,000 members. The most generous current estimate of membership is 12,000. While various subversive activities control laws hastened the decline, Joseph Stalin may have delivered the most telling blow.

Earl Browder, purged from the party in 1945, later wrote that Stalin had failed to realize that "The New World was really a NEW world" and that Soviet Marxism needed to be revised accordingly. By halting the process of Americanism within the party, Browder felt, Stalin sentenced communism in this country to "political death."

NOW THE PARTY has undertaken a "new program" which looks suspiciously like a popular front effort. The program, made public last February, calls for an alliance of "the forces arrayed against monopoly" and war. These include "the working class," Negroes, small farmers, small businessmen, intellectuals, professional and young people, members of civil rights and peace movements. Just about everyone except our millionnaires.

In keeping with this approach, the party has invited such groups as Students for a Democratic Society, the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs, and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee to send observers to the New York convention.

It would be surprising indeed if the "new left" heeded the Communist cry for unity. Youthful and almost anarchic in outlook, the new leftist groups tend to regard the Communist Party U.S.A. as a quaint relic from a bygone age. "Don't trust anyone over 30," they say. The native Communist leadership is considerably older than that.

The Colonel said: "There are rare instances of anyone ever having been sorry for keeping still or harming others by silence. Few people have ever been given nervous prostration by living in a house with a silent person. It is the silent girl who gets a husband, and the talk-talk-talker who doesn't. A man's idea of a home is not a place where there is a buzz like a saw mill."

BY PRODUCT: TEACHER ENTHUSIASM, INTEREST

Surprising is the amount of newspaper interest and enthusiasm churned up by teachers getting involved with classroom use of newspapers. Many teachers have used newspapers for many years in simplified ways with multiplied interest to both students and themselves. But showing them new and different ideas whets their creative urge and the results have been terrific. Interested, enthusiastic teachers are better teachers, and this by-product of newspaper-in-the-classroom program is an important plus for school systems and students wherever newspaper-school cooperation brings newspapers into the classroom as a teaching aid. Try it locally and see for yourself!

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Recently a Roman Catholic priest in Chicago called moving traffic violations "one of the new sins that have arisen since Moses received the Ten Commandments."

The Rev. John S. Banahan told a conclave of traffic judges, prosecutors and clergymen that he wished his parishioners would include their "traffic sins" in their confessions.

Dan Hollingsworth, traffic consultant for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, also commented recently on the moral aspect of traffic violations. He said: "The automobile and its use, and our mass attitude toward it, is doing something to our moral fiber, which I contend is worse than our annual toll of 43,000 dead and one and one-half million injured."

Hollingsworth pinpointed the decay in the moral fiber of this nation of drivers as "intolerance" that makes a driver vindictive, aggressive and full of hate for other drivers.

He asked: "If it is too much to ask that we love one another, and if we can't bring ourselves around to even linking one another, could we at least tolerate and cooperate for purely selfish and survival reasons."

The traffic accident situation will continue to worsen, Hollingsworth believes, until people decide they've been to enough funerals, spent enough time in hospital emergency rooms -- until they've become willing to use their votes, knowledge and influence to help correct the situation that permits this "malignancy of morals" to persist.

Disdain for traffic laws, Hollingsworth maintains, is the "situation" that permits the malignancy.

"Law and government," he said, "can call for high standards of moral and ethical conduct in traffic. But, if the majority of the people do not accept it, and support those agencies enforcing it, then that law becomes less effective than no law at all."

WATCH YOUR STATE TAX BOOSTERS

A primary purpose of federal tax reduction, accomplished and projected, is to stimulate the economy by giving people more take-home pay to spend.

But soaring state taxes are undermining that policy to a significant extent.

A U.S. News & World Report article is revealing and sobering. State taxes totaled $24.2 billion in the last fiscal year, a rise of more than $2 billion over the preceding year. So that rise," says the magazine, "siphoned off an amount equal to one third of the $6.5 billion federal tax reduction for individuals on 1964 income."

More, it looks as if the worst is yet to come. Almost all the state legislatures will meet in 1966, and it will be a rare state in which programs for more and higher taxes of varied kinds are not urged.

The moral is plain. The taxpayers, if they are to obtain any real relief, must keep a close and wary eye on the state houses, no less than on the national capitol.

THE PARAMOUNT OBLIGATION

David Lawrence recently wrote in U.S. News & World Report: " . . . no 'great society' will ever be maintained unless individual responsibility is recognized as the paramount obligation of the citizen, even as government expands and population grows."

"Government may guide and help its citizens but cannot supply talent to those who do not have it -- or bestow ambition or initiative or creative ability on those who are not born with these qualities. And the individuals who do have these God-given capacities will not require governmental stimulus as they strive to improve the 'great society' of yesteryears."

This goes to the heart of the matter. Whatever the programs, whatever the dramatic names given to them, they must rely primarily on individual initiative, individual ambition, individual risk taking, and the desire of the individual to progress and to serve. Only in that way can we make material gains without sacrificing those freedoms and spiritual qualities which are the roots of true greatness.

TRUST IS EARNED

The investor-owned utility industry of this country never stands still. It goes steadily ahead, setting new record after new record and providing service of a scope, dependability and economy unequalled anywhere else on earth.

Take, for instance, a few very recent examples out of dozens that could be cited.

A southern utility has applied for a license for the construction and operation of two hydro-electric power developments estimated to cost $84.7 million. A mountain state utility plans to spend $56 million on new construction this year, an increase of some $16 million over 1964. An eastern utility has scheduled capital expenditures of $47 million for 1965, and over the next five years its new plant and expansion costs will total $315 million. In the Southwest, site clearance has begun on an internationally sponsored $25 million nuclear electric power research project in which 17 investor - owned utilities are participating.

So it goes, everywhere in the nation where private enterprise is allowed to produce and distribute power. Technological advances of great importance are constantly being made. And, of no small moment, these utilities -- which pay about 25 cents of every revenue dollar in taxes -- are among the biggest contributors to government at all levels.

The advocates of socialization of the industry are still active as they always have been. But there is no evidence that any substantial part of the public supports them. The investor-owned utilities have earned, and will continue to earn, the public trust.

"Oh, I'm sorry," said the first man.

"You're sorry?!"

WRONG ON EVERY COUNT

The proposal that a tax, in the neighborhood of $100, be imposed on all Americans going abroad, as a means of easing the balance of payments problem, has been given considerable attention. It has brought this report from Newsweek magazine: ". . . the State Department, along with Fed. chairman Martin and other monetary experts, quickly argued that such a move would be ineffective as well as political dynamite. There is only a bare chance that some such tax may be imposed."

One hopes this will prove correct. The arguments against a travel tax are overwhelmingly strong. It would be purely discriminatory and penalize the freedom of movement of American citizens, which is certainly a basic freedom. Its effect on the balance of payments situation would be extremely small at best. And it would be a form of class tax. The well-to-do traveler would not be seriously affected. But it would be a real burden to the growing numbers of people of modest means who now, in this jet age, are able to see some of the world outside our own borders. It would fall with particular weight on the legions of young people who now travel abroad on skin-tight budgets and must make every dollar count.

It would be in direct contradiction also, to the principle underlying the government - supported People-to-People program, which has the laudatory aim of encouraging peoples of all the nations to learn more about each other, as a means of building world understanding and peace. An essential part of such a program, surely, is the stimulation of travel.

The travel tax idea is wrong on every count.

Despite all their talk about what a tough time they have, it's probably a lot easier for Congressmen to pass a foreign aid bill than it is for the rest of us to pay for it.

NOT HOW MANY DOCTORS, BUT WHERE?

There may be a shortage of doctors in America -- and for numerous small towns without one at all there is no "maybe" about it -- but the paradox is that the shortage is not as much one of numbers as of distribution.

There were 252,984 physicians in the United States in 1960, or one for every 737 persons. By the end of 1965, the medical population had risen to 293,088, or one for every 681 persons.

This trend is expected to continue, says the American Medical Association. It estimates that by 1975 the number of doctors will total at least 360,000. With a population forecast of 230 million, the doctor-people ratio will thus improve to one physician for every 638 persons.

By 1970, 13 new medical schools will be in operation, making a total of 101. Six others are probable and six more are possible by 1975.

Nevertheless, for a variety of reasons, many rural areas lack enough doctors. To help correct this imbalance between city and country, the AMA has a Physician's Placement Service, which acts as a clearing house for information for doctors seeking a place to practice and for communities looking for a doctor. There are also state medical society placement bureaus and rural health committees tackling the same problem.

In addition, thanks to a Sears-Roebuck Foundation -- AMA program that brings doctors and small towns together, 137 communities which otherwise might not have physicians now have them.

All this is part of the answer. Another part, says the AMA, is men like Walter A. Mendyka, MD., who left a well-established practice in Cleveland and moved his wife and 11 children to a rural town in Maine nearly 1,000 miles away.

"I felt I could be of more use and fill a need for both myself and the community," explains Mendyka. "It was a way I could get that nagging feeling off my mind."

"I've Been Saying That for Centuries, Buster!"

H. L. Hunt Says

FREEDOM FIRST

Across the length and breadth of America more people today are asking themselves and their neighbors, "How do we keep freedom?" They seem to see it slipping away on every side. Sometimes it seems that the more it is discussed, the less of it we have.

The answer to this question is simple. The only way we can keep freedom is to value it more than anything else. That was the fundamental meaning of the watchword of the founders of our nation: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." That was precisely what Benjamin Franklin meant when he said that the Constitutional Convention in 1787 had given the citizens of this nation "a Republic, if you can keep it."

Freedom is always in peril, because it is always in the interest of the power-seekers and the predators to destroy it and seize its fruits. Unless they are restrained by the combination of a united public opinion committed to the moral rightness of freedom, and an equally united public determination to defend liberty at all costs, these power-seekers and predators will prevail.

When any other value is placed ahead of individual liberty, then clever people will at once exploit that supposed superior value and use it as a justification for destroying freedom. If we value "economic security" more than freedom, they will promise us the security of the well-fed prisoner. If we value "humanitarianism" more than freedom, they will introduce forced charity. If we value life itself more than freedom, they will chant "Better Red than dead." If we put freedom first, it will remain there. HLH

Inside Labor

Chief Justice Warren hails FBI crime-fighting record: Says it is achieved despite new freedoms for suspects.

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Before the Supreme Court goes fully out of season, the words spoken recently by Chief Justice Earl Warren about J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation should be cast broadly across the land.

To say the least, when Justice Warren praises the FBI, and when the high bench finds compelling reason to praise such a law enforcement agency, it is record-making news.

While handing down the famous "confession decision" the other day, Justice Warren undoubtedly disappointed some avant garde circles by stating that the FBI "has compiled an exemplary record" in this regard. He was supporting the court's claim that effective law enforcement is possible under the new guidelines for police questioning of suspects.

Justice Warren, a former tough "D. A.," who grilled many criminals himself, pointed out that the FBI advises suspects or arrested persons at the outset of an interview or questioning that they positively are not required to answer or make a statement.

Furthermore, FBI agents point out that any statement given by the suspect may be used in court against him. And that those arrested or questioned may secure a lawyer to secure their rights.

If the suspect indicates, said Mr. Warren, that he wishes an attorney, the FBI agents cease their questioning immediately.

And, added the chief justice, the FBI informs its prisoners or those being questioned that they have the right to free counsel if they are unable to pay for a private lawyer.

One thing has been overlooked -- especially by those who are perpetually emotional in their criticism of the Bureau: Justice Warren pointedly said the FBI had demonstrated that a regard for the rights of the accused can nevertheless produce "an admirable record of law enforcement."

As a newsman who has wandered in and out of Scotland Yard, Interpol, the Surete, the Carabinieri and even special police agencies in Tokyo and Yokohama, I can testify to the FBI's more scientific techniques, to its respect for suspect which exceeds that of any other national law agency and to its "admirable record."

It is worth looking at the record. In the 1965 appropriation report to Congress, Director Hoover noted that in 1964 the FBI brought 13,383 persons to trial. Of these there were 12,921 convictions. This is 96.5 per cent achievement.

And, of these convictions, a total of 91 per cent sprang from guilty pleas. There were 462 acquittals.

The investigative matters received by the Bureau ranged from solving bank robberies, saving businessmen from the mobs' invasion, getting goons off the backs of unions, probing 14 Ku Klux Klan-type organizations with a membership of about 9,000 frequently violent members.

In all, the number of such "investigative matters" totaled 666,982.

It would have been easy to haul in some of the suspects in this vast phalanx of crooks, Communists, racketeers, spies, kidnappers, and bank and auto thieves -- just to name a few. It would have been simple to pressure them. The awe of the FBI's name alone could have cracked the endless chain of the Ten Most Wanted.

But not in a single case did the Bureau use illegal mental or physical muscle. And in some instances, it must have been tempting.

There are the Kluxer terrorists.

There is the Midwestern Syndicate hood who owns seemingly legitimate businesses, including a produce distributorship, a bakery, a race track, a bus line, a real estate firm and a restaurant. At each point his muscled "enforcers" deprive legitimate businessmen of their rights to compete.

It must have been tempting to push just a little harder against the line of the law when such spies as John W. Butenko, an electronics engineer, and Igor A. Ivanov, a Russian chauffeur for the Amtorg Trading Corp., were picked up red-handed in a New Jersey suburb. They were accorded the same rights as someone stealing a nickel stamp.

There are a thousand such men who daily threaten the security of the land and the inherent rights of millions in the citizenry.

But the Bureau is battling for those rights without abusing anyone's rights, says Chief Justice Warren.

It is an accolade from a man deeply admired by the Bureau's sharpest critics. It should not go unobserved.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Working quietly backstage, the auto lobby has made amazing progress in the House Commerce Committee toward gutting the auto safety bill.

Detroit's chief weapon has been the National Auto Dealers Association and its members. It's an election year, congressmen need campaign funds, and the combination of this plus astute salesmanship has caused the auto dealers to brag that they have the staggers committee all sewed up.

The bill the committee is reporting out is milk - and - water compared to the tougher senate bill when it comes to setting safety standards which the automobile industry must follow.

The key congressmen whom the auto lobbyists claim to have wrapped up are: Walter Rogers, Tex., Democrat; Glenn Cunningham, Neb., Albert Watson, S.C., James Harvey, Mich., Arthur Younger, Calif., all Republicans, with support from most of the other Republicans on the committee.

Rogers of Pampa, Tex., incidentally, is the Democrat who has gone to bat for Madison Avenue to champion unregulated cigaret advertising and the TV networks' demand that they be free to glut the airways with commercials. So it's not surprising that Rogers is for the auto industry lobby, which is a long way from Pampa, Tex.

It's also not surprising that Rep. Cunningham of Omaha is for the auto lobby. Though George Meany and the AFL consistently endorse him, Cunningham votes for almost everything labor is against, except the Taft - Hartley Act.

PRO-SAFETY CONGRESSMEN

Congressmen who are for strong safety standards for the auto industry include Torbert MacDonald, Mass., John Moss, Calif., Lionel Van Deerlin, Calif., John M. Murphy, N. Y., Olive Huot, N. H., Charles Farnsley, Ky., and James MacKay, Ga., all Democrats. However, they are unorganized and handicapped by the fact that the committee staff, William Dickson and Charles Stevenson, are apathetic and seem influenced by the auto dealers lobby.

Kindly Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., appears bewildered by the controversy, hasn't taken a strong stand as did Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Magnuson, with the help of other senators, took the weak Johnson Administration Bill and put teeth in it. Knowing the makeup of the senate committee, the auto dealers didn't waste time lobbying on the senate side. They concentrated on the weaker house committee and achieved results.

The auto lobby has been aided, indirectly, by the lackadaisical attitude to White House Aide Joseph A. Califano, former assistant to Secretary of Defense McNamara, who was sent from the Pentagon to the White House to help the President. Califano can be a ball of fire when he is bucking the big aluminum companies or passing a mass transportation bill. He's resting on his oars, however, regarding auto safety.

Congressmen know that when LBJ really wants a bill passed he turns on the heat. They get the cue immediately.

As a result of Califano's lethargy, they figure the White House isn't much interested in auto safety.

The House Commerce Committee has even killed the tire-safety bill passed by the Senate Commerce Committee. Rep. Staggers and his staff, apparently unworried about wrecks from blowouts on the highway, won't even report the tire bill out of the committee.

If the house succeeds in putting across its version of the auto safety bill, congress will be handing the executive branch of the government a lot of responsibility with little authority to enforce it -- which is what leads to public disillusionment with government.

A CONGRESSMAN SWINGS WILD

While Speaker John McCormack refuses to appoint a House Ethics Committee to police the standards of congressmen, the voters of Brooklyn may do their own policing. One of their congressmen, Abe Multer, Democrat,, who has flagrantly ignored ethical standards, is having the election fight of his life.

Abe is the member of the House Banking and Currency Committee who has used this key position to influence his own banking interests. He has invested in banks at the very same time he was passing on banking legislation.

In Brooklyn right now, Multer faces opposition in the Democratic primary from Mel Dubin, a Democratic reform candidate who has the usually benign Multer so scared that he is swinging wild.

Multer is making absurd charges against Dubin, even calling him anti - Jewish, though Dubin is a Jew. Multer or his followers are also resorting to McCarthyism. Recently, plastic tapes have been appearing in Brooklyn with letters on the tape punched out to read: "Mel Dubin is a Commie."

Dubin happens to be a solid businessman, a manufacturer of heating radiators.

Note -- Most effective charge Dubin has made against Multer is that he doesn't have an office in his own district. The congressman operates a prosperous law firm in Manhattan.

NEW YORK (AP) —How do you get along with your boss?

There are dozens of newspaper columns that give advice to the lovelorn—few that give advice to the workworn.

This is odd. In a business-oriented civilization such as ours, there must be at least three people who are unhappy in their jobs for every one who is unhappy in love.

The key to success lies in being able to court your boss at least as successfully as you do your wife.

Here are a few tested formulas that should help any ambitious young junior executive to win over his employer:

Try to inherit as much money as possible. A boss is always a bit in awe of any employe who has more money than he—no matter how it was acquired.

When he leaves early for the day, don't take the next elevator down yourself. He may have forgotten something, come back and find you gone.

If you get a really creative new idea, avoid presenting it as your own. Tell him apologetically, "Chief, I really stole this one from you, but why don't we—"

If he breaks down and gives his secretary a $1.50 box of candy on her birthday, let him believe you think he's "just a sentimental old pirate." That's how all bosses like to regard themselves.

Smile appreciatively at his jokes, but don't give him a belly laugh or a slap on the back. Such gestures are made only by hopeless underlings.

Avoid drinking with him at office parties when he is being a good fellow with the mob. If he wants to have a drink with you, let him take you to lunch or invite you to his home or club.

Never, never try to butter up your boss's wife. That's a job for your own wife, and she probably knows how to do it better than you.

Should the "old man" have to go to a hospital don't send him a funny get-well card as soon as he comes out of the anesthetic. Bosses want to be missed. Make up an emergency and phone him for help. Tell him the place will fall apart if he doesn't get back soon.

When you let him beat you at golf, don't be a good sport about it. Show some temper. Gripe at him, break a club around a tree, accuse him of cheating. Businessmen don't enjoy beating good losers. They like to beat a loser who shows his wounds.

Sooner or later, and probably later, he will give you a raise. Be sure to thank him, but in away that shows disappointment as well as gratitude. If you wag your tail too enthusiastically, he may get the idea that he's paying as much for your talent as it's really worth to him. No boss likes to feel he's doing that for an employe; it makes him look like a bad bargainer.

As a last resort, of course, you can impress your boss by working like a dog and doing your job better than it has ever been done by anyone.

But that does take time—and you may not be that old-fashioned.

Miss Regina Chapman Pledges Vows With Jerry E. Turley

MOREHOUSE -- Miss Regina Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Chapman, and Jerry E. Turley of Florrissant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Turley of East Prairie, were married on Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church. The Rev. James Estep officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with an arched candelabra in the center and tiered candelabrum on either side along with baskets of white gladioli. The candles were lighted by Master Dennis Turley of East Prairie, brother of the groom, and Miss Jeanine Chapman of Columbia, niece of the bride.

Organ music was played by Mrs. Roberta Hubbs of Sikeston as the guests were seated. She also accompanied Mrs. Berta Jane Jones, vocalist, who sang "Because," "With This Ring," and the "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt.

Chapman escorted his only daughter down a white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. The bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of angel-skin peau de soie featuring a beaded bodice with an arched midriff and long tapered sleeves. The skirt, a slender silhouette emphasizing simple elegance, was enhanced by an overskirt that swept into a chapel train. Her veil was of imported silk illusion, secured to a crown of orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white carnations, and she completed her ensemble with white satin shoes.

Mrs. Billie Chapman of Columbia served as matron of honor for her sister-in-law. Bridesmaids were Misses Jennifer Puckett of Sikeston and Mary Rowell of Morehouse.

Little Michelle and Rene Chapman of Columbia, nieces of the bride, serving as flower girls, carried little baskets and dropped roses in the path of the bride.

All of the bride's attendants were dressed in floor-length dresses of pink dotted Swiss over solid pink dacron polyester with cummerbunds of deep pink organdy. Their headdresses were crowns of pink tulle, secured to organdy bows with nose tip veils. The matron of honor and bridesmaids all carried long stemmed pink rose buds. The rest of the bridal party had pink carnation corsages.

Mrs. Chapman, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a turquoise silk shantung two-piece suit with accessories tinted to match, white gloves and a white carnation corsage completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Turley chose for her son's wedding, a beige Irish linen dress with beige lace top, beige accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The table was decorated with pink satin covered in pink tulle which was secured at vantage points by large pink bows, carrying out the bride's chosen colors of two shades of pink. In the center of the table was a four tiered wedding cake and lighted tapers in silver holders were on either side. On one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and on the other end a silver coffee service.

Miss Patsy McWilliams served at the punch bowl, Mary Gruen attended the silver coffee service and Mrs. Joe Barnett served the cake. Attending at the bride's guest book was Mrs. Aimee Sailors. All of the ladies wore pink carnation corsages to complement their attire.

After changing to a beige knit suit and brown accessories, the bride pinned an orchid corsage to her suit. The couple left for a trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, after which they will be at home at 625 North Florissant Road in Florissant.

The bride formerly was a case worker for Scott County Welfare Office and she will be transferred to St. Charles County Welfare Office in St. Charles where she will continue to work. Turley is employed as a state highway patrolman working out of Kirkwood.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman entertained with a rehearsal dinner at the Mid-towner restaurant in Sikeston with all of the bridal party in attendance and also the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Ethyl Strayer.

Out of town guests attending the Chapman-Turley wedding were:

Peggy Bohannon Is Bride Of Richard W. Decker

MATTHEWS -- The Christ Lutheran church was the scene Sunday at 3 p.m. of the wedding of Miss Peggy Sue Bohannon and Sp-4 Richard W. Decker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carp Bohannon and the groom is the son of Mrs. Virble Decker and the late Mr. Decker.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a white taffeta gown that was styled with a pleated nylon skirt and accented with white lace at the bodice. She wore a small white circlet headpiece and veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of miniature white carnations. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's attendant was Miss Francis Decker, sister of the groom. She wore a blue taffeta dress overlaid with white dotted net, a small blue satin circlet to which a blue satin cabbage rose was attached. The headpiece was encircled with a blue veil. She carried white carnations.

Virgil Burks of Sikeston, a friend of the groom, was best man.

The Rev. Fred Decker, pastor of the church, read the vows of the single ring ceremony.

Miss Kathryn Clark of Sikeston, organist, played the nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Soloist Mrs. Theodore Seabaugh of Charleston, who sang "Oh Perfect Love."

The bride's mother was attired in a blue print dress and wore a red rose bud corsage. The groom's mother wore a green print dress and an orchid corsage.

The reception for relatives and friends was held in the church parlor. The serving table was overlaid with a white linen cloth trimmed with blue lovers' knots and blue flowers. The table was centered with the wedding cake.

Around the cake were wedding bells. The cake was served ding bells. The cake was served by Mrs. Nora Bohannon, aunt of the bride, and punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Louise Curtis and Mrs. Jewell Gaines.

13 Get Licenses At New Madrid

NEW MADRID -- Of the 26 people taking the driver license examinations Friday in New Madrid, 13 passed and qualified. There were seven who failed the written test and six who faltered on the road test for a total of 13 failures.

Many of these take the examination a second time, then fully qualify.

Now entitled to operator's license are eight persons' Johnny P. Spradling, Gwendolyn L. Walton, Charles E. Graham, Dulce R. Whittaker, Vertie L. Eppoleto, Landa L. Hicks, Abe C. Dukes, Gary W. Loomis.

Four became eligible for instruction permits: Kenneth A. Kell, Lelia F. Wade, Orssie L. Jenkins and Larry D. Yarbro. One person, Robert A. Blom earned a chauffeur license.

Kinds of Thermometers

Did you know there's a roast meat thermometer as well as one especially designed to indicate cooking temperature when grilling meats?

Roast meat thermometers, which indicate the internal temperature or doneness of meat, are better known, of course, than those for grilling.

Many are purchasing thermometers for their grills to make sure certain foods are not cooked at too high a temperature.

McKNIGHT KEATON WILL BE CLOSED: JULY 2nd THROUGH JULY 10th

It is AGAIN time for summer vacations -- and INVENTORY.
During this period there will be no one in the warehouse (except the watchman) -- NOR IN THE OFFICE -- to "wait on the trade."
We will SINCERELY APPRECIATE it if you will CHECK YOUR NEEDS CLOSELY, make up your want list very carefully, and have it ready for our salesman when he calls the week of June 27th.
We do not want our closing to "put you out" in the least, -- hence, this request. Your help will be greatly appreciated.

ACTION CAN be as exciting in the Dexter Civic League as in any major league game, as this unsuccessful attempt to steal home shows.

THE CATCHER'S equipment is furnished by the league. Tommy Edwards, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Edwards, is the catcher for the Coffey Camp team in the Dexter Civic League. He is a fifth grader at Central elementary school.

Dexter Baseball Program.. A Total Community Effort

DEXTER -- A major factor for the low juvenile crime rate at Dexter is the summer baseball program for boys, Charles Bland, commissioner of the boys' leagues, commented.

"When you keep about 230 boys busy playing baseball, they are bound to stay out of trouble," he said.

Dexter's baseball program serves boys in four age groups:

Civic league -- age 9-10, with six teams.

Little league -- age 11-12, with six teams.

Babe Ruth league -- age 13-15, with five teams.

Connie Mack team -- age 16 to 19.

The Connie Mack team plays in a league composed of teams throughout southeast Missouri.

The program was initiated eight years ago by a small group of men -- including Bland -- who wanted to provide Dexter boys with summer baseball leagues.

Their first goal -- obtaining a tract of land large enough to lay out a baseball field -- was reached when the school system donated a vacant field across from the junior high school.

But the terrain of the field -- which was mostly ditches -- had to be overhauled. This phase of the project gave a preview of the enthusiasm that has been shown by volunteers toward the program throughout its eight-year history, Bland noted.

Construction firms donated labor and bulldozers to clear and level the land, and the school donated about $1,000 worth of labor, Bland explained. Lighting for the field was acquired through contributions from citizens, and Missouri Utilities Co. installed the lights free of charge.

Bleacher seats and materials for a concession stand and dugouts were donated, and the stone blocks were installed free of charge.

Later a fence was built around the outfield to keep the baseballs from going into the street. This fence was financed partly by money taken in from concession stand sales, Bland said. The Dexter Garden Club and some of the boys have lined the fence with rosebushes to beautify the field.

At first the baseball program was financed through the sale of stickers but is now financed to a great extent through the United Fund. The program is allocated $1300 to $1500 each year by the United Fund, Bland explained.

Much of the equipment, such as bats, baseballs, catcher's paraphernalia, is furnished for the boys. Players must furnish their own shoes and gloves, he explained, and merchants -- who sponsor the teams -- supply the uniforms.

Team managers are usually parents of the boys playing in the leagues; umpires -- who are paid $1 a game -- are older boys playing in the baseball program. Other paid personnel are a scorekeeper and a boy who cleans up the park after each game, limes the baselines and puts out the bases.

To insure that the loss of baseballs is kept at a minimum, each youngster is given a free soft drink for every foul ball he retrieves, Bland added.

Any boy living in the Dexter school district or the Dexter trade area and who meets the age requirement is eligible to participate in the program, the commissioner noted. Desire, not skill, is a prime prerequisite; skill can be developed as the boy progresses in the program.

Games are played Monday through Saturday -- two games a night -- with each team playing twice a week, Bland said. There are 13 boys on each team, and every boy plays at least two innings a game. The season lasts from June 1 to August 1.

For the player's protection, he is required to wear a batting helmet while at bat and when he is a baserunner. The dugouts are also fenced in to protect the boys from being hit by foul balls.

The program is run by a board headed by Bland. Others on the board are William and Henry McCarty, Morman Lowes and Marsh Watkins. Bill Lee, who was on the board, recently moved to Florida.

In evaluating the program, Bland sited it as the primary reason for Dexter high school's outstanding football teams. The program, he explained, gets boys interested in sports and prepares them for the high school competition.

The program also brings out the cooperation of the adults. Parents are enthusiastic followers of the game, and are usually overcritical of the play of their own sons.

The games afford young couples a place to get together and have a good time, he added. And, of course, those boys who play in the leagues benefit the most because they develop the spirit of competition and teamwork.

The Cardinals have signed two more of their choices in the recent free - agent draft, including their No. 2 pick, Dan Barrett of Hillcrest High School of Springfield, Missouri, it was announced today by Director of Scouting George Silvey.

Barrett, an 18-year-old shortstop, and Eddie Dixon, a 19-year-old pitcher - third baseman, are to report to Sarasota, Florida, of the Gulf Coast League.

Barrett was signed by Scout Runt Marr, and scouted by several other Cardinal officials. Scout Joe Monahan says "he's big and strong, has all-around ability", while Marr says "he has the tools to go all the way to the majors."

Barrett is six feet, one inch, weighs 195 and lives at Springfield. Dixon, who lives at Rockford, Tennessee, was signed by Scout Eddie Lyons. He is 6 feet, 1 inch tall, weighs 183, and attended Hiwassee Junior College.

Gibson Wins Eleventh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Athletics had the day off but the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson had to work hard last night for a 2-1 win over the pesky Houston Astros.

The big right hander scored his 11th win against six losses with a neat four hitter in which he fanned four to up his major league leading strike out total to 139.

Phil Gagliano, subbing for the injured Charley Smith at third base, broke up a 1-1 game in the eighth when he singled home Lou Brock who had tripled. The hit was off starter Dave Giusti, who incurred his fourth loss against nine wins.

The only run off Gibson was unearned. The Astros pushed it across in the fourth when Jim Wynn got on base on an error by Dal Maxvill and scored on the first hit off Gibson, Rusty Staub's single.

The Cardinals tied it in the fifth. Julian Javier got on a via a force out, advanced to third on Maxvill's single and scored on Gibson's force ut.

Nelson Briles K2-5 will pitch for St. Louis tonight at Houston against the Astros' Larry Dierker 3-2.

Kansas City will send Lew Krausse 3-3 against the Indians' John O'Donoghue 5-3 at Cleveland tonight.

Pirates Conducting Tryout Camp

The Pittsburgh Pirates are conducting a tryout camp here today and tomorrow at V. F. W. stadium and will be under the direction of Scouting Supervisor Chet Montgomery.

The Session will start at 9 a.m. and last until about 2 p.m.

Players must be 16 years old to be eligible to attend the camp, and no American Legion players will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any Legion activities. Such participation will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the Commander of the Legion Legion play.

Players are expected to furnish their own shoes, uniforms, gloves, etc., with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment.

Bethune Sets Record

Southpaw Dick Bethune, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bethune, Route two, Bertrand and switch-hitting Jack Fulmer went down in the Liberal Bee Jay record books Sunday night at the Fairgrounds Park when the former bested Tom Sexton of the Colorado Don's 2-1 in one of the top pitching performances ever turned in by a Bee Jay, and the latter poked out his third home run in three nights as Goldie Howard's Hustlers captured the rubber game of the series to run their season record to 8-4.

Bethune the crafty Arkansas State lefty retired 18 men in a row to break Alvis Ballew's consecutive batters retired mark of 17 straight.

Jack Bloomfield

Bloomfield Named To Japanese All-Star Team

TOKYO -- Jack Bloomfield, 36, formerly of Austin, Tex., team, was second in the voting of the Japanese All-Star baseball game to be played July 19.

Bloomfield, whose father, Alfred Bloomfield, was a former resident of Sikeston, has made the Japanese All-Star team the past six years.

Other American players who received votes were Kent Hadley, Norm Larker, Jim Baumer, Mike Kesnich, Carl Boles, Tony Roig, Lou Jackson and Daryl Spencer.

Bloomfield plays second base and was leading the Pacific League in batting with a .357. He played minor league ball in Seattle in the Pacific Coast League, a Cincinnati farm club, and now plays for the Nankai Hawks.

He visited his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Bloomfield, 303 Kendall, during the winter.

Basting Sauces

High sugar or sweetening content in the barbecue sauce? Use it for basting the meat on the out-of-doors grill only during the last hour or the meat surface will turn dark. Sugar causes the sauce to burn easily giving the roast an unpalatable appearance.

There was a time when it was advised that fat edging around steaks and chops be slashed to prevent the meat from curling. This is not necessary if the meat is cooked at a moderate, rather than high, temperature during broiling.

Mechanical Calf Replaces Cow

First they invented the automobile and said, "It'll never replace the horse." Now, they've got a mechanical cutting cow... I predict it'll replace the McCoy . . . at least for eating and milkin!

By RON JAYNES

What is a cutting horse? A cutting horse is a stock horse with an economic value; he can earn his keep at home and then go to a contest and put on a splendid and entertaining performance to the spectators by presenting a colorful picture of range work at its best.

A cutting horse has the value to his owner of entering a herd of cattle, cut an aminal out of the herd without disturbing the other cattle.

Jim Miller, Dexter, Mo., has a unique way of training horses -- he has in use at his ranch a mechanical calf which eliminates the cost of feeding and keeping cattle.

Miller purchased this inexpensive, well not too inexpensive calf, as the market value of one of these critters is around the $2100 mark.

What is a mechanical calf? A replica of a calf on wheels which is operated by radio waves.

Miller works the horses he trains with a radio controlled calf that can maneuver better than a real calf.

He likes to train and show cutting horses, and recently found the cost of cutting cattle a real expense. With his limited pasture to supplement the feed, the bill placed an expensive upkeep which was hard to meet so he supplemented his cattle problem by purchasing the calf.

The mechanized calf is the approximate size, height and weight of a normal 400 pound calf. Two speeds are used -- low and high gear -- and the calf is sturdy enough to support the normal weight of two men. The calf can maneuver in any area, sandy or otherwise, at the speed of an average calf. The calf is operated on 4 batteries; two for high speed and two for low speed.

Miller said he is in the process of changing the sprockets on the wheels, which will enable the calf to work at a much faster rate of speed. The calf cannot be upset or turned over.

Plenty of ranch experience is the background for the development of the good judgment necessary for the cutting horse to work and train in a particular area of cutting in which he is the weakest, and is used to correct older horses of any acquired faults.

Miller and his son Gregg work steadily at training horses. Gregg, 10, is a fine rider. The Millers have been in the horse training business for eight years, and have had the mechanized calf in use for about three months.

The calf will run for 2 1/2 hours steadily and is given a daily feeding of electricity by means of a battery charge.

Miller revised his calf after purchase; he replaced larger rear wheels for the small ones, which seems to help the maneuver ability of the calf.

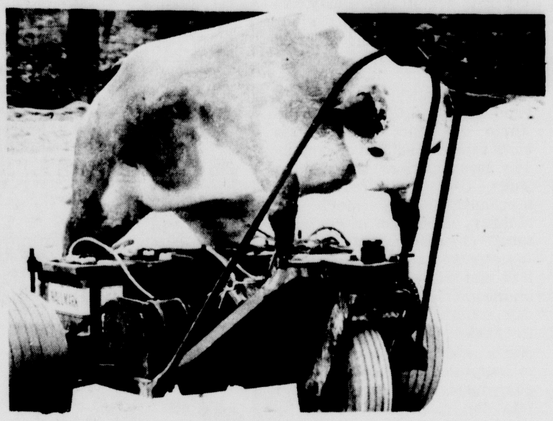
"Missouri is the leading quarter horse State," Miller said. He trains from 10 to 15 quarter horses a year.

"I guarantee that the first time a person operates the calf, he will run it through the fence five or six times during the first week" Miller laughed.

Mrs. Mildred Miller and her daughter Deborah also help in the training program. Mrs. Miller operates the control box while her husband works with the horses, and Deborah helps with the house work while her mother helps her dad.

The cutting horse well deserves the high popularity and favor he had found with the general public, and the mechanized calf has helped in the development of these fine horses.

A great many of the rodeo and horse shows feature cutting horse contests, and the Miller ranch is known for its fine training of cutting horses.



WHICH WAY WILL IT GO? That's what the cutting horse has trouble figuring out, as the calf is radio controlled. The larger wheels were placed on the calf by its owner, Jim Miller. They help the maneuverability of the calf.

THE MECHANIZED CALF is shown above working "Pondie" as she slides to make a quick turn to head off the calf.

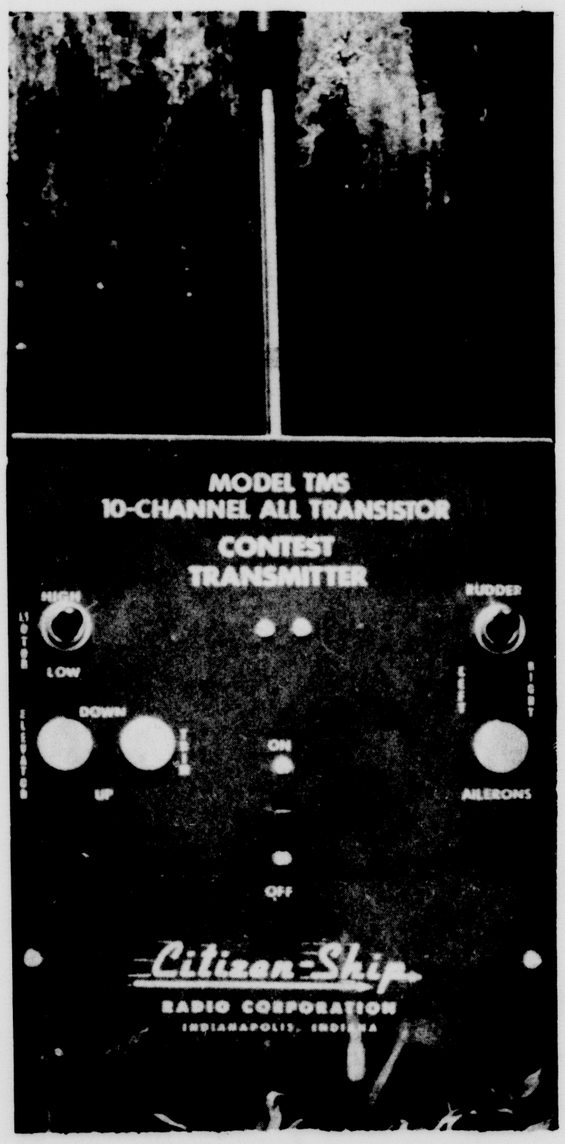
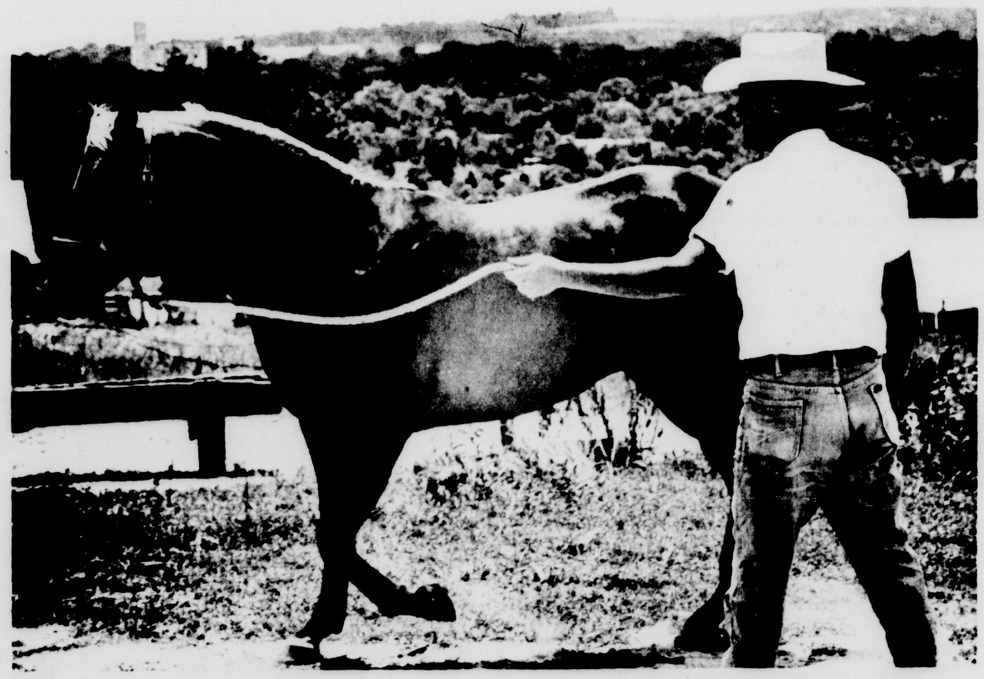
GREGG MILLER rides Retta's Pondie, who is entered in the National Cutting Horse Futurity in Dallas, Tex., this winter. He is shown changing directions as the calf makes a sharp turn.



THE TRANSMITTER on which the calf is operated is simple enough for an eight-year-old child to operate, but the object of the game is how and when to stop the calf.



AFTER A hard afternoon of work, Miller walks his horses around to cool them off.

STOP I SAY! -- The expression on the horse's face shows anger while the calf trys to elude him.

JIM MILLER, owner of the calf, demonstrates the maneuverability of the calf in a small area.

HORSE AND CALF lock eyeballs as the calf can't seem to elude "Starboy's Flirt," who is working without a halter. He is owned by Charles Brandon of Dexter.

RUNNING TO HERD THAT CRITTER, Retta's Pondie ridden by Gregg is keeping the calf from returning to the herd.

New Wheat Program To Aid Producers

"The 1967 wheat program will assure increased production of needed wheat and at the same time will bring producers more income," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said recently in announcing major provisions of the program.

Key factors in the 1967 program are:

1. Price support loan level will be $1.25 per bushel.

2. Domestic marketing certificates on an estimated 520 million bushels will be valued at the difference between full parity as of July 1, 1967 and the $1.25 loan value. (This year's certificate value of the 1966 crop will be about $1.32 per bushel.)

3. Marketing certificates will represent expected production on 40 percent of the participating farms' farm allotments. These allotments will reflect the increased 1967 national allotment of 59.3 million acres, announced earlier this year. (For 1966, the allocation percentage was 45 percent on an effective national allotment of 51.6 million acres.

4. There will be no acreage diversion program for wheat. The Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) as it applies to wheat will be announced later

5. Wheat may continue to be planted on feed grain acreage on farms participating in both programs, and feed grains may be planted on wheat allotment acreage. Producers will be able to substitute wheat for oats and rye on the same basis as in 1966. If barley is included in the 1967 feed grain program, wheat may be substituted as in prior years; if barley is not included, wheat may be substituted for barley in the same way as for oats and rye.

6. A producer will have the option of planting in excess of his wheat allotment (by not more than 50 per cent) and still be eligible for certificates and price - support loans provided the excess production is stored and the farmer meets other terms and conditions similar to those in effect in 1966.

7. Program provisions regarding participation will be the same as in 1966 except that there will be no required or additional diversion.

According to Roy Proctor, Jr., Chairman, Scott County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, farm allotment notices for the 1967 wheat crop will be sent to producers shortly. The county allotment is 24,982 acres.

First Festival For Ste. Genevieve

Ste. Genevieve, Missouri will hold its first annual festival Saturday and Sunday, August 13 and 14. In keeping with the French traditions of the historic town, the festival will be called "Jour de Fete a Ste. Genevieve" (A Day of Celebration in Ste. Genevieve). A wide variety of continuous and special activities is planned for the entire weekend.

High-lighting the program of continuous events will be tours of the many historic buildings and sites in Ste. Genevieve. The more prominent landmarks that will open to the public are the Bolduc House (built in 1770), Amoureaux House (a museum and antique shop), the Old Slave House and Art Gallery, the Green Tree Tavern, the Old Brick House, the Ste. Genevieve Museum, the old cemetery, and the churches of Ste. Genevieve. Other buildings not yet open to the public, but to be included on the tours are: Senator Linn House, Ste. Genevieve Academy, Guibourd House, the Old Convent, the Felix Valle House, J. B. Valle House and the DuFour House.

An Art Show will also be held during the two-day festival. Many amateur and professional artists primarily from Missouri and Illinois will exhibit their works. A wide variety of methods and mediums will appeal to every cultural taste. Craftsmen from the Ozarks are also to be included in the art show.

The city square will be transformed into the village as Ste. Genevieve was in the 1700's. Store windows will display antiques of a bygone era. Storekeepers and the townspeople will dress in costumes of 18th century Ste. Genevieve. There will be a market place with booths offering for sale the products for which Ste. Genevieve is well known; sausage, hams, home-made and home canned foods, hutzelbrot, home-made soap, pecan pralines, etc.

A number of special events are also being planned for the gala celebration. The festival will officially begin with a parade at noon on Saturday, August 13. The parade will feature local bands and floats recalling the history of Ste. Genevieve. Other events scheduled for Saturday afternoon include an auction, with many antiques to be included. A Western Rodeo will revive the Spanish and Wild West days of the town. Largest ever held in the area, the rodeo will include calf roping, bronco riding, steer riding, with lots of excitement. The Saturday evening program will feature the Grand King's Ball, and the appearance of the famous La Guinolee Dancers. For those with German interests, there will be a German Beer Garden on the town square. Sunday morning is reserved for worship services in the city's churches. Sunday afternoon there will be a repeat performance of the Rodeo. The beautiful city park will be another center of activities which will include a concert by the Municipal Band.

For sports enthusiasts, there will be a weekend golf tournament, a boat and water skiing show on the river front, and a swimming exhibition in the municipal pool in the city's newly renovated park.

Food is an important part of any celebration. In addition to Ste. Genevieve's famous restaurants, a number of organizations will offer everything from pop corn and french ice cream to Bar-B-Que and liver dumplings. There will be food aplenty, but lodging facilities are limited. Housing reservations should be procured well in advance.

For those who venture to Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town West of the Mississippi on August 13 and 14 to relive its history, a weekend of fun, excitement, and adventure is in store.

The "Jour de Fete a Ste Genevieve" is being sponsored by the Ste. Genevieve Tourist Bureau with the able assistance of the Ste. Genevieve Community Betterment Committee. For more information, write: Ste. Genevieve Festival Committee, Box 368, Ste. Genevieve, Mo. 63670.

MU Has 6,570 Enrolled In Summer School

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- The University of Missouri Summer Sesson had 6,570 students enrolled as of June 21, an increase from 6,311 of a year ago, Chancellor John W. Schwada announced today.

Of the total, 5,527 are taking courses on the campus here and 1,043 are enrolled in off-campus classes at six different sites.

Dr. C. W. McLane, director of admissions and registrar, said that nine divisions show increases and three have fewer students than last year. The Graduate School, with 3,860 enrolled in comparison with 3,656 a year ago, remained the largest division and accounted for more than half the total enrollment.

Dr. McLane said that enrollment is essentially completed but that a few late registrants will increase the final total.

The enrollment by divisions includes:

College of Agriculture 113, an increase from 103 a year ago; School of Forestry 50, an increase from 43; School of Home Economics 101, an increase from 81; College of Arts and Science 845, an increase from 819; College of Education 764, a decrease from 781; College of Engineering 270, an increase from 265; School of Nursing 112, an increase from 87; School of Business and Public Administration 195, an increase from 182; School of Journalism 88, an increase from 73; School of Law 58, a decrease from 59; School of Medicine 152, a decrease from 154; Non-collegiate 2, a decrease from 64.

Meanwhile at off-campus centers, the University has graduate student enrollment of 330; at Southwest Missouri State at Springfield, an increase from 303; 102 at Southeast Missouri State at Cape Girardeau, a decrease from 262; 195 at Northwest Missouri State at Maryvillem an increase from 183; 310 at the Universtiy of Missouri at St. Louis, an increase from 126; 82 at Whiteman Air Force Base, a decrease from 87; and 24 in social work in Kansas City, unchanged. The program at Cape Girardeau is being phased out this year and the public administration studies at Kansas City, which had 18 enrolled a year ago, is now counted as Extension Division enrollment.

All divisions on the campus except the School of Veterinary Medicine have students enrolled for summer studies.

The figures indicate 287 freshmen, 404 sophomores, 638 juniors and 1,033 seniors are among the summer students, with the total expanded by the graduate students, law, medicine, arts and education students beyond their fourth years of study, and 105 unclassified as to classes.

Long Praises House

U. S. Senator Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), in the Senate Monday, praised the House for the afternoon's passage of the Freedom of Information Bill, calling it an "historic victory for the public's constitutional right to know what their government is doing."

"The public has a constitutional right to know about the operations and activities of their government," Senator Long said. "I am pleased to report that this right has been recognized, and I hope that President Johnson soon will sign this very important bill into law."

"The struggle for Freedom of Information has been a long and difficult one," Senator Long said.

The Senate passed, in the 88th Congress, an almost indentical bill introduced by Senator Long. Congressman John E. Moss (D-Cal.) joined Senator Long in introduction of companion measures at the beginning of the 89th Congress. The Senate responded to Senator Long's urgings by again passing the bill in the first session of the 89th last year. The Senator congratulated Congressman Moss for his skillful handling of the bill in the House and for his outstanding record in fighting for Freedom of Information.

Hearings on the bill were held before Senator Long's Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure and Congressman Moss' Subcommittee on Government Information.

The Freedom of Information bill provides that all government records are to be made available to anyone except for a new specific categories of records which are exempted from disclosure. Among these are records dealing with the national security, records already exempted from disclosure by other statutes, and trade secrets which are immune to public disclosure.

Senator Long pointed out that an important section of the law is the provision which enables any aggrieved person to go into court and seek an injunction against an agency's withholding of its records. Burden of proof is on the agency to show why the records must be withheld.

Two Missouri Pigs Going To Mayo Clinic

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- A couple of Universtiy fo Missouri pigs are going, not to market, but to the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Creighton N. Cornell, assistant professor of agricultural chemistry, is seeing to it that the pigs get to the famous medical center where they will become a part of a joint study concerning an uncontrolled bleeding condition similar to hemophilia.

The University owns the only head of hemophiliac swine in the world, and since 1938 the hogs have been the subject of numerous investigations designed to study the blood coagulation mechanism. Dr. Merle E. Muhrer, professor of agricultural chemistry, is principal investigator on the swine project and will inspect the Mayo studies.

Dr. Cornell's reports from Rochester, Minn., are that the Mayo staff intends to attempt to separate and purify a blood component which when infused into the pigs will produce a response that will favorably affect this bleeding disorder. If successful, such a product would be useful in treatment of human beings.

University scientists had planned an experiment of this type until they learned that May's, with its staff of veterinarians and scientists, were well along with a similar project, except for the swine. The University was quick to agree to furnish pigs for the experiment.

The Mayo clinic is expected to return the two pigs it is borrowing at the end of the experiments during the summer.

The M. U. herd is located at the Environmental Health Center research farm where physicians, veterinarians and chemists use a multi-disciplined approach to studies on the unique hogs.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

Bob Savage, a Protestant, was stirred to action on his deep seated concern for the plight of the American Indian when he received a plea from the Holy Rosary Indian Mission at Pine Ridge, S.D., for help on promotion and fund raising.

This was for the largest private Indian boarding school in the country, with more than 500 students. Savage, a veteran Omaha, Neb., advertising man, visited the mission and lost his heart to the boys and girls and to the Jesuit fathers in charge. He became so involved that he resigned three years ago as president of his agency so that he could devote all his time to the important account in his life.

His goal, like that of the mission on the Oglala Sioux reservation and the Jesuits and the Franciscan nuns who teach there, is to help give America's first citizens the opportunities long denied them.

Q—What was indicated by the early coins of China?

A—The early makers of coins in China shaped each coin to show what could be bought with it. For example, coins shaped like the human body were called "dress money" and were used to buy clothing.

#35 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area.

THIS WEEK SALUTING ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH

Msgr. Walter J. McGrane

THE ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY

In the first millenium of Christianity, the people for the most part, dwelt on the land as serfs. Their needs, physical and spiritual, were taken care of by the Nobles who represented the Kings. After the Crusades there began a migration away from the land and into the cities which were building up. These cities were the centers of education and culture and particularly the crafts from which were formed the Guilds.

Just as it is a problem today, the urban migration brought on the social unrest due to crowding and poverty. It was the Church then, that met the needs of the people. Now began the teaching orders of the Church. Hospitals were established and as nurses, it was the Religious Orders that supplied their nuns.

One of the best known of these orders of Nursing Sisters was founded by St. Vincent De Paul of Paris during the plague which brought such misery to this already great city in the 16th century. Vincent, a Parish priest, finding so many ill and unattended in the ghettos gathered together a group of woman from among the rich and well-to-do and brought them into the homes of the poor to supply as nurses. Many of these women were of noble birth and titled. So blessed was the work that after the emergency they banded themselves together under the title of the Daughters of Charity, took the vows of Religion and became the great order of Nursing Sisters who today are on every continent.

It was these sisters who came to the battlefield of Gettysburg from their convent in nearby Emmittsburg to nurse the wounded of both sides. It was these nuns who nursed in the cholera plague in New Orleans in the early 19th century. They may be seen on the streets of all the great cities of the world.

Since the poor and the destitute turned to the Church for help, the Parishes organized a group of laymen to give aid and help. The group took the name of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. Their work was a spiritual one as well as a material one, as they were motivated by Charity and love of God and Man. They would go to the homes where help was needed. These groups began to function directly under their founder in Paris and then spread quickly throughout Europe.

The first Council of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul was founded in the U.S. at St. Louis in 1846 at the Old Cathedral Parish.

It is difficult for us today, with our highly organized Poverty program under the supervision of the Federal Government, to think that until the middle 1930's this was done mostly by Church and Church affiliated organizations. The motivation of these people was the love of God and to see Him in every man. Our Blessed Lord gave us this motivation when in a parable concerning the Kingdom of Heaven, He likened it to a King who separated the sheep from the goats and to those on his right the King said according to the gospel of Matthews, 6th chapter, "Come O blessed of my Father inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for when I was hungry you fed me, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me." The righteous will answer 'Lord, when did we feed you and give you drink? And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? And sick and comfort you, and in prison and visit you. And the King will answer them, "Truly I say to you, as you did it unto the least of these my brethren, you did it to me.'"

This is the commandment that our Lord gave to His apostles as He left them after the Pascal feast. We can imagine Him turning to them as He looks upon them for the last time before His death, "This commandment I give you, That you love one another."

Mrs. David Wolfe Wigdor

Alexandra Joy Kent Exchanges Vows With David W. Wigdor

WARSON WOODS -- In a candlelight ceremony Miss Alexandra Joy Kent became the bride of David Wolfe Wigdor on June 11, 5 p.m. at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Kent, 831 Jamaica Court. The Rev. Roy Ostenson, pastor of St. Matthew's Espicopal church officiated. Wigdor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Wigdor of Charleston.

The vows were exchanged before two white pedestals topped with an arrangement of white Emperor daisies, white stock and smilax. On either side were seven-branched candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers. Mrs. J. Frazier, organist played pre-nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length wedding gown, of re-embroidered organdy over silk peau de soie, featuring bell sleeves, elbow length. The gown was sashed in satin with tailored bow. Her short veil was held in place by a topknot of silk daisies. The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies with satin streamers.

Mrs. Marvin Parker of Springfield, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore an afternoon dress of blue empire crepe with white lace bodice. Her headdress was of blue net, held in place by a silk Dior bow.

Theodore Slein of St. Louis served as best man.

Mrs. Kent, mother of the bride, wore an afternoon dress of pale pink silk organza over satin with a square neckline outlined with Alencon lace and sashed in pink peau de soie. Her shoulder corsage was of white roses. Mrs. Wigdor, mother of the bridegroom, wore an aquamarine dress with short sleeves and lace bodice. She also wore a corsage of white roses.

Immediately after the wedding, hors d'oeuvres were served with punch. A wedding dinner followed at 7 p.m. at the Blu Top Restaurant.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wigdor returned to Columbia, where Wigdor will continue studies for his Ph. D. degree in history. Mrs. Wigdor will teach history at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, this fall. They will be at home at 100 Pannell, Columbia. The bride received her B. A. degree in Modern European History at Missouri University where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and received a Gregory Fellowship. She was done graduate work in Modern European History at the Goethe Institute in West Berlin and at the University of Berlin.

Wigdor received his B. A. and M. A. degrees from Missouri University in American history. He was elected a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa and was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He is an instructor in the history department working toward his degree in legal history. He was recently awarded a Gregory Fellowship.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Jasper, East Prairie; Mrs. John Cornick, Mt. Carmel, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kohn, Hayti; Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Parker, Springfield, and their two daughters, Kristin and Jennifer; Mr. and Mrs. Sid Axelbaum and children, Elsie and Eric; and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel I. Kohn and children Diane and David; and Peter Heinze of Berlin, Germany, a graduate student at Missouri U.

A pre-wedding dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel I. Kohn and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Axelbaum, cousins of the bridegroom, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kohn in Olivette Friday evening at 7 p.m.

Guests were Mrs. Bell Cornick of Mt. Carmel, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kohn of Hayti, Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Wigdor and daughter, Miss Marcia Wigdor, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Slein, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Parker and Miss Kent and Mr. Wigdor. The guests were served at two long tables. The dinner cloths of white linen with sprigged flower embroidery were complemented with arrangements of matching spring flowers in pastel shades.

Stunt Pilot Featured At Dexter

DEXTER--The Crowley Ridge Blue Sky Flyers have announced that Sunday has been designated as "Dexter Aviation Day."

The day is scheduled to get under way with a fly-in breakfast from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the Airport Restaurant. For visitors who plan to fly in, and would like to attend church here, free transportation will be provided.

Highlighting the afternoon show will be stunt pilot Ernest "Pinky" Opp of Bethalto, Ill., who will give two performances, one at 1:30 and one at 3:30.

Southland Boys To Sing

The Kingdomaires will sponsor a gospel singing at 8 p.m. Saturday in the junior high school auditorium.

The featured singers will be the Southland Boys of Paducah, Ky., featuring Talmadge Martin as first tenor; the Smith Brothers of Calvert City, Ky., and other local talent.

The public is invited.

Gospel Singing To Be Saturday

There will be a gospel singing at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Oneness Pentecostal church, Malone and South West St.

The featured singers will be the Big Ridge Quartet, the Thomann Trio and other local singers.

The pastor, the Rev. Charles Warren, invites the public.

Rural Families Get Loan

Since January, 1965, more than 22,000 rural families in the United States have enjoyed better incomes because they were eligible for an Economic Opportunity loan from the Farmers Home Administration. Many of these families more than doubled their income the first year after receiving a loan. Loans are made up to $2,500 and can be used by small farmers to improve their farm operation, or by farmers and other rural residents to set up a small business. Mr. Harry S. Littleton, County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration with offices in the old Post Office Building at Sikeston, Missouri, says there are a number of families in Scott and Mississippi Counties who may be eligible for these loans and they should contact him at their earliest convenience.

Youth Kills Father To Protect Brother

INDEPENDENCE, MO. AP -- A teen-age boy was taken into custody by juvenile authorities Tuesday after he said he shot and killed his father for choking his retarded brother.

The father, Wallace Harry Gade, 45, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound machinist, was shot in the back with a .22 rifle. The boy's identity was withheld. He is 15. Missouri law forbids publication of the names of children involved in criminal cases.

Sgt. Harold Taylor of the Independence police said the boy told him Gade also turned on his wife, Mrs. Vida Mae Gade, and banged her head against the wall.

Taylor quoted the youngster as saying his mother pleaded with his father and screamed at him to stop abusing his disabled brother, who is 16.

The 15-year-old said he got the single-shot rifle, loaded it and asked his mother for permission to shoot. He asked her twice, he told police, then fired.

The Gades also have three daughters.

Porpoises are fond of mackerel and herring.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 24, 1916

Capt. C. L. Malone received a letter from Major Lindsey of the National Guards of Missouri, Wednesday asking that he solicit signers for the service in the event that a call is made, with the understanding that the pay will begin with date of organization.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kindred on May 25th, a girl.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Adkinson of Pharris Ridge on the 22nd of May, a girl.

40 Years Ago
June 24, 1926

Mrs. H. J. Welsh left Tuesday for St. Louis to be with her mother, Mrs. T. H. League, who broke her hip Monday, when she slipped upon a hardwood floor and fell.

Mrs. C. L. Blanton and Mrs. H. C. Blanton expect to leave Washington, Wednesday for Sikeston. Misses Rosemary and Patricia Blanton will go from Washington with Mrs. Harry Dailey to Bay City, Mich., to spend the summer.

Word was received Saturday that Mr. and Mrs. Myron Watkins have gone to Richmond, Va., to make their home. Mr. Watkins is employed with the Southern Surity Co., and has been transferred to that city.

30 Years Ago
June 24, 1936

Morley -- A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Lita Foster Sunday to help her celebrate her birthday with a dinner.

Matthews --- Miss Ruth Dunham left Friday for St. Louis, where she will spend a few weeks with relatives.

Oran -- Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moore celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Matthews -- Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilburn are the proud parents of a baby girl born on the 20th.

June 24, 1946

A dog that was pronounced afflicted with rabies was shot by acting chief of police John Ledbetter in front of 107 Williams street Wednesday morning.

Sikeston citizens, at a special election held Tuesday, approved a proposition to bond the Sikeston school district in the sum of $125,000 for the purpose of erecting a new Negro school building in Sunset Addition and building an eight-room addition to Bailey school.

Sikeston area residents can have a $700,000 hospital built immediately if they raise $160,000 in a campaign which will begin Friday morning, according to E. P. Coleman, Jr., president of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. The hospital to be built in Sikeston for the area in a 25-mile radius was set up in 1942 but construction was made impossible by the war. Now construction of the hospital will cost approximately twice the amount raised and the hospital cannot be built if an additional $160,000 is not raised locally in the area.

Barbara Lee, daughter of Mrs. Haleene Cole, who fell last Thursday breaking her right arm and receiving other bruises about the face is doing nicely. The accident happened when a railing broke and she fell from a landing on the stairs back of the Felker building.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am 19 years old -- old enough to know better, but I didn't. I thought I was in love with an older man (32 to be exact) and I did some very foolish things.

Rex told me I had the most fantastic figure he had ever seen and he wanted to do an oil painting of me -- in the nude. It was necessary to take some snapshots so he could work from them between sittings, he said. I agreed, although I had never seen a canvas he had painted and there was no sign of a paint brush or an easel in his apartment.

Last week Rex took the snapshots. When he showed them to me yesterday, I got sick to my stomach. I must have been insane. This whole thing has made me realize how unbelievably stupid I was to believe a word he had said.

I told Rex I had changed my mind about sitting for the painting and I asked for the snapshots. He refused to give them to me. I want to stop seeing him but I'm afraid of what he might do if I try to end the relationship. He really has the goods on me and I am at his mercy. Please help. -- BODY BEAUTIFUL

Dear Body Beautiful: I don't know about your body, but your brain belongs in Harvard -- in a bottle.

Stop seeing this man at once. If he makes any attempt to blackmail you, see a lawyer.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend who is supposed to be well-bred has a habit that is becoming annoying. First I should tell you that she is about 20 years younger than I am. (I am 65)

My name is uncommon but it is not difficult to pronounce. This friend who knows very well what my name is, changes it slightly and thinks she is being very amusing. Here is an example of what she does: Say my name is Mrs. Greenly; she calls me Mrs. Greenriver or Mrs. Greengrass or Mrs. Greenhorn.

Up until now I have managed a good-natured smile, but I'm getting fed up.

Should I rise above her bad manners and ignore them? Or should I let her know how I feel? -- VANCOUVER

Dear Vancouver: Your friend (?) is guilty of atrocious bad taste and you ought to stop smiling good-naturedly at her crude attempts to be funny -- at your expense.

The next time she makes a joke of your name, tell her the humor is wearing mighty thin and if she cannot remember your name you will be happy to tell her what it is.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother died a few years ago and my dad has taken out some nice women, which is fine with me. I know he is lonesome and I can understand his need for female companionship.

A few months ago he started to see a tramp. I didn't say anything because I figured it was his business. But last Friday he brought this tramp to our house with an overnight case -- for the weekend. I was very hurt that my father would cheapen our house like that.

I am 16 years old (a boy) and wonder if I have the right to say something to him. --- ANONYMOUS

Dear A.: You do, and you should. And if your father suggests you are out of line, ask him to write to me, please.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Charleston Doctor Joins Faculty

CHARLESTON -- Dr. John E. Dernoncourt, a physician in Charleston for 17 years, will leave September 1 to join the medical faculty of the University of Missouri.

Dr. Dernoncourt has previously been associated as a preceptor with the Department of Community Health and Medical Practice of the School of Medicine, and will assume the rank of assistant professor.

His chief responsibilities will center on the teaching of future physicians in the emergency room and medical practice ward of the University Hospital.

He will also aid in the supervision of the preceptorship program of the school.

Armed Forces

Jimmie D. Ross

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Jimmie D. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ross of 1403 Page St., Dexter, Mo., has completed individual combat training here.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

His next stop is four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar. Marines to be assigned to highly technical specialties will be sent to military technical schools for their specialist training.

Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling, and civic action based on experience gained in Viet Nam.

Jackie C. Bess

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Jackie C. Bess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bess of Route 2, Essex, Mo., has completed individual combat training here.

The four-week course included 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

His next stop is four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar. Marines to be assigned to highly technical specialties will be sent to military technical schools for their specialist training.

Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling, and civic action based on experience gained in Viet-nam.

FORT CARSON, COLO. (AHTNC) -- Army Pvt. John A. King, 20, son of Mrs. Ruby N. Alberson, Box 242, Route 1, Bell City, Mo., completed advanced combat training at Fort Carson, Colo., June 3.

During his eight weeks of training, he received instruction in combat squad tactics, use of infantry weapons, and engineer reconnaissance.

He also was trained in the techniques of road and bridge building, camouflage, and demolitions.

THE PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good. (Proverbs 15;3)

PRAYER: Our Father God, we thank Thee for Thy watchful care and provision for us. May we ever do only that which is good and acceptable in Thy sight. In Christ Jesus' name we ask. Amen.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Friday, June 24, the 175th day of 1966. There are 190 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1948, the Soviet Union blockaded all land traffic between occupied Berlin and West Germany in a dispute over currency. It began a gigantic airlift which lasted 321 days.

On this date

In 1520, the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, entered Mexico City.

In 1793, the first French Republican Constitution was adopted.

In 1940, Marshal Petain's French government signed an armistice with Italy.

In 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt pledged that all possible aid would be granted to Russia in its fight against Germany.

In 1945, Adolf Hitler's personal flag was dragged in the dust as a feature of a victory parade in Moscow.

Ten years ago — Egypt's Premier Nasser, the only candidate on the ballot, was elected the first president of the Republic of Egypt.

Five years ago — More than 200 people were killed in floods in central Japan.

One year ago -- Radio Hanoi announced that the Viet Cong had executed U. S. Army Sgt. Harold Bennett in retaliation for the execution of a Viet Cong.

Joplin Gets Civil Defense Grant

WASHINGTON AP - The Office of Civil Defense has approved a $16,362 grant to the Joplin, Mo., Civil Defense organization for improvement of the communication system at the Joplin emergency operating center.

Matched by local money, the funds will be used to furnish a single point of control for all communications systems there including fire, police, and public works, Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., was told. A new antenna tower is involved.

Mink is the most popular fur in the United States. Minks have been raised in captivity for their fur since 1866 but were not produced in great quantity until around 1930. Fox farmers converted to raising mink and today the production of ranch-raised mink is about 6 million animals per year. Mink accounts for 75 per cent of the fur trade. Wisconsin produces one-third of the total.

MOTHER AND CHILD— Serious state business was going on at the time, but Queen Elizabeth took a second to give youngest son, Prince Edward, 2, a fond smile as they watched the Trooping of the Colors from a Buckingham Palace balcony on the queen's official birthday.

New Space Ball To Assist in Earth Mapping

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—America's new star in the sky—a silvery 100-foot balloon—orbited the poles today, providing a new way to find out where on earth things are.

PAGEOS, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's earth-mapping project, is a 125-pound plastic balloon coated with aluminum. PAGEOS stands for Passive Geodetic Earth-Orbiting Satellite.

The big ball, intricately folded inside a canister, was pushed into orbit Thursday by a thrust-augmented Thor-Agena-D rocket combination. Its orbital path is circular, 2,600 miles above the earth.

Once in orbit, the balloon was popped out of its protective canister. The big gas bag expanded as the heat of the sun vaporized chemicals inside.

PAGEOS' mission, scentists said, is to act as the world's highest-flying photographers' model, providing a pinpoint of reflected light near the horizon nightly.

This pinpoint of light, photographed from several points on earth against a background of stars, will provide the prime reference point for a 5-year study aimed at correcting the world's maps.

The big ball, scientists said, should be visible to the naked eye as it reflects the light of the sun. They said the satellite would be as bright as the star Polaris (the North Star).

Photographs, to be taken from 41 points on earth, will be coordinated to locate, precisely, the continents, islands and other earthly features.

The resulting data, scientists explained, will enable them to locate any point on earth to within 100 feet of its true position.

Master's Men Quartette In Sikeston and Lilbourn

The Master's Men Quartette, a traveling vocal ensemble from Warner Pacific College will present a program of sacred music in the Tanner Street Church of God on Sunday, June 26 at 10:45 a.m. and the First Church of God in Lilbourn on Monday, June27, at 7:30 p.m.

This program is part of a tour that began in the International Convention of the Church of God in Anderson, Indiana (June 13-18), and will include the International Youth Convention of the Church of God in San Diego, California (August 18-21). The quartet will travel more than 10,000 miles and will make more than 75 appearances in Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and California.

The tour is planned to provide Warner Pacific College students the educational opportunity of traveling and of using their musical abilities in a way that will render a service to the church and at the same time promote Warner Pacific College and the quality of education it offers.

Warner Pacific's department of music, headed by William J. Hazelbauer, is very active and boasts an experienced staff and a strong agressive program.

Members of the Master's Men Quartette are Dwight Nelson (tenor) from Juneau, Alaska; Bill Kennemer (second tenor) from Santa Cruz, California; Joe Hooker (baritone) from Fair Oaks, California; and Arlo Hays (bass) from Fresno, California. Their pianist, Ruth Helbling is from Prineville, Oregon, Mona Hoffman, of Sandy Lake, Pennsylvania, will be assisting on the tour.

Warner Pacific College is an accredited four year liberal arts college and is operated under the auspices of the Church of God (Anderson, Indiana).

Hearnes also announced a number of reappointments including:

Radio Systems Failed During Wichita Storm

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)— About $60,000 worth of radio equipment in Civil Defense headquarters was unserviceable and did little but jam other emergency frequencies the night of the tornado June 8, Police Chief Dana Hummer said Thursday.

The chief, appearing at a meeting of disaster officials, urged the naming of a special board of inquiry to look into the problem.

Sixteen persons were killed and 550 injured in the tornado.

Hummer told the group that Lt. James Zimmerman, police communications officer and Civil Defense chief of communications, reported that fire department radios and Civil Defense communications center units were not working that night and were unplugged during the disaster.

The police department transmitter, he said, did not work on one of its assigned frequencies and didn't work well enough on the other frequency to use it.

Zimmerman said a fire department Civil Defense standby unit is unplugged at the transmitter at the present time because it interferes with the fire department's regular communications when it is plugged in.

Spencer Givens of Jefferson City as director of the Division of Workmen's Compensation in the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations.

James L. Coffman, Salem Democrat, to the Board of Training Schools.

Hearnes Extradites Canaday

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today signed extradition papers to send Richard R. Canaday back to California to face two charges of forgery.

Canaday, now editor of the Jackson Post and Cashbook, was at the time of the alleged crimes a commission salesman of advertising for the Horse Lover's Magazine of El Cerrito, Calif.

The information charges he collected $63 in commissions for advertising by two ranchers and that he forged the ranchers' names.

Eugene G. Buschmann, Missouri administrative hearing commissioner who heard the extradition case, said California law was broad enough to cover what Canaday allegedly did.

Canaday's attorney, State Sen. Albert M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau, argued at the hearing May 17 that the papers were not advertising contracts but simply were space reservations.

Canaday still can make an effort to block the extradition by suing under habeas corpus sections of Missouri law.

60 Enrolled in Oran Head Start

ORAN -- The Head Start program sponsored by the Oran School District R-3 is in the second week of operation. Enrollment is about 60 children. There are a few vacancies for those who may have been late enrolling their children.

The program consists of four classes with a teacher and one aide working with each group. There has been a good response to the call for volunteer workers to help with art and play activities. Susan Edmondson, Peggy Wagoner and Evelyn Glastetter have been working often with the different groups.

A typical morning in Head Start may go something like this:

The bus lets the children out in front of their regular rooms. After finding the right bathroom, washing their hands and getting a drink, the children go into their own rooms to listen to records, group listening or free play periods. After milk and cookies there may be a period of creative self-expression involving art or music. Art activities usually include finger painting, using tempra paints or water color. Music includes singing, rhythms or making and playing musical instruments.

A rest period is followed with supervised play outside on swings, slides and in sand boxes. Playing with water, washing the toys and dishes in soapy water is a favorite activity. A hot, well-balanced lunch is served at noon. After eating, tooth brushes are in order before getting on the bus to go home.

The activities included in the above program help prepare children successfully and happily to enter first grade or kindergarten next fall. They are taught to listen to stories and then discuss or retell them, to respect the rights and feelings of other children and a readiness for learning to read and write.

House Hears $58.6 Billion Request for Defense Spending

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assuming that the war in Viet Nam may go on for another year, the House Appropriations Committee recommended today $58.61 billion in new Defense Department financing for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But the committee, in a report by Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., emphasized that the decision for full-year financing was "arbitrary" and "should not be construed as a prediction as to when the war will end."

"The date of the termination of the war is, of course, impossible to predict," it added.

The funds recommended by the committee, subject to House action next week, are $946.68 million more than President Johnson requested and almost $12 billion more than was appropriated in a comparable bill last year. Last year's initial bill was inadequate, however, and an extra $11 billion was provided in a second measure.

The money in the pending bill might not be enough, the committee noted, and several billion dollars more may be needed if combat operations continue at a high level.

A Republican minority report, agreeing that the huge appropriation won't be enough, called for creation of a "blue ribbon commission" to make an "independent and objective evaluation of the projected defense posture of this country."

"What could be more penny-wise and pound-foolish than to save a few cents on defense today only to lose the peace tomorrow'?" the report asked.

The increases over the President's formal appropriation requests included $163.3 million for the new Nike-X antiballistic missile system and an unspecified amount for construction of one nuclear powered frigate instead of two conventional destroyers. The administration was opposed to both of these programs.

Also included, but not provided for in the President's budget, were $67 million to retain separate Army National Guard and Army Reserve organizations; $6 million to continue operation of a B52 fleet of 600 aircraft; $19.9 million for additional light observation helicopters; and $55 million to provide for increased production capability for the F12 interceptor plane.

Girls' State Elects State Officers

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- A 16-year-old Brentwood High School girl today was elected governor of Missouri Girls' State.

Miss Joy Johannesson, a Nationalist, defeated Miss Glenda Lane, Warrensburg, the Federalist nominee, in the general election. The vote was not announced.

Others elected to major offices of the mythical state were:

Nationalists-Kathy Gannon, lieutenant governor, De Soto; Barbara Branneky, attorney-general, Bridgeton; and Susie Coppin, auditor, Jefferson City.

Federalists -- Elaine Uchiyama, secretary of state, Creve Coeur; and Jane Russell, treasurer, Independence.

Elected to the Supreme Court were:

Patricia Ann Dobbs, St. Louis and Georgiana Penzel, Cape Girardeau, both Federalists and these Nationalists; Carol Adams, Chaffee; Diane DeFelinger, Nevada; Fran Hutchinson, Caruthersville and Nicki Rippeteau, Warrensburg.

Housetrailer Rolls Down Levee

The only area highway accident occurred Thursday at 3 p.m. three miles east of Wyatt on highway 60.

A 1964 Ford, driven by Almeda Presley, 42, Sikeston, was pulling a housetrailer, when the trailer slipped off the edge of the pavement, causing it to run to the opposite side of the highway and down levee embankment and overturn. There were no injuries.

He is presently in the Sikeston jail, but was expected to be turned over to Scott County authorities today.

Morton Calls for 'Sense of Purpose' In Viet Nam War

LEXINGTON, Ky. AP -- Sen. Thruston Morton, R-Ky., called Thursday night for President Johnson to "give the American people a sense of purpose" in the Viet Nam war.

Former President Harry S. Truman "gave a sense of purpose to the Korean War," Morton said. "There is none today."

Morton also told the Kentucky Federation of Republican Women the United States should cut off oil going to North Viet Nam.

Referring to a Polish tanker allowed to deliver its cargo to Haiphong, he said, "we control the sea but don't do a thing about it.

"With 250,000 boys under fire, we should not be afraid to do something," he said.

Shippers Object To Railroad Plan For Agents

CHARLESTON -- The City of Charleston Chamber of Commerce and local shippers and receivers of carload freight agreed at a committee meeting Friday afternoon to protest the abandonment of permanent and continuous agent service by the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Members of the group included chairman, David Rolwing; Jack Carson, P. J. Ponder, James B. Moran, Art Wallhausen Sr., and A. E. O'Hara, freight consultant for the Mid-South Soybean and Grain Shippers Association.

Major shippers listed by the committee include: S & S Grain, Ralph Carson Co., R. C. Davis, Cotton and Grain Co., Rolwing-Moxley Co., National Compress and Warehouse Co., and McBride Cooperage Co. Major receivers include Monsanto, Graham Brothers, Enterprise-Courier, implement dealers Bock Oil Co., Robinson Lumber Co., Terrell Lime Co., Martin Oil Co., Subsidy Commodity Program and several others.

The group voted to retain Attorney W. C. Banta.

Discuss Vegetable Crops For SEMO

GIDEON -- Vegetable production and processing for Southeast Missouri was the topic of discussion at a meeting of six Bootheel county extension directors and five other agricultural specialists and officials at a meeting conducted at noon Friday at the Sherman Hotel in Gideon.

Present for the discussion session were Henry DiCarlo, area horticulturist, and B. W. Harrison, district extension director of the Delta Research Center at Portageville; Carl Anderson, a member of the Missouri Commerce and Industrial Commission, and Maxwell Williams of Gideon; Bratton Wallace of Caruth, a former official of the Missouri Department of Agriculture; and the six county agents: Dr. Marvin C. Dobbs of Dunklin County, Bert Robbins of New Madrid, Tom Stroup of Scott, Glenn Patton of Mississippi and Tom Brown of Stoddard.

Used as a guide in the discussion was a booklet "Fruits and Vegetables for the Delta" written by James L. Pearson and Thomas G. Brown on the economic feasibility of commercial fruit and vegetable production and processing in the Missouri Delta region.

A copy of this booklet is being mailed to approximately 3000 fruit and vegetable processors in the United States in an effort to attract this type of industry to the Delta region. The group selected the Missouri Delta Corporation to serve as the contact organization for processors who make inquiry about the feasibility of growing vegetables in this area or in location processing plants here.

This area, which has been traditionally, a cotton growing region, is undergoing rapid changes as a result of new governmental farm programs. A major problem is the scarcity of jobs available, particularly for the seasonal day laborer, because of the rapid adoption of mechanical cotton pickers and improved herbicides for the eradication of weeds and grass in cotton fields.

The Missouri Delta, the agents and specialists agreed, has the resources for vegetable processing. The issue before the group was the feasibility of producing fruits and vegetables in the area and the practicability of establishing one or more processing plants.

The study made in cooperation with the Economic Research Service revealed that the annual output of a proposed freezing plant would be 14,475,000 pounds while the output of a canning plant would be 966,287 cases equivalents of 24 number 303 cans.

Capital requirements for the freezing plant would be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 for buildings and equipment and $1,165,000 for operating needs. The canning plant would require $693,148 for buildings and equipment and $855,000 for operating capital. It was estimated that net profit, after taxes, would be $126,943 for the freezing plant and $56,846 for the canning plant.

The freezing plant would need to employ approximately 62 seasonal laborers and 33 full-time employees, including management, with an annual payroll of $285,990. The canning plant would employ 88 seasonal laborers and 18 full-time employees, including management, with an annual payroll of $244,398.

It was also estimated that production of the necessary vegetable raw materials would increase net and gross farm income of the area by almost $75,000 and $595,000 respectively.

An organization for the specific purpose of promoting this vegetable project is expected to be perfected in the very near future. The organization would, in all probability, make application for funds to promote the project through the Missouri Delta Development Corp. to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Property Assessed Week of July 11

Church 260 Years Old

ZUNI, N. M. AP -- Zuni tribal and church officials have announced plans to restore the old Zuni mission church, believed to have been built about 1700.

The Zuni Tribal Council and the Franciscan Fathers of St. Anthony Roman Catholic mission estimate the cost of the restoration at $100,000.

Four Youth Corps Projects Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Labor today announced approval of four Missouri Neighborhood Youth Corps projects to provide summer jobs for 944 young people between the ages of 16 and 21.

The department will allocate $427,880 for its 90 per cent of the cost.

Largest of the projects is one at Jefferson City where 500 enrollees will work for state agencies. It is a project of the Missouri State Human Resources Corp., a non-profit organization. The federal allocation for the project is $219,400.

The Economic Opportunity Corp. of Greater St. Joseph was granted $131,770 for a project handling 288 enrollees.

The Bollinger County Economic Corp. Marble Hill, was allocated $37,550 to provide jobs for 78. The Perry County Economic Opportunity Corp., at Perryville, was granted $38,160, for a 78-enrollee project.

The department also announced approval of an on-the-job training project for four auto stock clerks at Chillicothe. They will get 26 weeks of training, with the department defraying $1.982 of the outlay for the training. The company, Rupp Brothers Auto Parts Co., will pay wages of more than $5,700.

City Helping With Jobs

Recently, city officials met with 25 leading citizens that live in Sunset, in an effort to ease the unemployment situation in Sikeston.

City Manager Raymert Miller said today that since that meeting, 50 applications have poured into his office offering skills varying from welding to cooking.

Any person needing employment is asked to call Ann Elliott at GR 1-2173.

His Donations Total One Million

Mayor Kendall Sikes, a member of the steering committee for the Missouri Delta Community hospital fund raising drive, announced last night, ladened with emotion, that to continue the drive for the construction of a new wing on the hospital, E. P. Coleman, Jr. has donated $400,000 for the expansion.

Last year Coleman gave $400,000, and $200,000 on the wing that was completed in 1960, making a total contribution of $1,000,000 for hospital improvements that are labeled "essential to the community."

Sikes said there remains $842,500 to be raised locally from people in Sikeston, Scott County, Mississippi County and New Madrid County.

Sikes said when bids for the construction were opened Wednesday, it was learned there was $600,000 more cost than "had been anticipated."

"It was a sad day," Sikes said.

"Mr. Coleman then told the group, 'the new addition can and will be built," Sikes continued.

Total cost of the new wing will be, including housing and equipment, $2,933,000. Boyer Construction Company was awarded a $2,260,000 contract Wednesday night for construction, Sikes said this was the largest single contract awarded in Sikeston history.

Master of ceremonies for the public information dinner held at the high school cafetorium was Dr. Harry E. Goddard of Kennett.

A special report was given by Harold Jones, hospital administrator, who said that hospitals are very complex machines, consisting of many things, personnell, doctors, people, etc.

Coleman followed Jones with a hospital progress report.

"We first applied for funds for a hospital in 1940. We didn't get it. We applied again in 1941 and got it. Before it could be built, however, the war came, and we could not find materials for construction.

"When the war ceased our contract had stopped. I went to New York and got it re-instated. Construction was completed in 1948 with 56 beds.

"In 1959 and 1960, we began a wing with 50 beds. That new facility was filled almost immediately when completed in 1962. This year, patients were in the halls half of the time.

"Wednesday we got a real shock. The contract was awarded for $600,000 more than we anticipated. We had to stop or go. We're gonna go," Coleman concluded.

Guest speaker was Harry Panhorst, administrator for Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. His theme -- "You couldn't make a better investment -- To save a Life."

He stressed that facilities of hospitals will be on trial more than ever now, "with the approach of medicare."

He said Missouri was second only to Iowa in ratio with persons 65 years old and older. He said it would soon be number one.

"A real shock to me was that this hospital here extends over a 25 miles radius and serves 52,000 Missourians," Panhorst said.

Overall construction costs will be $2,933,000. The new facilities will allow an addition of 54 beds, making available beds to 200 patients.

There are 185 employes with an annual payroll of more than construction program would double the employment, "creating a great economic investment to the area."

Construction has begun and is expected to be completed within three years.

Campaign headquarters are in the old Scott County Milling Company Building in downtown Sikeston.

This morning, Coleman, Jones and Panhorst appeared on KFVS-TV television as guests of the Breakfast Show.

For further information concerning the campaign, contact Page Keown, campaign director, GR 1-4882, or write to post office box 606, Sikeston, Mo.

Approves Grant For Charleston

CHARLESTON -- Notice of approval of a $6,439 federal grant by the office of housing and urban development was received here Wednesday by city officials.

The grant will pay two-thirds of a comprehensive 20-year plan for the city of Charleston, including such factors as land-use and zoning, transportation, community facilities, regulatory measures and administration.

The city will pick up the remaining one-third of the plan's cost. The firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, St. Louis, was selected last year as the organization which will make the study of Charleston.

Members of the planning commission, appointed last year, are Chairman Layton Pickard, Miss Frances Daniel, Dick Logan, Bill McNeary, Charles Wright, A. J. "Buck" Drinkwater, and ex-officio member Dick Carr.

Eight Treated For Emergency Wounds

Eight persons were sent to the emergency ward of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Thursday.

MU Medical Center Granted $406,000

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- Two federal grants of $406,000 have been received by the University of Missouri to complete the Medical Center as it was planned originally more than 10 years ago.

The Division of Research Facilities and Resources of the National Institute of Health approved $207,000 for a three-story addition to the Medical Sciences Building and $199,000 to expand existing research space in the same building.

The university previously had received a state appropriation of $440,000 for the project, contingent on receiving matching funds.

Mississippi County Students Get Degrees

CHARLESTON -- Five Mississippi County students received degrees June 7 from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

From Charleston -- Russell Hugh Graham, Route 1, Doctor of Education; Mary Carla Hough, Bachelor of Arts; and Stephen M. Rolwing, Route 2, B.S. in Mechanical Engineering.

From East Prairie -- John Aycock, 112 West Chestnut, Bachelor of Journalism; and Homer Dearmont Oliver, 210 Williams St., B.S. in Agriculture.

Reverse Psychology

CINCINNATI, Ohio AP -- Maybe it was the heat outside -- 91 degrees -- that had officials in City Hall thinking of the cold days ahead.

They awarded four contracts -- one to buy 4,002 gallons of antifreeze and the others to three companies to buy 2,040 tons of coal.

Oran Man Loses Fight for Life

ST. LOUIS -- A two-month fight for the life of David Hirschowitz, 23, of Oran, at Barnes hospital here was lost when the young man died at 11:47 p.m. Wednesday.

Hirschowitz, critically injured in an automobile accident near Cape Girardeau on Highway 74 on April 23, developed acute kidney failure and was brought to Barnes hospital on April 26 for treatment by one of the hospital's artificial kidneys.

He received 10 treatments from the kidney machine and 30 pints of blood. The complication which eventually caused his death was the development of an antibody in his bloodstream which caused the red cells to clump.

The clumping of the blood cells made it impossible for him to receive kidney machine treatments after last Friday.

His death was attributed to anemia resulting from the blood cell clumping, as diagnosed by Dr. Raymond G. Schultze, who led the renal team treating him.

"It was a difficult fight," he said. "I'm sorry we lost. This is the kind of patient that is usually salvageable, but David just had too many complications."

The case gained publicity when an appeal was made on a St. Louis radio station for contributions to help pay the hospital bill of about $9,000. About $1,285 was sent to the station and additional contributions were made directly to the patient's parents and through the First National Bank of St. Louis.

Born Oct. 23, 1942, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hirschowitz of Oran, who survive.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Jerry Menz, Brigeton, and Miss Golda Hirschowitz, at the home; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Birdie Harris, Aquilla, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Hirschowitz, Oran.

David served four years as a submariner in the Navy, spending much of that time in the Gulf of Tonkin east of Viet Nam. He had attended the Missouri School of Mines (now the University of Missouri) at Rolla and Southeast Missouri State College.

The body will be at the Earl J. Smith Funeral Home at Oran after 7:30 tonight. Funeral services will be Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Oran high school gymnasium with Rabbi Jacob Rold of the Hillel Foundation of Washington University, St. Louis, officiating. Burial will be in Forest Hills Memorial Garden near Morley with military graveside rites by the U. S. Naval Reserve Unit of Cape Girardeau, of which he was a member.

House Hears $58.6 Billion Request for Defense Spending

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assuming that the war in Viet Nam may go on for another year, the House Appropriations Committee recommended today $58.61 billion in new Defense Department financing for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But the committee, in a report by Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., emphasized that the decision for full-year financing was "arbitrary" and "should not be construed as a prediction as to when the war will end."

"The date of the termination of the war is, of course, impossible to predict," it added.

The funds recommended by the committee, subject to House action next week, are $946.68 million more than President Johnson requested and almost $12 billion more than was appropriated in a comparable bill last year. Last year's initial bill was inadequate, however, and an extra $11 billion was provided in a second measure.

The money in the pending bill might not be enough, the committee noted, and several billion dollars more may be needed if combat operations continue at a high level.

A Republican minority report, agreeing that the huge appropriation won't be enough, called for creation of a "blue ribbon commission" to make an "independent and objective evaluation of the projected defense posture of this country."

"What could be more penny-wise and pound-foolish than to save a few cents on defense today only to lose the peace tomorrow'?" the report asked.

The increases over the President's formal appropriation requests included $163.3 million for the new Nike-X antiballistic missile system and an unspecified amount for construction of one nuclear powered frigate instead of two conventional destroyers. The administration was opposed to both of these programs.

Also included, but not provided for in the President's budget, were $67 million to retain separate Army National Guard and Army Reserve organizations; $6 million to continue operation of a B52 fleet of 600 aircraft; $19.9 million for additional light observation helicopters; and $55 million to provide for increased production capability for the F12 interceptor plane.

Girls' State Elects State Officers

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- A 16-year-old Brentwood High School girl today was elected governor of Missouri Girls' State.

Miss Joy Johannesson, a Nationalist, defeated Miss Glenda Lane, Warrensburg, the Federalist nominee, in the general election. The vote was not announced.

Others elected to major offices of the mythical state were:

Nationalists-Kathy Gannon, lieutenant governor, De Soto; Barbara Branneky, attorney-general, Bridgeton; and Susie Coppin, auditor, Jefferson City.

Federalists -- Elaine Uchiyama, secretary of state, Creve Coeur; and Jane Russell, treasurer, Independence.

Elected to the Supreme Court were:

Patricia Ann Dobbs, St. Louis and Georgiana Penzel, Cape Girardeau, both Federalists and these Nationalists; Carol Adams, Chaffee; Diane DeFelinger, Nevada; Fran Hutchinson, Caruthersville and Nicki Rippeteau, Warrensburg.

Housetrailer Rolls Down Levee

The only area highway accident occurred Thursday at 3 p.m. three miles east of Wyatt on highway 60.

A 1964 Ford, driven by Almeda Presley, 42, Sikeston, was pulling a housetrailer, when the trailer slipped off the edge of the pavement, causing it to run to the opposite side of the highway and down levee embankment and overturn. There were no injuries.

Castleberry Arrested

Police arrested Fred Castleberry, 23, of 522 Sikes Street, on a Scott County warrant charging him with writing a no-account check May 29 for $4.67 to the Walker's Super Market.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick said Castleberry is to appear in Magistrate Court Tuesday to face the charge.

He is presently in the Sikeston jail, but was expected to be turned over to Scott County authorities today.

Morton Calls for 'Sense of Purpose' In Viet Nam War

LEXINGTON, Ky. AP -- Sen. Thruston Morton, R-Ky., called Thursday night for President Johnson to "give the American people a sense of purpose" in the Viet Nam war.

Former President Harry S. Truman "gave a sense of purpose to the Korean War," Morton said. "There is none today."

Morton also told the Kentucky Federation of Republican Women the United States should cut off oil going to North Viet Nam.

Referring to a Polish tanker allowed to deliver its cargo to Haiphong, he said, "we control the sea but don't do a thing about it.

"With 250,000 boys under fire, we should not be afraid to do something," he said.

Guard Meet

The local National Guard unit will conduct a training assembly Sunday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Shippers Object To Railroad Plan For Agents

CHARLESTON -- The City of Charleston Chamber of Commerce and local shippers and receivers of carload freight agreed at a committee meeting Friday afternoon to protest the abandonment of permanent and continuous agent service by the Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Members of the group included chairman, David Rolwing; Jack Carson, P. J. Ponder, James B. Moran, Art Wallhausen Sr., and A. E. O'Hara, freight consultant for the Mid-South Soybean and Grain Shippers Association.

Major shippers listed by the committee include: S & S Grain, Ralph Carson Co., R. C. Davis, Cotton and Grain Co., Rolwing-Moxley Co., National Compress and Warehouse Co., and McBride Cooperage Co. Major receivers include Monsanto. Graham Brothers, Enterprise-Courier, implement dealers Bock Oil Co., Robinson Lumber Co., Terrell Lime Co., Martin Oil Co., Subsidy Commodity Program and several others.

The group voted to retain Attorney W. C. Banta.

Discuss Vegetable Crops For SEMO

GIDEON -- Vegetable production and processing for Southeast Missouri was the topic of discussion at a meeting of six Bootheel county extension directors and five other agricultural specialists and officials at a meeting conducted at noon Friday at the Sherman Hotel in Gideon.

Present for the discussion session were Henry DiCarlo, area horticulturist, and B. W. Harrison, district extension director of the Delta Research Center at Portageville; Carl Anderson, a member of the Missouri Commerce and Industrial Commission, and Maxwell Williams of Gideon; Bratton Wallace of Caruth, a former official of the Missouri Department of Agriculture; and the six county agents: Dr. Marvin C. Dobbs of Dunklin County, Bert Robbins of New Madrid, Tom Stroup of Scott, Glenn Patton of Mississippi and Tom Brown of Stoddard.

Used as a guide in the discussion was a booklet "Fruits and Vegetables for the Delta" written by James L. Pearson and Thomas G. Brown on the economic feasibility of commercial fruit and vegetable production and processing in the Missouri Delta region.

A copy of this booklet is being mailed to approximately 3000 fruit and vegetable processors in the United States in an effort to attract this type of industry to the Delta region. The group selected the Missouri Delta Corporation to serve as the contact organization for processors who make inquiry about the feasibility of growing vegetables in this area or in location processing plants here.

This area, which has been traditionally, a cotton growing region, is undergoing rapid changes as a result of new governmental farm programs. A major problem is the scarcity of jobs available, particularly for the seasonal day laborer, because of the rapid adoption of mechanical cotton pickers and improved herbicides for the eradication of weeds and grass in cotton fields.

The Missouri Delta, the agents and specialists agreed, has the resources for vegetable processing. The issue before the group was the feasibility of producing fruits and vegetables in the area and the practicability of establishing one or more processing plants.

The study made in cooperation with the Economic Research Service revealed that the annual output of a proposed freezing plant would be 14,475,000 pounds while the output of a canning plant would be 966,287 cases equivalents of 24 number 303 cans.

Capital requirements for the freezing plant would be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 for buildings and equipment and $1,165,000 for operating needs. The canning plant would require $693,148 for buildings and equipment and $855,000 for operating capital. It was estimated that net profit, after taxes, would be $126,943 for the freezing plant and $56,846 for the canning plant.

The freezing plant would need to employ approximately 62 seasonal laborers and 33 full-time employees, including management, with an annual payroll of $285,990. The canning plant would employ 88 seasonal laborers and 18 full-time employees, including management, with an annual payroll of $244,398.

It was also estimated that production of the necessary vegetable raw materials would increase net and gross farm income of the area by almost $75,000 and $595,000 respectively.

An organization for the specific purpose of promoting this vegetable project is expected to be perfected in the very near future. The organization would, in all probability, make application for funds to promote the project through the Missouri Delta Development Corp. to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Property Assessed Week of July 11

Church 260 Years Old

ZUNI, N. M. AP -- Zuni tribal and church officials have announced plans to restore the old Zuni mission church, believed to have been built about 1700.

The Zuni Tribal Council and the Franciscan Fathers of St. Anthony Roman Catholic mission estimate the cost of the restoration at $100,000.

Four Youth Corps Projects Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Labor today announced approval of four Missouri Neighborhood Youth Corps projects to provide summer jobs for 944 young people between the ages of 16 and 21.

The department will allocate $427,880 for its 90 per cent of the cost.

Largest of the projects is one at Jefferson City where 500 enrollees will work for state agencies. It is a project of the Missouri State Human Resources Corp., a non-profit organization. The federal allocation for the project is $219,400.

The Economic Opportunity Corp. of Greater St. Joseph was granted $131,770 for a project handling 288 enrollees.

The Bollinger County Economic Corp. Marble Hill, was allocated $37,550 to provide jobs for 78. The Perry County Economic Opportunity Corp., at Perryville, was granted $38,160, for a 78-enrollee project.

The department also announced approval of an on-the-job training project for four auto stock clerks at Chillicothe. They will get 26 weeks of training, with the department defraying $1,982 of the outlay for the training. The company, Rupp Brothers Auto Parts Co., will pay wages of more than $5,700.

City Helping With Jobs

Recently, city officials met with 25 leading citizens that live in Sunset, in an effort to ease the unemployment situation in Sikeston.

City Manager Raymert Miller said today that since that meeting, 50 applications have poured into his office offering skills varying from welding to cooking.

Any person needing employment is asked to call Ann Elliott at GR 1-2173.

His Donations Total One Million

Mayor Kendall Sikes, a member of the steering committee for the Missouri Delta Community hospital fund raising drive, announced last night, ladened with emotion, that to continue the drive for the construction of a new wing on the hospital, E. P. Coleman, Jr. has donated $400,000 for the expansion.

Last year Coleman gave $400,000, and $200,000 on the wing that was completed in 1960, making a total contribution of $1,000,000 for hospital improvements that are labeled "essential to the community."

Sikes said there remains $842,500 to be raised locally from people in Sikeston, Scott County, Mississippi County and New Madrid County.

Sikes said when bids for the construction were opened Wednesday, it was learned there was $600,000 more cost than "had been anticipated."

"It was a sad day," Sikes said.

"Mr. Coleman then told the group, 'the new addition can and will be built," Sikes continued.

Total cost of the new wing will be, including housing and equipment, $2,933,000. Boyer Construction Company was awarded a $2,260,000 contract Wednesday night for construction, Sikes said this was the largest single contract awarded in Sikeston history.

Master of ceremonies for the public information dinner held at the high school cafetorium was Dr. Harry E. Goddard of Kennett.

A special report was given by Harold Jones, hospital administrator, who said that hospitals are very complex machines, consisting of many things, personnell, doctors, people, etc.

Coleman followed Jones with a hospital progress report.

"We first applied for funds for a hospital in 1940. We didn't get it. We applied again in 1941 and got it. Before it could be built, however, the war came, and we could not find materials for construction.

"When the war ceased our contract had stopped. I went to New York and got it re-instated. Construction was completed in 1948 with 56 beds.

"In 1959 and 1960, we began a wing with 50 beds. That new facility was filled almost immediately when completed in 1962. This year, patients were in the halls half of the time.

"Wednesday we got a real shock. The contract was awarded for $600,000 more than we anticipated. We had to stop or go. We're gonna go," Coleman concluded.

Guest speaker was Harry Panhorst, administrator for Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. His theme -- "You couldn't make a better investment -- To save a Life."

He stressed that facilities of hospitals will be on trial more than ever now, "with the approach of medicare."

He said Missouri was second only to Iowa in ratio with persons 65 years old and older. He said it would soon be number one.

"A real shock to me was that this hospital here extends over a 25 miles radius and serves 52,000 Missourians," Panhorst said.

Overall construction costs will be $2,933,000. The new facilities will allow an addition of 54 beds, making available beds to 200 patients.

There are 185 employes with an annual payroll of more than construction program would double the employment, "creating a great economic investment to the area."

Construction has begun and is expected to be completed within three years.

Campaign headquarters are in the old Scott County Milling Company Building in downtown Sikeston.

This morning, Coleman, Jones and Panhorst appeared on KFVS-TV television as guests of the Breakfast Show.

For further information concerning the campaign, contact Page Keown, campaign director, GR 1-4882, or write to post office box 606, Sikeston, Mo.

Approves Grant For Charleston

CHARLESTON -- Notice of approval of a $6,439 federal grant by the office of housing and urban development was received here Wednesday by city officials.

The grant will pay two-thirds of a comprehensive 20-year plan for the city of Charleston, including such factors as land-use and zoning, transportation, community facilities, regulatory measures and administration.

The city will pick up the remaining one-third of the plan's cost. The firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, St. Louis, was selected last year as the organization which will make the study of Charleston.

Members of the planning commission, appointed last year, are Chairman Layton Pickard, Miss Frances Daniel, Dick Logan, Bill McNeary, Charles Wright, A. J. "Buck" Drinkwater, and ex-officio member Dick Carr.

Eight Treated For Emergency Wounds

Eight persons were sent to the emergency ward of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Thursday.

Simpson, hit leg on ladder of sliding board; Murlenia Walters, cut on finger on right hand; Lisa Kinder, Painton, fell and cut knee; William E. Williams, metal piece fell on right foot and ankle.

MU Medical Center Granted $406,000

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- Two federal grants of $406,000 have been received by the University of Missouri to complete the Medical Center as it was planned originally more than 10 years ago.

The Division of Research Facilities and Resources of the National Institute of Health approved $207,000 for a three-story addition to the Medical Sciences Building and $199,000 to expand existing research space in the same building.

The university previously had received a state appropriation of $440,000 for the project, contingent on receiving matching funds.

Mississippi County Students Get Degrees

CHARLESTON -- Five Mississippi County students received degrees June 7 from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

From Charleston -- Russell Hugh Graham, Route 1, Doctor of Education; Mary Carla Hough, Bachelor of Arts; and Stephen M. Rolwing, Route 2, B.S. in Mechanical Engineering.

From East Prairie -- John Aycock, 112 West Chestnut, Bachelor of Journalism; and Homer Dearmont Oliver, 210 Williams St., B.S. in Agriculture.

Reverse Psychology

CINCINNATI, Ohio AP -- Maybe it was the heat outside -- 91 degrees -- that had officials in City Hall thinking of the cold days ahead.

They awarded four contracts -- one to buy 4,002 gallons of antifreeze and the others to three companies to buy 2,040 tons of coal.

Oran Man Loses Fight for Life

ST. LOUIS -- A two-month fight for the life of David Hirschowitz, 23, of Oran, at Barnes hospital here was lost when the young man died at 11:47 p.m. Wednesday.

Hirschowitz, critically injured in an automobile accident near Cape Girardeau on Highway 74 on April 23, developed acute kidney failure and was brought to Barnes hospital on April 26 for treatment by one of the hospital's artificial kidneys.

He received 10 treatments from the kidney machine and 30 pints of blood. The complication which eventually caused his death was the development of an antibody in his bloodstream which caused the red cells to clump.

The clumping of the blood cells made it impossible for him to receive kidney machine treatments after last Friday.

His death was attributed to anemia resulting from the blood cell clumping, as diagnosed by Dr. Raymond G. Schultze, who led the renal team treating him.

"It was a difficult fight," he said. "I'm sorry we lost. This is the kind of patient that is usually salvageable, but David just had too many complications."

The case gained publicity when an appeal was made on a St. Louis radio station for contributions to help pay the hospital bill of about $9,000. About $1,285 was sent to the station and additional contributions were made directly to the patient's parents and through the First National Bank of St. Louis.

Born Oct. 23, 1942, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hirschowitz of Oran, who survive.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Jerry Menz, Brigeton, and Miss Golda Hirschowitz, at the home; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Birdie Harris, Aquilla, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Hirschowitz, Oran.

David served four years as a submariner in the Navy, spending much of that time in the Gulf of Tonkin east of Viet Nam. He had attended the Missouri School of Mines (now the University of Missouri) at Rolla and Southeast Missouri State College.

The body will be at the Earl J. Smith Funeral Home at Oran after 7:30 tonight. Funeral services will be Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Oran high school gymnasium with Rabbi Jacob Rold of the Hillel Foundation of Washington University, St. Louis, officiating. Burial will be in Forest Hills Memorial Garden near Morley with military graveside rites by the U. S. Naval Reserve Unit of Cape Girardeau, of which he was a member.

THE COMMUNISTS CONVENE

The Communist Party U.S.A. opened a five-day convention in New York on Wednesday (June 22).

THE COMMUNIST PARTY U.S.A. has become rather camp, like Mah Jngg, snoods, wedgies, Tiffany glass and the Big Apple. It is said that the party could meet in a phone booth and have room to spare. Or that most of its members are undercover F.B.I. men. In other words, no one takes the American Reds very seriously nowadays, except perhaps J. Edgar Hoover and the Reds themselves.

Nevertheless, the Communists are holding a five-day national convention -- the first since 1959 -- at Webster Hall in New York City which started June 22. Gus Hall, identified only as the party's "leading spokesman," addressed the Wednesday evening session, which was open to the public. The remaining meetings are being held behind closed doors.

The usual purpose of a national political convention is to nominate candidates for public office. Chances are that the Communists will run Herbert Aptheker for Congress from a Brooklyn district. Aptheker, the party's leading theoretician, had his passport lifted by the State Department last February after he took an unauthorized trip to North Viet Nam.

A SUPREME COURT decision handed down last Nov. 15 made the Communist Party convention possible. In an 8-0 opinion, the Court reversed Justice Department orders demanding that two party members register with the U. S. Attorney General, as required by the Internal Security Act of 1950. The decision appeared to render the act unenforceable. At least, the Communists seem to think so.

The party has gone steadily downhill since 1945, when it had between 75,000 and 80,000 members. The most generous current estimate of membership is 12,000. While various subversive activities control laws hastened the decline, Joseph Stalin may have delivered the most telling blow.

Earl Browder, purged from the party in 1945, later wrote that Stalin had failed to realize that "The New World was really a NEW world" and that Soviet Marxism needed to be revised accordingly. By halting the process of Americanism within the party, Browder felt, Stalin sentenced communism in this country to "political death."

NOW THE PARTY has undertaken a "new program" which looks suspiciously like a popular front effort. The program, made public last February, calls for an alliance of "the forces arrayed against monopoly" and war. These include "the working class," Negroes, small farmers, small businessmen, intellectuals, professional and young people, members of civil rights and peace movements. Just about everyone except our millionnaires.

In keeping with this approach, the party has invited such groups as Students for a Democratic Society, the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs, and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee to send observers to the New York convention.

It would be surprising indeed if the "new left" heeded the Communist cry for unity. Youthful and almost anarchic in outlook, the new leftist groups tend to regard the Communist Party U.S.A. as a quaint relic from a bygone age. "Don't trust anyone over 30," they say. The native Communist leadership is considerably older than that.

The Colonel said: "There are rare instances of anyone ever having been sorry for keeping still or harming others by silence. Few people have ever been given nervous prostration by living in a house with a silent person. It is the silent girl who gets a husband, and the talk-talk-talker who doesn't. A man's idea of a home is not a place where there is a buzz like a saw mill."

BY PRODUCT: TEACHER ENTHUSIASM, INTEREST

Surprising is the amount of newspaper interest and enthusiasm churned up by teachers getting involved with classroom use of newspapers. Many teachers have used newspapers for many years in simplified ways with multiplied interest to both students and themselves. But showing them new and different ideas whets their creative urge and the results have been terrific. Interested, enthusiastic teachers are better teachers, and this by-product of newspaper-in-the-classroom program is an important plus for school systems and students wherever newspaper-school cooperation brings newspapers into the classroom as a teaching aid. Try it locally and see for yourself!

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Recently a Roman Catholic priest in Chicago called moving traffic violations "one of the new sins that have arisen since Moses received the Ten Commandments."

The Rev. John S. Banahan told a conclave of traffic judges, prosecutors and clergymen that he wished his parishioners would include their "traffic sins" in their confessions.

Dan Hollingsworth, traffic consultant for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, also commented recently on the moral aspect of traffic violations. He said: "The automobile and its use, and our mass attitude toward it, is doing something to our moral fiber, which I contend is worse than our annual toll of 43,000 dead and one and one-half million injured."

Hollingsworth pinpointed the decay in the moral fiber of this nation of drivers as "intolerance" that makes a driver vindictive, aggressive and full of hate for other drivers.

He asked: "If it is too much to ask that we love one another, and if we can't bring ourselves around to even linking one another, could we at least tolerate and cooperate for purely selfish and survival reasons."

The traffic accident situation will continue to worsen, Hollingsworth believes, until people decide they've been to enough funerals, spent enough time in hospital emergency rooms -- until they've become willing to use their votes, knowledge and influence to help correct the situation that permits this "malignancy of morals" to persist.

Disdain for traffic laws, Hollingsworth maintains, is the "situation" that permits the malignancy.

"Law and government," he said, "can call for high standards of moral and ethical conduct in traffic. But, if the majority of the people do not accept it, and support those agencies enforcing it, then that law becomes less effective than no law at all."

WATCH YOUR STATE TAX BOOSTERS

A primary purpose of federal tax reduction, accomplished and projected, is to stimulate the economy by giving people more take-home pay to spend.

But soaring state taxes are undermining that policy to a significant extent.

A U.S. News & World Report article is revealing and sobering. State taxes totaled $24.2 billion in the last fiscal year, a rise of more than $2 billion over the preceding year. So that rise," says the magazine, "siphoned off an amount equal to one third of the $6.5 billion federal tax reduction for individuals on 1964 income."

More, it looks as if the worst is yet to come. Almost all the state legislatures will meet in 1966, and it will be a rare state in which programs for more and higher taxes of varied kinds are not urged.

The moral is plain. The taxpayers, if they are to obtain any real relief, must keep a close and wary eye on the state houses, no less than on the national capitol.

THE PARAMOUNT OBLIGATION

David Lawrence recently wrote in U.S. News & World Report: " . . . no 'great society' will ever be maintained unless individual responsibility is recognized as the paramount obligation of the citizen, even as government expands and population grows."

"Government may guide and help its citizens but cannot supply talent to those who do not have it -- or bestow ambition or initiative or creative ability on those who are not born with these qualities. And the individuals who do have these God-given capacities will not require governmental stimulus as they strive to improve the 'great society' of yesteryears."

This goes to the heart of the matter. Whatever the programs, whatever the dramatic names given to them, they must rely primarily on individual initiative, individual ambition, individual risk taking, and the desire of the individual to progress and to serve. Only in that way can we make material gains without sacrificing those freedoms and spiritual qualities which are the roots of true greatness.

TRUST IS EARNED

The investor-owned utility industry of this country never stands still. It goes steadily ahead, setting new record after new record and providing service of a scope, dependability and economy unequalled anywhere else on earth.

Take, for instance, a few very recent examples out of dozens that could be cited.

A southern utility has applied for a license for the construction and operation of two hydro-electric power developments estimated to cost $84.7 million. A mountain state utility plans to spend $56 million on new construction this year, an increase of some $16 million over 1964. An eastern utility has scheduled capital expenditures of $47 million for 1965, and over the next five years its new plant and expansion costs will total $315 million. In the Southwest, site clearance has begun on an internationally sponsored $25 million nuclear electric power research project in which 17 investor - owned utilities are participating.

So it goes, everywhere in the nation where private enterprise is allowed to produce and distribute power. Technological advances of great importance are constantly being made. And, of no small moment, these utilities -- which pay about 25 cents of every revenue dollar in taxes -- are among the biggest contributors to government at all levels.

The advocates of socialization of the industry are still active as they always have been. But there is no evidence that any substantial part of the public supports them. The investor-owned utilities have earned, and will continue to earn, the public trust.

WRONG ON EVERY COUNT

The proposal that a tax, in the neighborhood of $100, be imposed on all Americans going abroad, as a means of easing the balance of payments problem, has been given considerable attention. It has brought this report from Newsweek magazine: ". . . the State Department, along with Fed. chairman Martin and other monetary experts, quickly argued that such a move would be ineffective as well as political dynamite. There is only a bare chance that some such tax may be imposed."

One hopes this will prove correct. The arguments against a travel tax are overwhelmingly strong. It would be purely discriminatory and penalize the freedom of movement of American citizens, which is certainly a basic freedom. Its effect on the balance of payments situation would be extremely small at best. And it would be a form of class tax. The well-to-do traveler would not be seriously affected. But it would be a real burden to the growing numbers of people of modest means who now, in this jet age, are able to see some of the world outside our own borders. It would fall with particular weight on the legions of young people who now travel abroad on skin-tight budgets and must make every dollar count.

It would be in direct contradiction also, to the principle underlying the government - supported People-to-People program, which has the laudatory aim of encouraging peoples of all the nations to learn more about each other, as a means of building world understanding and peace. An essential part of such a program, surely, is the stimulation of travel.

The travel tax idea is wrong on every count.

Despite all their talk about what a tough time they have, it's probably a lot easier for Congressmen to pass a foreign aid bill than it is for the rest of us to pay for it.

NOT HOW MANY DOCTORS, BUT WHERE?

There may be a shortage of doctors in America -- and for numerous small towns without one at all there is no "maybe" about it -- but the paradox is that the shortage is not as much one of numbers as of distribution.

There were 252,984 physicians in the United States in 1960, or one for every 737 persons. By the end of 1965, the medical population had risen to 293,088, or one for every 681 persons.

This trend is expected to continue, says the American Medical Association. It estimates that by 1975 the number of doctors will total at least 360,000. With a population forecast of 230 million, the doctor-people ratio will thus improve to one physician for every 638 persons.

By 1970, 13 new medical schools will be in operation, making a total of 101. Six others are probable and six more are possible by 1975.

Nevertheless, for a variety of reasons, many rural areas lack enough doctors. To help correct this imbalance between city and country, the AMA has a Physician's Placement Service, which acts as a clearing house for information for doctors seeking a place to practice and for communities looking for a doctor. There are also state medical society placement bureaus and rural health committees tackling the same problem.

In addition, thanks to a Sears-Roebuck Foundation -- AMA program that brings doctors and small towns together, 137 communities which otherwise might not have physicians now have them.

All this is part of the answer. Another part, says the AMA, is men like Walter A. Mendyka, MD., who left a well-established practice in Cleveland and moved his wife and 11 children to a rural town in Maine nearly 1,000 miles away.

"I felt I could be of more use and fill a need for both myself and the community," explains Mendyka. "It was a way I could get that nagging feeling off my mind."

H. L. Hunt Says

FREEDOM FIRST

Across the length and breadth of America more people today are asking themselves and their neighbors, "How do we keep freedom?" They seem to see it slipping away on every side. Sometimes it seems that the more it is discussed, the less of it we have.

The answer to this question is simple. The only way we can keep freedom is to value it more than anything else. That was the fundamental meaning of the watchword of the founders of our nation: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." That was precisely what Benjamin Franklin meant when he said that the Constitutional Convention in 1787 had given the citizens of this nation "a Republic, if you can keep it."

Freedom is always in peril, because it is always in the interest of the power-seekers and the predators to destroy it and seize its fruits. Unless they are restrained by the combination of a united public opinion committed to the moral rightness of freedom, and an equally united public determination to defend liberty at all costs, these power-seekers and predators will prevail.

When any other value is placed ahead of individual liberty, then clever people will at once exploit that supposed superior value and use it as a justification for destroying freedom. If we value "economic security" more than freedom, they will promise us the security of the well-fed prisoner. If we value "humanitarianism" more than freedom, they will introduce forced charity. If we value life itself more than freedom, they will chant "Better Red than dead." If we put freedom first, it will remain there. HLH

Chief Justice Warren hails FBI crime-fighting record: Says it is achieved despite new freedoms for suspects.

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Before the Supreme Court goes fully out of season, the words spoken recently by Chief Justice Earl Warren about J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation should be cast broadly across the land.

To say the least, when Justice Warren praises the FBI, and when the high bench finds compelling reason to praise such a law enforcement agency, it is record-making news.

While handing down the famous "confession decision" the other day, Justice Warren undoubtedly disappointed some avant garde circles by stating that the FBI "has compiled an exemplary record" in this regard. He was supporting the court's claim that effective law enforcement is possible under the new guidelines for police questioning of suspects.

Justice Warren, a former tough "D. A.," who grilled many criminals himself, pointed out that the FBI advises suspects or arrested persons at the outset of an interview or questioning that they positively are not required to answer or make a statement.

Furthermore, FBI agents point out that any statement given by the suspect may be used in court against him. And that those arrested or questioned may secure a lawyer to secure their rights.

If the suspect indicates, said Mr. Warren, that he wishes an attorney, the FBI agents cease their questioning immediately.

And, added the chief justice, the FBI informs its prisoners or those being questioned that they have the right to free counsel if they are unable to pay for a private lawyer.

One thing has been overlooked -- especially by those who are perpetually emotional in their criticism of the Bureau: Justice Warren pointedly said the FBI had demonstrated that a regard for the rights of the accused can nevertheless produce "an admirable record of law enforcement."

As a newsman who has wandered in and out of Scotland Yard, Interpol, the Surete, the Carabinieri and even special police agencies in Tokyo and Yokohama, I can testify to the FBI's more scientific techniques, to its respect for suspect which exceeds that of any other national law agency and to its "admirable record."

It is worth looking at the record. In the 1965 appropriation report to Congress, Director Hoover noted that in 1964 the FBI brought 13,383 persons to trial. Of these there were 12,921 convictions. This is 96.5 per cent achievement.

And, of these convictions, a total of 91 per cent sprang from guilty pleas. There were 462 acquittals.

The investigative matters received by the Bureau ranged from solving bank robberies, saving businessmen from the mobs' invasion, getting goons off the backs of unions, probing 14 Ku Klux Klan-type organizations with a membership of about 9,000 frequently violent members.

In all, the number of such "investigative matters" totaled 666,982.

It would have been easy to haul in some of the suspects in this vast phalanx of crooks, Communists, racketeers, spies, kidnappers, and bank and auto thieves -- just to name a few. It would have been simple to pressure them. The awe of the FBI's name alone could have cracked the endless chain of the Ten Most Wanted.

But not in a single case did the Bureau use illegal mental or physical muscle. And in some instances, it must have been tempting.

There are the Kluxer terrorists.

There is the Midwestern Syndicate hood who owns seemingly legitimate businesses, including a produce distributorship, a bakery, a race track, a bus line, a real estate firm and a restaurant. At each point his muscled "enforcers" deprive legitimate businessmen of their rights to compete.

It must have been tempting to push just a little harder against the line of the law when such spies as John W. Butenko, an electronics engineer, and Igor A. Ivanov, a Russian chauffeur for the Amtorg Trading Corp., were picked up red-handed in a New Jersey suburb. They were accorded the same rights as someone stealing a nickel stamp.

There are a thousand such men who daily threaten the security of the land and the inherent rights of millions in the citizenry.

But the Bureau is battling for those rights without abusing anyone's rights, says Chief Justice Warren.

It is an accolade from a man deeply admired by the Bureau's sharpest critics. It should not go unobserved.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON -- Working quietly backstage, the auto lobby has made amazing progress in the House Commerce Committee toward gutting the auto safety bill.

Detroit's chief weapon has been the National Auto Dealers Association and its members. It's an election year, congressmen need campaign funds, and the combination of this plus astute salesmanship has caused the auto dealers to brag that they have the staggers committee all sewed up.

The bill the committee is reporting out is milk - and - water compared to the tougher senate bill when it comes to setting safety standards which the automobile industry must follow.

The key congressmen whom the auto lobbyists claim to have wrapped up are: Walter Rogers, Tex., Democrat; Glenn Cunningham, Neb., Albert Watson, S.C., James Harvey, Mich., Arthur Younger, Calif., all Republicans, with support from most of the other Republicans on the committee.

Rogers of Pampa, Tex., incidentally, is the Democrat who has gone to bat for Madison Avenue to champion unregulated cigaret advertising and the TV networks' demand that they be free to glut the airways with commercials. So it's not surprising that Rogers is for the auto industry lobby, which is a long way from Pampa, Tex.

It's also not surprising that Rep. Cunningham of Omaha is for the auto lobby. Though George Meany and the AFL consistently endorse him, Cunningham votes for almost everything labor is against, except the Taft - Hartley Act.

PRO-SAFETY CONGRESSMEN

Congressmen who are for strong safety standards for the auto industry include Torbert MacDonald, Mass., John Moss, Calif., Lionel Van Deerlin, Calif., John M. Murphy, N. Y., Olive Huot, N. H., Charles Farnsley, Ky., and James MacKay, Ga., all Democrats. However, they are unorganized and handicapped by the fact that the committee staff, William Dickson and Charles Stevenson, are apathetic and seem influenced by the auto dealers lobby.

Kindly Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., appears bewildered by the controversy, hasn't taken a strong stand as did Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Magnuson, with the help of other senators, took the weak Johnson Administration Bill and put teeth in it. Knowing the makeup of the senate committee, the auto dealers didn't waste time lobbying on the senate side. They concentrated on the weaker house committee and achieved results.

The auto lobby has been aided, indirectly, by the lackadaisical attitude to White House Aide Joseph A. Califano, former assistant to Secretary of Defense McNamara, who was sent from the Pentagon to the White House to help the President. Califano can be a ball of fire when he is bucking the big aluminum companies or passing a mass transportation bill. He's resting on his oars, however, regarding auto safety.

Congressmen know that when LBJ really wants a bill passed he turns on the heat. They get the cue immediately.

As a result of Califano's lethargy, they figure the White House isn't much interested in auto safety.

The House Commerce Committee has even killed the tire-safety bill passed by the Senate Commerce Committee. Rep. Staggers and his staff, apparently unworried about wrecks from blowouts on the highway, won't even report the tire bill out of the committee.

If the house succeeds in putting across its version of the auto safety bill, congress will be handing the executive branch of the government a lot of responsibility with little authority to enforce it -- which is what leads to public disillusionment with government.

A CONGRESSMAN SWINGS WILD

While Speaker John McCormack refuses to appoint a House Ethics Committee to police the standards of congressmen, the voters of Brooklyn may do their own policing. One of their congressmen, Abe Multer, Democrat,, who has flagrantly ignored ethical standards, is having the election fight of his life.

Abe is the member of the House Banking and Currency Committee who has used this key position to influence his own banking interests. He has invested in banks at the very same time he was passing on banking legislation.

In Brooklyn right now, Multer faces opposition in the Democratic primary from Mel Dubin, a Democratic reform candidate who has the usually benign Multer so scared that he is swinging wild.

Multer is making absurd charges against Dubin, even calling him anti - Jewish, though Dubin is a Jew. Multer or his followers are also resorting to McCarthyism. Recently, plastic tapes have been appearing in Brooklyn with letters on the tape punched out to read: "Mel Dubin is a Commie."

Dubin happens to be a solid businessman, a manufacturer of heating radiators.

Note -- Most effective charge Dubin has made against Multer is that he doesn't have an office in his own district. The congressman operates a prosperous law firm in Manhattan.

NEW YORK (AP) —How do you get along with your boss?

There are dozens of newspaper columns that give advice to the lovelorn—few that give advice to the workworn.

This is odd. In a business-oriented civilization such as ours, there must be at least three people who are unhappy in their jobs for every one who is unhappy in love.

The key to success lies in being able to court your boss at least as successfully as you do your wife.

Here are a few tested formulas that should help any ambitious young junior executive to win over his employer:

Try to inherit as much money as possible. A boss is always a bit in awe of any employe who has more money than he—no matter how it was acquired.

When he leaves early for the day, don't take the next elevator down yourself. He may have forgotten something, come back and find you gone.

If you get a really creative new idea, avoid presenting it as your own. Tell him apologetically, "Chief, I really stole this one from you, but why don't we—"

If he breaks down and gives his secretary a $1.50 box of candy on her birthday, let him believe you think he's "just a sentimental old pirate." That's how all bosses like to regard themselves.

Smile appreciatively at his jokes, but don't give him a belly laugh or a slap on the back. Such gestures are made only by hopeless underlings.

Avoid drinking with him at office parties when he is being a good fellow with the mob. If he wants to have a drink with you, let him take you to lunch or invite you to his home or club.

Never, never try to butter up your boss's wife. That's a job for your own wife, and she probably knows how to do it better than you.

Should the "old man" have to go to a hospital don't send him a funny get-well card as soon as he comes out of the anesthetic. Bosses want to be missed. Make up an emergency and phone him for help. Tell him the place will fall apart if he doesn't get back soon.

When you let him beat you at golf, don't be a good sport about it. Show some temper. Gripe at him, break a club around a tree, accuse him of cheating. Businessmen don't enjoy beating good losers. They like to beat a loser who shows his wounds.

Sooner or later, and probably later, he will give you a raise. Be sure to thank him, but in away that shows disappointment as well as gratitude. If you wag your tail too enthusiastically, he may get the idea that he's paying as much for your talent as it's really worth to him. No boss likes to feel he's doing that for an employe; it makes him look like a bad bargainer.

As a last resort, of course, you can impress your boss by working like a dog and doing your job better than it has ever been done by anyone.

But that does take time—and you may not be that old-fashioned.

THE COMMUNISTS CONVENE

The Communist Party U.S.A. opened a five-day convention in New York on Wednesday (June 22).

THE COMMUNIST PARTY U.S.A. has become rather camp, like Mah Jngg, snoods, wedgies, Tiffany glass and the Big Apple. It is said that the party could meet in a phone booth and have room to spare. Or that most of its members are undercover F.B.I. men. In other words, no one takes the American Reds very seriously nowadays, except perhaps J. Edgar Hoover and the Reds themselves.

Nevertheless, the Communists are holding a five-day national convention -- the first since 1959 -- at Webster Hall in New York City which started June 22. Gus Hall, identified only as the party's "leading spokesman," addressed the Wednesday evening session, which was open to the public. The remaining meetings are being held behind closed doors.

The usual purpose of a national political convention is to nominate candidates for public office. Chances are that the Communists will run Herbert Aptheker for Congress from a Brooklyn district. Aptheker, the party's leading theoretician, had his passport lifted by the State Department last February after he took an unauthorized trip to North Viet Nam.

A SUPREME COURT decision handed down last Nov. 15 made the Communist Party convention possible. In an 8-0 opinion, the Court reversed Justice Department orders demanding that two party members register with the U. S. Attorney General, as required by the Internal Security Act of 1950. The decision appeared to render the act unenforceable. At least, the Communists seem to think so.

The party has gone steadily downhill since 1945, when it had between 75,000 and 80,000 members. The most generous current estimate of membership is 12,000. While various subversive activities control laws hastened the decline, Joseph Stalin may have delivered the most telling blow.

Earl Browder, purged from the party in 1945, later wrote that Stalin had failed to realize that "The New World was really a NEW world" and that Soviet Marxism needed to be revised accordingly. By halting the process of Americanism within the party, Browder felt, Stalin sentenced communism in this country to "political death."

NOW THE PARTY has undertaken a "new program" which looks suspiciously like a popular front effort. The program, made public last February, calls for an alliance of "the forces arrayed against monopoly" and war. These include "the working class," Negroes, small farmers, small businessmen, intellectuals, professional and young people, members of civil rights and peace movements. Just about everyone except our millionnaires.

In keeping with this approach, the party has invited such groups as Students for a Democratic Society, the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs, and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee to send observers to the New York convention.

It would be surprising indeed if the "new left" heeded the Communist cry for unity. Youthful and almost anarchic in outlook, the new leftist groups tend to regard the Communist Party U.S.A. as a quaint relic from a bygone age. "Don't trust anyone over 30," they say. The native Communist leadership is considerably older than that.

BY PRODUCT: TEACHER ENTHUSIASM, INTEREST

Surprising is the amount of newspaper interest and enthusiasm churned up by teachers getting involved with classroom use of newspapers. Many teachers have used newspapers for many years in simplified ways with multiplied interest to both students and themselves. But showing them new and different ideas whets their creative urge and the results have been terrific. Interested, enthusiastic teachers are better teachers, and this by-product of newspaper-in-the-classroom program is an important plus for school systems and students wherever newspaper-school cooperation brings newspapers into the classroom as a teaching aid. Try it locally and see for yourself!

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Recently a Roman Catholic priest in Chicago called moving traffic violations "one of the new sins that have arisen since Moses received the Ten Commandments."

The Rev. John S. Banahan told a conclave of traffic judges, prosecutors and clergymen that he wished his parishioners would include their "traffic sins" in their confessions.

Dan Hollingsworth, traffic consultant for the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, also commented recently on the moral aspect of traffic violations. He said: "The automobile and its use, and our mass attitude toward it, is doing something to our moral fiber, which I contend is worse than our annual toll of 43,000 dead and one and one-half million injured."

Hollingsworth pinpointed the decay in the moral fiber of this nation of drivers as "intolerance" that makes a driver vindictive, aggressive and full of hate for other drivers.

He asked: "If it is too much to ask that we love one another, and if we can't bring ourselves around to even linking one another, could we at least tolerate and cooperate for purely selfish and survival reasons."

The traffic accident situation will continue to worsen, Hollingsworth believes, until people decide they've been to enough funerals, spent enough time in hospital emergency rooms -- until they've become willing to use their votes, knowledge and influence to help correct the situation that permits this "malignancy of morals" to persist.

Disdain for traffic laws, Hollingsworth maintains, is the "situation" that permits the malignancy.

"Law and government," he said, "can call for high standards of moral and ethical conduct in traffic. But, if the majority of the people do not accept it, and support those agencies enforcing it, then that law becomes less effective than no law at all."

WATCH YOUR STATE TAX BOOSTERS

A primary purpose of federal tax reduction, accomplished and projected, is to stimulate the economy by giving people more take-home pay to spend.

But soaring state taxes are undermining that policy to a significant extent.

A U.S. News & World Report article is revealing and sobering. State taxes totaled $24.2 billion in the last fiscal year, a rise of more than $2 billion over the preceding year. So that rise," says the magazine, "siphoned off an amount equal to one third of the $6.5 billion federal tax reduction for individuals on 1964 income."

More, it looks as if the worst is yet to come. Almost all the state legislatures will meet in 1966, and it will be a rare state in which programs for more and higher taxes of varied kinds are not urged.

The moral is plain. The taxpayers, if they are to obtain any real relief, must keep a close and wary eye on the state houses, no less than on the national capitol.

THE PARAMOUNT OBLIGATION

"Government may guide and help its citizens but cannot supply talent to those who do not have it -- or bestow ambition or initiative or creative ability on those who are not born with these qualities. And the individuals who do have these God-given capacities will not require governmental stimulus as they strive to improve the 'great society' of yesteryears."

This goes to the heart of the matter. Whatever the programs, whatever the dramatic

TRUST IS EARNED

The investor-owned utility industry of this country never stands still. It goes steadily ahead, setting new record after new record and providing service of a scope, dependability and economy unequalled anywhere else on earth.

Take, for instance, a few very recent examples out of dozens that could be cited.

A southern utility has applied for a license for the construction and operation of two hydroelectric power developments estimated to cost $84.7 million. A mountain state utility plans to spend $56 million on new construction this year, an increase of some $16 million over 1964. An eastern utility has scheduled capital expenditures of $47 million for 1965, and over the next five years its new plant and expansion costs will total $315 million. In the Southwest, site clearance has begun on an internationally sponsored $25 million nuclear electric power research project in which 17 investor - owned utilities are participating.

So it goes, everywhere in the nation where private enterprise is allowed to produce and distribute power. Technological advances of great importance are constantly being made. And, of no small moment, these utilities -- which pay about 25 cents of every revenue dollar in taxes -- are among the biggest contributors to government at all levels.

The advocates of socialization of the industry are still active as they always have been. But there is no evidence that any substantial part of the public supports them. The investor-owned utilities have earned, and will continue to earn, the public trust.

WRONG ON EVERY COUNT

The proposal that a tax, in the neighborhood of $100, be imposed on all Americans going abroad, as a means of easing the balance of payments problem, has been given considerable attention. It has brought this report from Newsweek magazine: ". . . the State Department, along with Fed. chairman Martin and other monetary experts, quickly argued that such a move would be ineffective as well as political dynamite. NOT HOW MANY DOCTORS, BUT WHERE?

There may be a shortage of doctors in America -- and for numerous small towns without one at all there is no "maybe" about it -- but the paradox is that the shortage is not as much one of numbers as of distribution.

There were 252,984 physicians in the United States in 1960, or one for every 737 persons. By the end of 1965, the medical population had risen to 293,088, or one for every 681 persons.

This trend is expected to continue, says the American Medical Association. It estimates that by 1975 the number of doctors will total at least 360,000. With a population forecast of 230 million, the doctor-people ratio will thus improve to one physician for every 638 persons.

By 1970, 13 new medical schools will be in operation, making a total of 101. Six others are probable and six more are possible by 1975.

Nevertheless, for a variety of reasons, many rural areas lack enough doctors. To help correct this imbalance between city and country, the AMA has a Physician's Placement Service, which acts as a clearing house for information for doctors seeking a place to practice and for communities looking for a doctor. There are also state medical society placement bureaus and rural health committees tackling the same problem.

In addition, thanks to a Sears-Roebuck Foundation -- AMA program that brings doctors and small towns together, 137 communities which otherwise might not have physicians now have them.

All this is part of the answer. Another part, says the AMA, is men like Walter A. Mendyka, MD., who left a well-established practice in Cleveland and moved his wife and 11 children to a rural town in Maine nearly 1,000 miles away.

"I felt I could be of more use and fill a need for both myself and the community," explains Mendyka. "It was a way I could get that nagging feeling off my mind."

H. L. Hunt Says

FREEDOM FIRST

Across the length and breadth of America more people today are asking themselves and their neighbors, "How do we keep freedom?" They seem to see it slipping away on every side. Sometimes it seems that the more it is discussed, the less of it we have.

The answer to this question is simple. The only way we can keep freedom is to value it more than anything else. That was the fundamental meaning of the watchword of the founders of our nation: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." That was precisely what Benjamin Franklin meant when he said that the Constitutional Convention in 1787 had given the citizens of this nation "a Republic, if you can keep it."

Freedom is always in peril, because it is always in the interest of the power-seekers and the predators to destroy it and seize its fruits. Unless they are restrained by the combination of a united public opinion committed to the moral rightness of freedom, and an equally united public determination to defend liberty at all costs, these power-seekers and predators will prevail.

When any other value is placed ahead of individual liberty, then clever people will at once exploit that supposed superior value and use it as a justification for destroying freedom. If we value "economic security" more than freedom, they will promise us the security of the well-fed prisoner. If we value "humanitarianism" more than freedom, they will introduce forced charity. If we value life itself more than freedom, they will chant "Better Red than dead." If we put freedom first, it will remain there. HLH

Washington Merry- Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Working quietly backstage, the auto lobby has made amazing progress in the House Commerce Committee toward gutting the auto safety bill.

Detroit's chief weapon has been the National Auto Dealers Association and its members. It's an election year, congressmen need campaign funds, and the combination of this plus astute salesmanship has caused the auto dealers to brag that they have the staggers committee all sewed up.

The bill the committee is reporting out is milk - and - water compared to the tougher senate bill when it comes to setting safety standards which the automobile industry must follow.

The key congressmen whom the auto lobbyists claim to have wrapped up are: Walter Rogers, Tex., Democrat; Glenn Cunningham, Neb., Albert Watson, S.C., James Harvey, Mich., Arthur Younger, Calif., all Republicans, with support from most of the other Republicans on the committee.

Rogers of Pampa, Tex., incidentally, is the Democrat who has gone to bat for Madison Avenue to champion unregulated cigaret advertising and the TV networks' demand that they be free to glut the airways with commercials. So it's not surprising that Rogers is for the auto industry lobby, which is a long way from Pampa, Tex.

It's also not surprising that Rep. Cunningham of Omaha is for the auto lobby. Though George Meany and the AFL consistently endorse him, Cunningham votes for almost everything labor is against, except the Taft - Hartley Act.

PRO-SAFETY CONGRESSMEN

Congressmen who are for strong safety standards for the auto industry include Torbert MacDonald, Mass., John Moss, Calif., Lionel Van Deerlin, Calif., John M. Murphy, N. Y., Olive Huot, N. H., Charles Farnsley, Ky., and James MacKay, Ga., all Democrats. However, they are unorganized and handicapped by the fact that the committee staff, William Dickson and Charles Stevenson, are apathetic and seem influenced by the auto dealers lobby.

Kindly Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., appears bewildered by the controversy, hasn't taken a strong stand as did Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Magnuson, with the help of other senators, took the weak Johnson Administration Bill and put teeth in it. Knowing the makeup of the senate committee, the auto dealers didn't waste time lobbying on the senate side. They concentrated on the weaker house committee and achieved results.

The auto lobby has been aided, indirectly, by the lackadaisical attitude to White House Aide Joseph A. Califano, former assistant to Secretary of Defense McNamara, who was sent from the Pentagon to the White House to help the President. Califano can be a ball of fire when he is bucking the big aluminum companies or passing a mass transportation bill. He's resting on his oars, however, regarding auto safety.

Congressmen know that when LBJ really wants a bill passed he turns on the heat. They get the cue immediately.

As a result of Califano's lethargy, they figure the White House isn't much interested in auto safety.

The House Commerce Committee has even killed the tire-safety bill passed by the Senate Commerce Committee. Rep. Staggers and his staff, apparently unworried about wrecks from blowouts on the highway, won't even report the tire bill out of the committee.

If the house succeeds in putting across its version of the auto safety bill, congress will be handing the executive branch of the government a lot of responsibility with little authority to enforce it -- which is what leads to public disillusionment with government.

A CONGRESSMAN SWINGS WILD

While Speaker John McCormack refuses to appoint a House Ethics Committee to police the standards of congressmen, the voters of Brooklyn may do their own policing. One of their congressmen, Abe Multer, Democrat,, who has flagrantly ignored ethical standards, is having the election fight of his life.

Abe is the member of the House Banking and Currency Committee who has used this key position to influence his own banking interests. He has invested in banks at the very same time he was passing on banking legislation.

In Brooklyn right now, Multer faces opposition in the Democratic primary from Mel Dubin, a Democratic reform candidate who has the usually benign Multer so scared that he is swinging wild.

Multer is making absurd charges against Dubin, even calling him anti - Jewish, though Dubin is a Jew. Multer or his followers are also resorting to McCarthyism. Recently, plastic tapes have been appearing in Brooklyn with letters on the tape punched out to read: "Mel Dubin is a Commie."

Dubin happens to be a solid businessman, a manufacturer of heating radiators.

Note -- Most effective charge Dubin has made against Multer is that he doesn't have an office in his own district. The congressman operates a prosperous law firm in Manhattan.

Inside Labor

Chief Justice Warren hails FBI crime-fighting record: Says it is achieved despite new freedoms for suspects.

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Before the Supreme Court goes fully out of season, the words spoken recently by Chief Justice Earl Warren about J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation should be cast broadly across the land.

To say the least, when Justice Warren praises the FBI, and when the high bench finds compelling reason to praise such a law enforcement agency, it is record-making news.

While handing down the famous "confession decision" the other day, Justice Warren undoubtedly disappointed some avant garde circles by stating that the FBI "has compiled an exemplary record" in this regard. He was supporting the court's claim that effective law enforcement is possible under the new guidelines for police questioning of suspects.

Justice Warren, a former tough "D. A.," who grilled many criminals himself, pointed out that the FBI advises suspects or arrested persons at the outset of an interview or questioning that they positively are not required to answer or make a statement.

Furthermore, FBI agents point out that any statement given by the suspect may be used in court against him. And that those arrested or questioned may secure a lawyer to secure their rights.

If the suspect indicates, said Mr. Warren, that he wishes an attorney, the FBI agents cease their questioning immediately.

And, added the chief justice, the FBI informs its prisoners or those being questioned that they have the right to free counsel if they are unable to pay for a private lawyer.

One thing has been overlooked -- especially by those who are perpetually emotional in their criticism of the Bureau: Justice Warren pointedly said the FBI had demonstrated that a regard for the rights of the accused can nevertheless produce "an admirable record of law enforcement."

As a newsman who has wandered in and out of Scotland Yard, Interpol, the Surete, the Carabinieri and even special police agencies in Tokyo and Yokohama, I can testify to the FBI's more scientific techniques, to its respect for suspect which exceeds that of any other national law agency and to its "admirable record."

It is worth looking at the record. In the 1965 appropriation report to Congress, Director Hoover noted that in 1964 the FBI brought 13,383 persons to trial. Of these there were 12,921 convictions. This is 96.5 per cent achievement.

And, of these convictions, a total of 91 per cent sprang from guilty pleas. There were 462 acquittals.

The investigative matters received by the Bureau ranged from solving bank robberies, saving businessmen from the mobs' invasion, getting goons off the backs of unions, probing 14 Ku Klux Klan-type organizations with a membership of about 9,000 frequently violent members.

In all, the number of such "investigative matters" totaled 666,982.

It would have been easy to haul in some of the suspects in this vast phalanx of crooks, Communists, racketeers, spies, kidnappers, and bank and auto thieves -- just to name a few. It would have been simple to pressure them. The awe of the FBI's name alone could have cracked the endless chain of the Ten Most Wanted.

But not in a single case did the Bureau use illegal mental or physical muscle. And in some instances, it must have been tempting.

There are the Kluxer terrorists.

There is the Midwestern Syndicate hood who owns seemingly legitimate businesses, including a produce distributorship, a bakery, a race track, a bus line, a real estate firm and a restaurant. At each point his muscled "enforcers" deprive legitimate businessmen of their rights to compete.

It must have been tempting to push just a little harder against the line of the law when such spies as John W. Butenko, an electronics engineer, and Igor A. Ivanov, a Russian chauffeur for the Amtorg Trading Corp., were picked up red-handed in a New Jersey suburb. They were accorded the same rights as someone stealing a nickel stamp.

There are a thousand such men who daily threaten the security of the land and the inherent rights of millions in the citizenry.

But the Bureau is battling for those rights without abusing anyone's rights, says Chief Justice Warren.

It is an accolade from a man deeply admired by the Bureau's sharpest critics. It should not go unobserved.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry E. Turley

Miss Regina Chapman Pledges Vows With Jerry E. Turley

MOREHOUSE -- Miss Regina Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Chapman, and Jerry E. Turley of Florrissant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Turley of East Prairie, were married on Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church. The Rev. James Estep officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with an arched candelabra in the center and tiered candelabrum on either side along with baskets of white gladioli. The candles were lighted by Master Dennis Turley of East Prairie, brother of the groom, and Miss Jeanine Chapman of Columbia, niece of the bride.

Organ music was played by Mrs. Roberta Hubbs of Sikeston as the guests were seated. She also accompanied Mrs. Berta Jane Jones, vocalist, who sang "Because," "With This Ring," and the "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt.

Chapman escorted his only daughter down a white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. The bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of angelskin peau de soie featuring a beaded bodice with an arched midriff and long tapered sleeves. The skirt, a slender silhouette emphasizing simple elegance, was enhanced by an overskirt that swept into a chapel train. Her veil was of imported silk illusion, secured to a crown of orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white carnations, and she completed her ensemble with white satin shoes.

Mrs. Billie Chapman of Columbia served as matron of honor for her sister-in-law. Bridesmaids were Misses Jennifer Puckett of Sikeston and Mary Rowell of Morehouse.

Little Michelle and Rene Chapman of Columbia, nieces of the bride, serving as flower girls, carried little baskets and dropped roses in the path of the bride.

All of the bride's attendants were dressed in floor-length dresses of pink dotted Swiss over solid pink dacron polyester with cummerbunds of deep pink organdy. Their headdresses were crowns of pink tulle, secured to organdy bows with nose tip veils. The matron of honor and bridesmaids all carried long stemmed pink rose buds. The rest of the bridal party had pink carnation corsages.

Mrs. Chapman, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a turquoise silk shantung two-piece suit with accessories tinted to match, white gloves and a white carnation corsage completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Turley chose for her son's wedding, a beige Irish linen dress with beige lace top, beige accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The table was decorated with pink satin covered in pink tulle which was secured at vantage points by large pink bows, carrying out the bride's chosen colors of two shades of pink. In the center of the table was a four tiered wedding cake and lighted tapers in silver holders were on either side. On one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and on the other end a silver coffee service.

Miss Patsy McWilliams served at the punch bowl, Mary Gruen attended the silver coffee service and Mrs. Joe Barnett served the cake. Attending at the bride's guest book was Mrs. Aimee Sailors. All of the ladies wore pink carnation corsages to complement their attire.

After changing to a beige knit suit and brown accessories, the bride pinned an orchid corsage to her suit. The couple left for a trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, after which they will be at home at 625 North Florissant Road in Florissant.

The bride formerly was a case worker for Scott County Welfare Office and she will be transferred to St. Charles County Welfare Office in St. Charles where she will continue to work. Turley is employed as a state highway patrolman working out of Kirkwood.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman entertained with a rehearsal dinner at the Mid-towner restaurant in Sikeston with all of the bridal party in attendance and also the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Ethyl Strayer.

Out of town guests attending the Chapman-Turley wedding were:

Peggy Bohannon Is Bride Of Richard W. Decker

MATTHEWS -- The Christ Lutheran church was the scene Sunday at 3 p.m. of the wedding of Miss Peggy Sue Bohannon and Sp-4 Richard W. Decker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carp Bohannon and the groom is the son of Mrs. Virble Decker and the late Mr. Decker.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a white taffeta gown that was styled with a pleated nylon skirt and accented with white lace at the bodice. She wore a small white circlet headpiece and veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of miniature white carnations. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's attendant was Miss Francis Decker, sister of the groom. She wore a blue taffeta dress overlaid with white dotted net, a small blue satin circlet to which a blue satin cabbage rose was attached. The headpiece was encircled with a blue veil. She carried white carnations.

Virgil Burks of Sikeston, a friend of the groom, was best man.

The Rev. Fred Decker, pastor of the church, read the vows of the single ring ceremony.

Miss Kathryn Clark of Sikeston, organist, played the nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Soloist Mrs. Theodore Seabaugh of Charleston, who sang "Oh Perfect Love."

The bride's mother was attired in a blue print dress and wore a red rose bud corsage. The groom's mother wore a green print dress and an orchid corsage.

The reception for relatives and friends was held in the church parlor. The serving table was overlaid with a white linen cloth trimmed with blue lovers' knots and blue flowers. The table was centered with the wedding cake.

Around the cake were wedding bells. The cake was served ding bells. The cake was served by Mrs. Nora Bohannon, aunt of the bride, and punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Louise Curtis and Mrs. Jewell Gaines.

13 Get Licenses At New Madrid

NEW MADRID -- Of the 26 people taking the driver license examinations Friday in New Madrid, 13 passed and qualified. There were seven who failed the written test and six who faltered on the road test for a total of 13 failures.

Many of these take the examination a second time, then fully qualify.

Now entitled to operator's license are eight persons: Johnny P. Spradling, Gwendolyn L. Walton, Charles E. Graham, Dulce R. Whittaker, Vertie L. Eppoleto, Landa L. Hicks, Abe C. Dukes, Gary W. Loomis.

Four became eligible for instruction permits: Kenneth A. Kell, Lelia F. Wade, Orssie L. Jenkins and Larry D. Yarbro. One person, Robert A. Blom earned a chauffeur license.

Kinds of Thermometers

Did you know there's a roast meat thermometer as well as one especially designed to indicate cooking temperature when grilling meats?

Roast meat thermometers, which indicate the internal temperature or doneness of meat, are better known, of course, than those for grilling.

Many are purchasing thermometers for their grills to make sure certain foods are not cooked at too high a temperature.

In the center of the table was a four tiered wedding cake and lighted tapers in silver holders were on either side. On one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and on the other end a silver coffee service.

Miss Patsy McWilliams served at the punch bowl, Mary Gruen attended the silver coffee service and Mrs. Joe Barnett served the cake. Attending at the bride's guest book was Mrs. Aimee Sailors. All of the ladies wore pink carnation corsages to complement their attire.

After changing to a beige knit suit and brown accessories, the bride pinned an orchid corsage to her suit. The couple left for a trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, after which they will be at home at 625 North Florissant Road in Florissant.

The bride formerly was a case worker for Scott County Welfare Office and she will be transferred to St. Charles County Welfare Office in St. Charles where she will continue to work. Turley is employed as a state highway patrolman working out of Kirkwood.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman entertained with a rehearsal dinner at the Mid-towner restaurant in Sikeston with all of the bridal party in attendance and also the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Ethyl Strayer.

Out of town guests attending the Chapman-Turley wedding were:

Local Briefs

Arriving today to spend the weekend with his parents is Mr. Lewis Blanton of St. Louis, and his fiancee, Miss Barbara Fenton. They will be guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Blanton of this city. The young couple will be married in St. Louis, on Saturday, July 9.

Master Lee Blanton has just returned from a four - day visit at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Viverette Lee of Charleston, where he was happily entertained, while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blanton, III, of Sikeston, were busy with another son Brete, who had quite a hearty case of chickenpox.

Visiting yesterday at the home of her family, was Mrs. Dorothy Pardon of Portageville. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Conley and children Gerry, Kathy, and Jeffery, who reside at 715 School Street.

Just returned from a ten-day vacation spent in Mobile, Pensacola, and Fort Walton Beach, Florida, are Mr. and Mrs. Jere Cox of 810 Scott Street, and their children Rich and Lisa.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cooper and son Craig of Sikeston, spent last weekend in St. Louis, as guests of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beggs and family. While there, the Coopers took in the ball game in the new stadium, and also made a delightful trip to the Zoo.

Here visiting this past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Craft of 410 Tanner, were relatives from Jackson, Mississippi, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Craft and their daughter Ann.

Weekend visitors of Mary Buchanan were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Buchanan, all of Cottage Hill, Mrs. Viola Bratcher of St. Louis and Mrs. James Kinsey of Kewanee. They were here to attend the Buchanan-Owen wedding Saturday.

Recent Bride Is Honored At Shower

A bridal shower was given for Mrs. Bill Standridge last Monday evening at the Security National Bank community room. Mrs. Kathleen Sloan was hostess and Mrs. Zoletta Godwin, co-hostess.

The former Miss Donna Duff and Bill Standridge were married Saturday afternoon, June 11.

The gift and refreshment tables were covered with white cloths and blue streamers were attached and tied in bows at each end and the center with white wedding bells secured at each bow.

On the gift table, a large bride doll stood with a ruffled umbrella decoration. Centered on the refreshment table was a bouquet of white gladioli with a blue candle on each side. The silver coffee service appointed one end with a crystal punch bowl at the other end.

Refreshments of sandwiches, nuts, mints, cookies, coffee and orange punch were served.

Games of "Bride" were played with the prizes won given to Mrs. Standridge.

Those attending or sending gifts were Eloise Lingle, Helen Payne, Margie and Connie Beck, Margaret Morphis, Joan Phillips, Wanda and Connie Bolden, Roxie Eaton, Becky Sloan.

Peggy Bohannon Is Bride Of Richard W. Decker

MATTHEWS -- The Christ Lutheran church was the scene Sunday at 3 p.m. of the wedding of Miss Peggy Sue Bohannon and Sp-4 Richard W. Decker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carp Bohannon and the groom is the son of Mrs. Virbie Decker and the late Mr. Decker.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a white taffeta gown that was styled with a pleated nylon skirt and accented with white lace at the bodice. She wore a small white circlet headpiece and veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of miniature white carnations. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's attendant was Miss Francis Decker, sister of the groom. She wore a blue taffeta dress overlaid with white dotted net, a small blue satin circlet to which a blue satin cabbage rose was attached. The headpiece was encircled with a blue veil. She carried white carnations.

Virgil Burks of Sikeston, a friend of the groom, was best man.

The Rev. Fred Decker, pastor of the church, read the vows of the single ring ceremony.

Miss Kathryn Clark of Sikeston, organist, played the nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Soloist Mrs. Theodore Seabaugh of Charleston, who sang "Oh Perfect Love."

The bride's mother was attired in a blue print dress and wore a red rose bud corsage. The groom's mother wore a green print dress and an orchid corsage.

The reception for relatives and friends was held in the church parlor. The serving table was overlaid with a white linen cloth trimmed with blue lovers' knots and blue flowers. The table was centered with the wedding cake.

Around the cake were wedding bells. The cake was served ding bells. The cake was served by Mrs. Nora Bohannon, aunt of the bride, and punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Louise Curtis and Mrs. Jewell Gaines.

13 Get Licenses At New Madrid

NEW MADRID -- Of the 26 people taking the driver license examinations Friday in New Madrid, 13 passed and qualified. There were seven who failed the written test and six who faltered on the road test for a total of 13 failures.

Many of these take the examination a second time, then fully qualify.

Now entitled to operator's license are eight persons: Johnny P. Spradling, Gwendolyn L. Walton, Charles E. Graham, Dulce R. Whittaker, Vertie L. Eppoleto, Landa L. Hicks, Abe C. Dukes, Gary W. Loomis.

Four became eligible for instruction permits: Kenneth A. Kell, Lelia F. Wade, Orssie L. Jenkins and Larry D. Yarbro. One person, Robert A. Blom earned a chauffeur license.

Kinds of Thermometers

Did you know there's a roast meat thermometer as well as one especially designed to indicate cooking temperature when grilling meats?

Roast meat thermometers, which indicate the internal temperature or doneness of meat, are better known, of course, than those for grilling.

Many are purchasing thermometers for their grills to make sure certain foods are not cooked at too high a temperature.

McKNIGHT KEATON WILL BE CLOSED: JULY 2nd THROUGH JULY 10th

It is AGAIN time for summer vacations -- and INVENTORY.
During this period there will be no one in the warehouse (except the watchman) -- NOR IN THE OFFICE -- to "wait on the trade."
We will SINCERELY APPRECIATE it if you will CHECK YOUR NEEDS CLOSELY, make up your want list very carefully, and have it ready for our salesman when he calls the week of June 27th.
We do not want our closing to "put you out" in the least, -- hence, this request. Your help will be greatly appreciated.

ACTION CAN be as exciting in the Dexter Civic League as in any major league game, as this unsuccessful attempt to steal home shows.

THE CATCHER'S equipment is furnished by the league. Tommy Edwards, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Edwards, is the catcher for the Coffey Camp team in the Dexter Civic League. He is a fifth grader at Central elementary school.

Dexter Baseball Program.. A Total Community Effort

DEXTER -- A major factor for the low juvenile crime rate at Dexter is the summer baseball program for boys, Charles Bland, commissioner of the boys' leagues, commented.

"When you keep about 230 boys busy playing baseball, they are bound to stay out of trouble," he said.

Dexter's baseball program serves boys in four age groups:

Civic league -- age 9-10, with six teams.

Little league -- age 11-12, with six teams.

Babe Ruth league -- age 13-15, with five teams.

Connie Mack team -- age 16 to 19.

The Connie Mack team plays in a league composed of teams throughout southeast Missouri.

The program was initiated eight years ago by a small group of men -- including Bland -- who wanted to provide Dexter boys with summer baseball leagues.

Their first goal -- obtaining a tract of land large enough to lay out a baseball field -- was reached when the school system donated a vacant field across from the junior high school.

But the terrain of the field -- which was mostly ditches -- had to be overhauled. This phase of the project gave a preview of the enthusiasm that has been shown by volunteers toward the program throughout its eight-year history, Bland noted.

Construction firms donated labor and bulldozers to clear and level the land, and the school donated about $1,000 worth of labor, Bland explained. Lighting for the field was acquired through contributions from citizens, and Missouri Utilities Co. installed the lights free of charge.

Bleacher seats and materials for a concession stand and dugouts were donated, and the stone blocks were installed free of charge.

Later a fence was built around the outfield to keep the baseballs from going into the street. This fence was financed partly by money taken in from concession stand sales, Bland said. The Dexter Garden Club and some of the boys have lined the fence with rosebushes to beautify the field.

At first the baseball program was financed through the sale of stickers but is now financed to a great extent through the United Fund. The program is allocated $1300 to $1500 each year by the United Fund, Bland explained.

Much of the equipment, such as bats, baseballs, catcher's paraphernalia, is furnished for the boys. Players must furnish their own shoes and gloves, he explained, and merchants -- who sponsor the teams -- supply the uniforms.

Team managers are usually parents of the boys playing in the leagues; umpires -- who are paid $1 a game -- are older boys playing in the baseball program. Other paid personnel are a scorekeeper and a boy who cleans up the park after each game, limes the baselines and puts out the bases.

To insure that the loss of baseballs is kept at a minimum, each youngster is given a free soft drink for every foul ball he retrieves, Bland added.

Any boy living in the Dexter school district or the Dexter trade area and who meets the age requirement is eligible to participate in the program, the commissioner noted. Desire, not skill, is a prime prerequisite; skill can be developed as the boy progresses in the program.

Games are played Monday through Saturday -- two games a night -- with each team playing twice a week, Bland said. There are 13 boys on each team, and every boy plays at least two innings a game. The season lasts from June 1 to August 1.

For the player's protection, he is required to wear a batting helmet while at bat and when he is a baserunner. The dugouts are also fenced in to protect the boys from being hit by foul balls.

The program is run by a board headed by Bland. Others on the board are William and Henry McCarty, Morman Lowes and Marsh Watkins. Bill Lee, who was on the board, recently moved to Florida.

In evaluating the program, Bland sited it as the primary reason for Dexter high school's outstanding football teams. The program, he explained, gets boys interested in sports and prepares them for the high school competition.

The program also brings out the cooperation of the adults. Parents are enthusiastic followers of the game, and are usually overcritical of the play of their own sons.

The games afford young couples a place to get together and have a good time, he added. And, of course, those boys who play in the leagues benefit the most because they develop the spirit of competition and teamwork.

Cards Sign Number Two Draft Choice

The Cardinals have signed two more of their choices in the recent free - agent draft, including their No. 2 pick, Dan Barrett of Hillcrest High School of Springfield, Missouri, it was announced today by Director of Scouting George Silvey.

Barrett, an 18-year-old shortstop, and Eddie Dixon, a 19-year-old pitcher - third baseman, are to report to Sarasota, Florida, of the Gulf Coast League.

Barrett was signed by Scout Runt Marr, and scouted by several other Cardinal officials. Scout Joe Monahan says "he's big and strong, has all-around ability", while Marr says "he has the tools to go all the way to the majors."

Barrett is six feet, one inch, weighs 195 and lives at Springfield. Dixon, who lives at Rockford, Tennessee, was signed by Scout Eddie Lyons. He is 6 feet, 1 inch tall, weighs 183, and attended Hiwassee Junior College.

Gibson Wins Eleventh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Athletics had the day off but the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson had to work hard last night for a 2-1 win over the pesky Houston Astros.

The big right hander scored his 11th win against six losses with a neat four hitter in which he fanned four to up his major league leading strike out total to 139.

Phil Gagliano, subbing for the injured Charley Smith at third base, broke up a 1-1 game in the eighth when he singled home Lou Brock who had tripled. The hit was off starter Dave Giusti, who incurred his fourth loss against nine wins.

The only run off Gibson was unearned. The Astros pushed it across in the fourth when Jim Wynn got on base on an error by Dal Maxvill and scored on the first hit off Gibson, Rusty Staub's single.

The Cardinals tied it in the fifth. Julian Javier got on a via a force out, advanced to third on Maxvill's single and scored on Gibson's force ut.

Nelson Briles K2-5 will pitch for St. Louis tonight at Houston against the Astros' Larry Dierker 3-2.

Kansas City will send Lew Krausse 3-3 against the Indians' John O'Donoghue 5-3 at Cleveland tonight.

Pirates Conducting Tryout Camp

The Pittsburgh Pirates are conducting a tryout camp here today and tomorrow at V. F. W. stadium and will be under the direction of Scouting Supervisor Chet Montgomery.

The Session will start at 9 a.m. and last until about 2 p.m.

Players must be 16 years old to be eligible to attend the camp, and no American Legion players will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any Legion activities. Such participation will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the Commander of the Legion Legion play.

Players are expected to furnish their own shoes, uniforms, gloves, etc., with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment.

Bethune Sets Record

Southpaw Dick Bethune, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bethune, Route two, Bertrand and switch-hitting Jack Fulmer went down in the Liberal Bee Jay record books Sunday night at the Fairgrounds Park when the former bested Tom Sexton of the Colorado Don's 2-1 in one of the top pitching performances ever turned in by a Bee Jay, and the latter poked out his third home run in three nights as Goldie Howard's Hustlers captured the rubber game of the series to run their season record to 8-4.

Bethune the crafty Arkansas State lefty retired 18 men in a row to break Alvis Ballew's consecutive batters retired mark of 17 straight.

Jack Bloomfield

Bloomfield Named To Japanese All-Star Team

TOKYO -- Jack Bloomfield, 36, formerly of Austin, Tex., team, was second in the voting of the Japanese All-Star baseball game to be played July 19.

Bloomfield, whose father, Alfred Bloomfield, was a former resident of Sikeston, has made the Japanese All-Star team the past six years.

Other American players who received votes were Kent Hadley, Norm Larker, Jim Baumer, Mike Kesnich, Carl Boles, Tony Roig, Lou Jackson and Daryl Spencer.

Bloomfield plays second base and was leading the Pacific League in batting with a .357. He played minor league ball in Seattle in the Pacific Coast League, a Cincinnati farm club, and now plays for the Nankai Hawks.

He visited his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Bloomfield, 303 Kendall, during the winter.

Basting Sauces

High sugar or sweetening content in the barbecue sauce? Use it for basting the meat on the out-of-doors grill only during the last hour or the meat surface will turn dark. Sugar causes the sauce to burn easily giving the roast an unpalatable appearance.

ACTION CAN be as exciting in the Dexter Civic League as in any major league game, as this unsuccessful attempt to steal home shows.

THE CATCHER'S equipment is furnished by the league. Tommy Edwards, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Edwards, is the catcher for the Coffey Camp team in the Dexter Civic League. He is a fifth grader at Central elementary school.

Dexter Baseball Program.. A Total Community Effort

DEXTER -- A major factor for the low juvenile crime rate at Dexter is the summer baseball program for boys, Charles Bland, commissioner of the boys' leagues, commented.

"When you keep about 230 boys busy playing baseball, they are bound to stay out of trouble," he said.

Dexter's baseball program serves boys in four age groups:

Civic league -- age 9-10, with six teams.

Little league -- age 11-12, with six teams.

Babe Ruth league -- age 13-15, with five teams.

Connie Mack team -- age 16 to 19.

The Connie Mack team plays in a league composed of teams throughout southeast Missouri.

The program was initiated eight years ago by a small group of men -- including Bland -- who wanted to provide Dexter boys with summer baseball leagues.

Their first goal -- obtaining a tract of land large enough to lay out a baseball field -- was reached when the school system donated a vacant field across from the junior high school.

But the terrain of the field -- which was mostly ditches -- had to be overhauled. This phase of the project gave a preview of the enthusiasm that has been shown by volunteers toward the program throughout its eight-year history, Bland noted.

Construction firms donated labor and bulldozers to clear and level the land, and the school donated about $1,000 worth of labor, Bland explained. Lighting for the field was acquired through contributions from citizens, and Missouri Utilities Co. installed the lights free of charge.

Bleacher seats and materials for a concession stand and dugouts were donated, and the stone blocks were installed free of charge.

Later a fence was built around the outfield to keep the baseballs from going into the street. This fence was financed partly by money taken in from concession stand sales, Bland said. The Dexter Garden Club and some of the boys have lined the fence with rosebushes to beautify the field.

At first the baseball program was financed through the sale of stickers but is now financed to a great extent through the United Fund. The program is allocated $1300 to $1500 each year by the United Fund, Bland explained.

Much of the equipment, such as bats, baseballs, catcher's paraphernalia, is furnished for the boys. Players must furnish their own shoes and gloves, he explained, and merchants -- who sponsor the teams -- supply the uniforms.

Team managers are usually parents of the boys playing in the leagues; umpires -- who are paid $1 a game -- are older boys playing in the baseball program. Other paid personnel are a scorekeeper and a boy who cleans up the park after each game, limes the baselines and puts out the bases.

To insure that the loss of baseballs is kept at a minimum, each youngster is given a free soft drink for every foul ball he retrieves, Bland added.

Any boy living in the Dexter school district or the Dexter trade area and who meets the age requirement is eligible to participate in the program, the commissioner noted. Desire, not skill, is a prime prerequisite; skill can be developed as the boy progresses in the program.

Games are played Monday through Saturday -- two games a night -- with each team playing twice a week, Bland said. There are 13 boys on each team, and every boy plays at least two innings a game. The season lasts from June 1 to August 1.

For the player's protection, he is required to wear a batting helmet while at bat and when he is a baserunner. The dugouts are also fenced in to protect the boys from being hit by foul balls.

The program is run by a board headed by Bland. Others on the board are William and Henry McCarty, Morman Lowes and Marsh Watkins. Bill Lee, who was on the board, recently moved to Florida.

In evaluating the program, Bland sited it as the primary reason for Dexter high school's outstanding football teams. The program, he explained, gets boys interested in sports and prepares them for the high school competition.

The program also brings out the cooperation of the adults. Parents are enthusiastic followers of the game, and are usually overcritical of the play of their own sons.

The games afford young couples a place to get together and have a good time, he added. And, of course, those boys who play in the leagues benefit the most because they develop the spirit of competition and teamwork.

Cards Sign Number Two Draft Choice

The Cardinals have signed two more of their choices in the recent free - agent draft, including their No. 2 pick, Dan Barrett of Hillcrest High School of Springfield, Missouri, it was announced today by Director of Scouting George Silvey.

Barrett, an 18-year-old shortstop, and Eddie Dixon, a 19-year-old pitcher - third baseman, are to report to Sarasota, Florida, of the Gulf Coast League.

Barrett was signed by Scout Runt Marr, and scouted by several other Cardinal officials. Scout Joe Monahan says "he's big and strong, has all-around ability", while Marr says "he has the tools to go all the way to the majors."

Barrett is six feet, one inch, weighs 195 and lives at Springfield. Dixon, who lives at Rockford, Tennessee, was signed by Scout Eddie Lyons. He is 6 feet, 1 inch tall, weighs 183, and attended Hiwassee Junior College.

Gibson Wins Eleventh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Athletics had the day off but the St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson had to work hard last night for a 2-1 win over the pesky Houston Astros.

The big right hander scored his 11th win against six losses with a neat four hitter in which he fanned four to up his major league leading strike out total to 139.

Phil Gagliano, subbing for the injured Charley Smith at third base, broke up a 1-1 game in the eighth when he singled home Lou Brock who had tripled. The hit was off starter Dave Giusti, who incurred his fourth loss against nine wins.

The only run off Gibson was unearned. The Astros pushed it across in the fourth when Jim Wynn got on base on an error by Dal Maxvill and scored on the first hit off Gibson, Rusty Staub's single.

The Cardinals tied it in the fifth. Julian Javier got on a via a force out, advanced to third on Maxvill's single and scored on Gibson's force ut.

Nelson Briles K2-5 will pitch for St. Louis tonight at Houston against the Astros' Larry Dierker 3-2.

Kansas City will send Lew Krausse 3-3 against the Indians' John O'Donoghue 5-3 at Cleveland tonight.

Pirates Conducting Tryout Camp

The Pittsburgh Pirates are conducting a tryout camp here today and tomorrow at V. F. W. stadium and will be under the direction of Scouting Supervisor Chet Montgomery.

The Session will start at 9 a.m. and last until about 2 p.m.

Players must be 16 years old to be eligible to attend the camp, and no American Legion players will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any Legion activities. Such participation will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the Commander of the Legion Legion play.

Players are expected to furnish their own shoes, uniforms, gloves, etc., with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment.

Bethune Sets Record

Southpaw Dick Bethune, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bethune, Route two, Bertrand and switch-hitting Jack Fulmer went down in the Liberal Bee Jay record books Sunday night at the Fairgrounds Park when the former bested Tom Sexton of the Colorado Don's 2-1 in one of the top pitching performances ever turned in by a Bee Jay, and the latter poked out his third home run in three nights as Goldie Howard's Hustlers captured the rubber game of the series to run their season record to 8-4.

Bethune the crafty Arkansas State lefty retired 18 men in a row to break Alvis Ballew's consecutive batters retired mark of 17 straight.

C.C. Scott Three Strokes Back in Mens Golf Tournament

ST. LOUIS -- C. C. Scott, 1 Clar-Mar Place, Scott Insurance agent, is three strokes back in the Senior Golf Tournament which is held at Sunset Country Club in St. Louis.

Baker who is entered in the 60-64 age group shot an 85 and had a handicap of 10 for a total of 75 for the day.

The final round will be played today, with the Thursday afternoon players teeing off in the morning.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

There was a time when it was advised that fat edging around steaks and chops be slashed to prevent the meat from curling. This is not necessary if the meat is cooked at a moderate, rather than high, temperature during broiling.

Jack Bloomfield

Bloomfield Named To Japanese All-Star Team

TOKYO -- Jack Bloomfield, 36, formerly of Austin, Tex., team, was second in the voting of the Japanese All-Star baseball game to be played July 19.

Bloomfield, whose father, Alfred Bloomfield, was a former resident of Sikeston, has made the Japanese All-Star team the past six years.

Other American players who received votes were Kent Hadley, Norm Larker, Jim Baumer, Mike Kesnich, Carl Boles, Tony Roig, Lou Jackson and Daryl Spencer.

Bloomfield plays second base and was leading the Pacific League in batting with a .357. He played minor league ball in Seattle in the Pacific Coast League, a Cincinnati farm club, and now plays for the Nankai Hawks.

He visited his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Bloomfield, 303 Kendall, during the winter.

Basting Sauces

High sugar or sweetening content in the barbecue sauce? Use it for basting the meat on the out-of-doors grill only during the last hour or the meat surface will turn dark. Sugar causes the sauce to burn easily giving the roast an unpalatable appearance.

Mechanical Calf Replaces Cow

First they invented the automobile and said, "It'll never replace the horse." Now, they've got a mechanical cutting cow... I predict it'll replace the McCoy . . . at least for eating and milkin!

By RON JAYNES

What is a cutting horse? A cutting horse is a stock horse with an economic value; he can earn his keep at home and then go to a contest and put on a splendid and entertaining performance to the spectators by presenting a colorful picture of range work at its best.

A cutting horse has the value to his owner of entering a herd of cattle, cut an aminal out of the herd without disturbing the other cattle.

Jim Miller, Dexter, Mo., has a unique way of training horses -- he has in use at his ranch a mechanical calf which eliminates the cost of feeding and keeping cattle.

Miller purchased this inexpensive, well not too inexpensive calf, as the market value of one of these critters is around the $2100 mark.

What is a mechanical calf? A replica of a calf on wheels which is operated by radio waves.

Miller works the horses he trains with a radio controlled calf that can maneuver better than a real calf.

He likes to train and show cutting horses, and recently found the cost of cutting cattle a real expense. With his limited pasture to supplement the feed, the bill placed an expensive upkeep which was hard to meet so he supplemented his cattle problem by purchasing the calf.

The mechanized calf is the approximate size, height and weight of a normal 400 pound calf. Two speeds are used -- low and high gear -- and the calf is sturdy enough to support the normal weight of two men. The calf can maneuver in any area, sandy or otherwise, at the speed of an average calf. The calf is operated on 4 batteries; two for high speed and two for low speed.

Miller said he is in the process of changing the sprockets on the wheels, which will enable the calf to work at a much faster rate of speed. The calf cannot be upset or turned over.

Plenty of ranch experience is the background for the development of the good judgment necessary for the cutting horse to work and train in a particular area of cutting in which he is the weakest, and is used to correct older horses of any acquired faults.

Miller and his son Gregg work steadily at training horses. Gregg, 10, is a fine rider. The Millers have been in the horse training business for eight years, and have had the mechanized calf in use for about three months.

The calf will run for 2 1/2 hours steadily and is given a daily feeding of electricity by means of a battery charge.

Miller revised his calf after purchase; he replaced larger rear wheels for the small ones, which seems to help the maneuver ability of the calf.

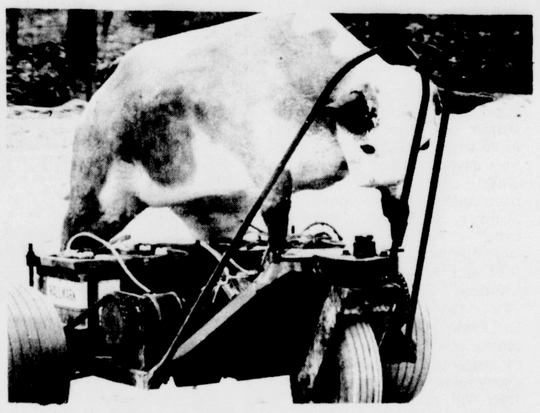
"Missouri is the leading quarter horse State," Miller said. He trains from 10 to 15 quarter horses a year.

"I guarantee that the first time a person operates the calf, he will run it through the fence five or six times during the first week" Miller laughed.

Mrs. Mildred Miller and her daughter Deborah also help in the training program. Mrs. Miller operates the control box while her husband works with the horses, and Deborah helps with the house work while her mother helps her dad.

The cutting horse well deserves the high popularity and favor he had found with the general public, and the mechanized calf has helped in the development of these fine horses.

A great many of the rodeo and horse shows feature cutting horse contests, and the Miller ranch is known for its fine training of cutting horses.



WHICH WAY WILL IT GO? That's what the cutting horse has trouble figuring out, as the calf is radio controlled. The larger wheels were placed on the calf by its owner, Jim Miller. They help the maneuverability of the calf.

THE MECHANIZED CALF is shown above working "Pondie" as she slides to make a quick turn to head off the calf.

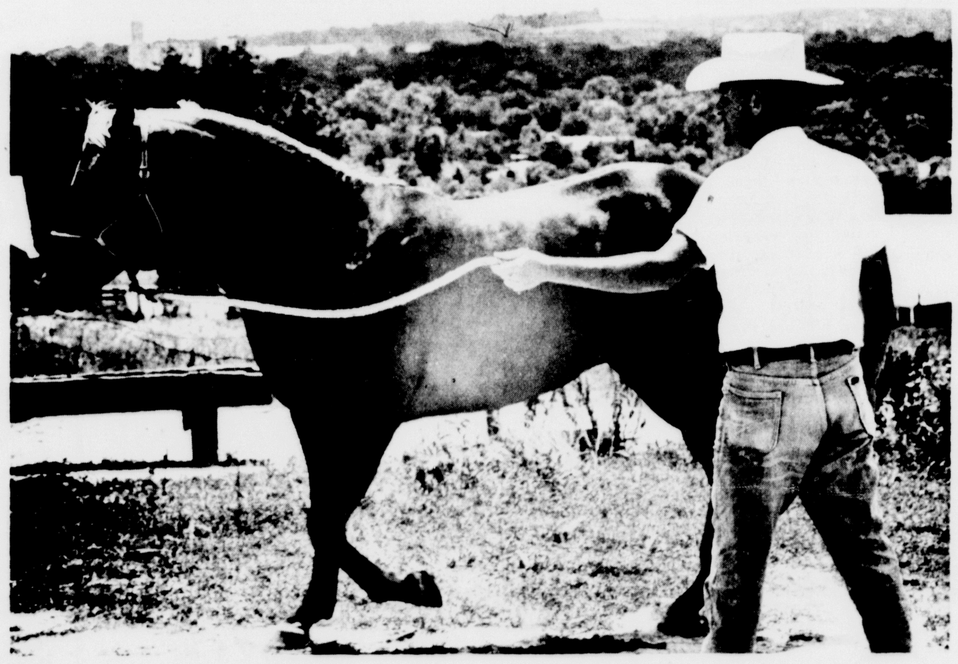
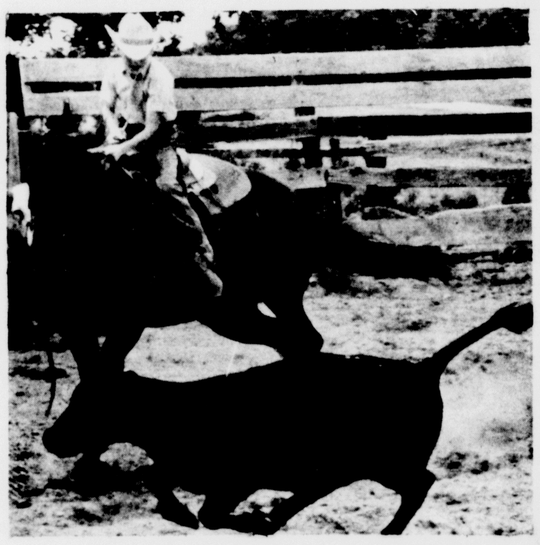
GREGG MILLER rides Retta's Pondie, who is entered in the National Cutting Horse Futurity in Dallas, Tex., this winter. He is shown changing directions as the calf makes a sharp turn.

THE TRANSMITTER on which the calf is operated is simple enough for an eight-year-old child to operate, but the object of the game is how and when to stop the calf.



AFTER A hard afternoon of work, Miller walks his horses around to cool them off.



STOP I SAY! -- The expression on the horse's face shows anger while the calf trys to elude him.

JIM MILLER, owner of the calf, demonstrates the maneuverability of the calf in a small area.

HORSE AND CALF lock eyeballs as the calf can't seem to elude "Starboy's Flirt," who is working without a halter. He is owned by Charles Brandon of Dexter.

New Wheat Program To Aid Producers

"The 1967 wheat program will assure increased production of needed wheat and at the same time will bring producers more income," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said recently in announcing major provisions of the program.

Key factors in the 1967 program are:

1. Price support loan level will be $1.25 per bushel.

2. Domestic marketing certificates on an estimated 520 million bushels will be valued at the difference between full parity as of July 1, 1967 and the $1.25 loan value. (This year's certificate value of the 1966 crop will be about $1.32 per bushel.)

3. Marketing certificates will represent expected production on 40 percent of the participating farms' farm allotments. These allotments will reflect the increased 1967 national allotment of 59.3 million acres, announced earlier this year. (For 1966, the allocation percentage was 45 percent on an effective national allotment of 51.6 million acres.

4. There will be no acreage diversion program for wheat. The Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) as it applies to wheat will be announced later

5. Wheat may continue to be planted on feed grain acreage on farms participating in both programs, and feed grains may be planted on wheat allotment acreage. Producers will be able to substitute wheat for oats and rye on the same basis as in 1966. If barley is included in the 1967 feed grain program, wheat may be substituted as in prior years; if barley is not included, wheat may be substituted for barley in the same way as for oats and rye.

6. A producer will have the option of planting in excess of his wheat allotment (by not more than 50 per cent) and still be eligible for certificates and price - support loans provided the excess production is stored and the farmer meets other terms and conditions similar to those in effect in 1966.

7. Program provisions regarding participation will be the same as in 1966 except that there will be no required or additional diversion.

According to Roy Proctor, Jr., Chairman, Scott County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, farm allotment notices for the 1967 wheat crop will be sent to producers shortly. The county allotment is 24,982 acres.

First Festival For Ste. Genevieve

Ste. Genevieve, Missouri will hold its first annual festival Saturday and Sunday, August 13 and 14. In keeping with the French traditions of the historic town, the festival will be called "Jour de Fete a Ste. Genevieve" (A Day of Celebration in Ste. Genevieve). A wide variety of continuous and special activities is planned for the entire weekend.

High-lighting the program of continuous events will be tours of the many historic buildings and sites in Ste. Genevieve. The more prominent landmarks that will open to the public are the Bolduc House (built in 1770), Amoureaux House (a museum and antique shop), the Old Slave House and Art Gallery, the Green Tree Tavern, the Old Brick House, the Ste. Genevieve Museum, the old cemetery, and the churches of Ste. Genevieve. Other buildings not yet open to the public, but to be included on the tours are: Senator Linn House, Ste. Genevieve Academy, Guibourd House, the Old Convent, the Felix Valle House, J. B. Valle House and the DuFour House.

An Art Show will also be held during the two-day festival. Many amateur and professional artists primarily from Missouri and Illinois will exhibit their works. A wide variety of methods and mediums will appeal to every cultural taste. Craftsmen from the Ozarks are also to be included in the art show.

The city square will be transformed into the village as Ste. Genevieve was in the 1700's. Store windows will display antiques of a bygone era. Storekeepers and the townspeople will dress in costumes of 18th century Ste. Genevieve. There will be a market place with booths offering for sale the products for which Ste. Genevieve is well known: sausage, hams, home-made and home canned foods, hutzelbrot, home-made soap, pecan pralines, etc.

A number of special events are also being planned for the gala celebration. The festival will officially begin with a parade at noon on Saturday, August 13. The parade will feature local bands and floats recalling the history of Ste. Genevieve. Other events scheduled for Saturday afternoon include an auction, with many antiques to be included. A Western Rodeo will revive the Spanish and Wild West days of the town. Largest ever held in the area, the rodeo will include calf roping, bronco riding, steer riding, with lots of excitement. The Saturday evening program will feature the Grand King's Ball, and the appearance of the famous La Guinolee Dancers. For those with German interests, there will be a German Beer Garden on the town square. Sunday morning is reserved for worship services in the city's churches. Sunday afternoon there will be a repeat performance of the Rodeo. The beautiful city park will be another center of activities which will include a concert by the Municipal Band.

For sports enthusiasts, there will be a weekend golf tournament, a boat and water skiing show on the river front, and a swimming exhibition in the municipal pool in the city's newly renovated park.

Food is an important part of any celebration. In addition to Ste. Genevieve's famous restaurants, a number of organizations will offer everything from pop corn and french ice cream to Bar-B-Que and liver dumplings. There will be food aplenty, but lodging facilities are limited. Housing reservations should be procured well in advance.

For those who venture to Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town West of the Mississippi on August 13 and 14 to relive its history, a weekend of fun, excitement, and adventure is in store.

The "Jour de Fete a Ste Genevieve" is being sponsored by the Ste. Genevieve Tourist Bureau with the able assistance of the Ste. Genevieve Community Betterment Committee. For more information, write: Ste. Genevieve Festival Committee, Box 368, Ste. Genevieve, Mo. 63670.

MU Has 6,570 Enrolled In Summer School

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- The University of Missouri Summer Sesson had 6,570 students enrolled as of June 21, an increase from 6,311 of a year ago, Chancellor John W. Schwada announced today.

Of the total, 5,527 are taking courses on the campus here and 1,043 are enrolled in off-campus classes at six different sites.

Dr. C. W. McLane, director of admissions and registrar, said that nine divisions show increases and three have fewer students than last year. The Graduate School, with 3,860 enrolled in comparison with 3,656 a year ago, remained the largest division and accounted for more than half the total enrollment.

Dr. McLane said that enrollment is essentially completed but that a few late registrants will increase the final total.

The enrollment by divisions includes:

College of Agriculture 113, an increase from 103 a year ago; School of Forestry 50, an increase from 43; School of Home Economics 101, an increase from 66; College of Arts and Science 845, an increase from 819; College of Education 764, a decrease from 781; College of Engineering 270, an increase from 265; School of Nursing 112, an increase from 87; School of Business and Public Administration 195, an increase from 182; School of Journalism 88, an increase from 73; School of Law 58, a decrease from 59; School of Medicine 152, a decrease from 154; Non-collegiate 2, a decrease from 64.

Meanwhile at off-campus centers, the University has graduate student enrollment of 330; at Southwest Missouri State at Springfield, an increase from 303; 102 at Southeast Missouri State at Cape Girardeau, a decrease from 262; 195 at Northwest Missouri State at Maryvillem an increase from 183; 310 at the Universtiy of Missouri at St. Louis, an increase from 126; 82 at Whiteman Air Force Base, a decrease from 87; and 24 in social work in Kansas City, unchanged. The program at Cape Girardeau is being phased out this year and the public administration studies at Kansas City, which had 18 enrolled a year ago, is now counted as Extension Division enrollment.

All divisions on the campus except the School of Veterinary Medicine have students enrolled for summer studies.

The figures indicate 287 freshmen, 404 sophomores, 638 juniors and 1,033 seniors are among the summer students, with the total expanded by the graduate students, law, medicine, arts and education students beyond their fourth years of study, and 105 unclassified as to classes.

Long Praises House

U. S. Senator Edward V. Long (D-Mo.), in the Senate Monday, praised the House for the afternoon's passage of the Freedom of Information Bill, calling it an "historic victory for the public's constitutional right to know what their government is doing."

"The public has a constitutional right to know about the operations and activities of their government," Senator Long said. "I am pleased to report that this right has been recognized, and I hope that President Johnson soon will sign this very important bill into law."

"The struggle for Freedom of Information has been a long and difficult one," Senator Long said.

The Senate passed, in the 88th Congress, an almost indentical bill introduced by Senator Long. Congressman John E. Moss (D-Cal.) joined Senator Long in introduction of companion measures at the beginning of the 89th Congress. The Senate responded to Senator Long's urgings by again passing the bill in the first session of the 89th last year. The Senator congratulated Congressman Moss for his skillful handling of the bill in the House and for his outstanding record in fighting for Freedom of Information.

Hearings on the bill were held before Senator Long's Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure and Congressman Moss' Subcommittee on Government Information.

The Freedom of Information bill provides that all government records are to be made available to anyone except for a new specific categories of records which are exempted from disclosure. Among these are records dealing with the national security, records already exempted from disclosure by other statutes, and trade secrets which are immune to public disclosure.

Senator Long pointed out that an important section of the law is the provision which enables any aggrieved person to go into court and seek an injunction against an agency's withholding of its records. Burden of proof is on the agency to show why the records must be withheld.

Two Missouri Pigs Going To Mayo Clinic

COLUMBIA, Mo., -- A couple of Universtiy fo Missouri pigs are going, not to market, but to the Mayo Clinic.

Dr. Creighton N. Cornell, assistant professor of agricultural chemistry, is seeing to it that the pigs get to the famous medical center where they will become a part of a joint study concerning an uncontrolled bleeding condition similar to hemophilia.

The University owns the only head of hemophiliac swine in the world, and since 1938 the hogs have been the subject of numerous investigations designed to study the blood coagulation mechanism. Dr. Merle E. Muhrer, professor of agricultural chemistry, is principal investigator on the swine project and will inspect the Mayo studies.

Dr. Cornell's reports from Rochester, Minn., are that the Mayo staff intends to attempt to separate and purify a blood component which when infused into the pigs will produce a response that will favorably affect this bleeding disorder. If successful, such a product would be useful in treatment of human beings.

University scientists had planned an experiment of this type until they learned that May's, with its staff of veterinarians and scientists, were well along with a similar project, except for the swine. The University was quick to agree to furnish pigs for the experiment.

The Mayo clinic is expected to return the two pigs it is borrowing at the end of the experiments during the summer.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

Bob Savage, a Protestant, was stirred to action on his deep seated concern for the plight of the American Indian when he received a plea from the Holy Rosary Indian Mission at Pine Ridge, S.D., for help on promotion and fund raising.

This was for the largest private Indian boarding school in the country, with more than 500 students. Savage, a veteran Omaha, Neb., advertising man, visited the mission and lost his heart to the boys and girls and to the Jesuit fathers in charge. He became so involved that he resigned three years ago as president of his agency so that he could devote all his time to the important account in his life.

His goal, like that of the mission on the Oglala Sioux reservation and the Jesuits and the Franciscan nuns who teach there, is to help give America's first citizens the opportunities long denied them.

New Wheat Program To Aid Producers

"The 1967 wheat program will assure increased production of needed wheat and at the same time will bring producers more income," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said recently in announcing major provisions of the program.

Key factors in the 1967 program are:

1. Price support loan level will be $1.25 per bushel.

2. Domestic marketing certificates on an estimated 520 million bushels will be valued at the difference between full parity as of July 1, 1967 and the $1.25 loan value. (This year's certificate value of the 1966 crop will be about $1.32 per bushel.)

3. Marketing certificates will represent expected production on 40 percent of the participating farms' farm allotments. These allotments will reflect the increased 1967 national allotment of 59.3 million acres, announced earlier this year. (For 1966, the allocation percentage was 45 percent on an effective national allotment of 51.6 million acres.

4. There will be no acreage diversion program for wheat. The Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) as it applies to wheat will be announced later

5. Wheat may continue to be planted on feed grain acreage on farms participating in both programs, and feed grains may be planted on wheat allotment acreage. Producers will be able to substitute wheat for oats and rye on the same basis as in 1966. If barley is included in the 1967 feed grain program, wheat may be substituted as in prior years; if barley is not included, wheat may be substituted for barley in the same way as for oats and rye.

6. A producer will have the option of planting in excess of his wheat allotment (by not more than 50 per cent) and still be eligible for certificates and price - support loans provided the excess production is stored and the farmer meets other terms and conditions similar to those in effect in 1966.

7. Program provisions regarding participation will be the same as in 1966 except that there will be no required or additional diversion.

According to Roy Proctor, Jr., Chairman, Scott County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, farm allotment notices for the 1967 wheat crop will be sent to producers shortly. The county allotment is 24,982 acres.

First Festival For Ste. Genevieve

Ste. Genevieve, Missouri will hold its first annual festival Saturday and Sunday, August 13 and 14. In keeping with the French traditions of the historic town, the festival will be called "Jour de Fete a Ste. Genevieve" (A Day of Celebration in Ste. Genevieve). A wide variety of continuous and special activities is planned for the entire weekend.

High-lighting the program of continuous events will be tours of the many historic buildings and sites in Ste. Genevieve. The more prominent landmarks that will open to the public are the Bolduc House (built in 1770), Amoureaux House (a museum and antique shop), the Old Slave House and Art Gallery, the Green Tree Tavern, the Old Brick House, the Ste. Genevieve Museum, the old cemetery, and the churches of Ste. Genevieve. Other buildings not yet open to the public, but to be included on the tours are: Senator Linn House, Ste. Genevieve Academy, Guibourd House, the Old Convent, the Felix Valle House, J. B. Valle House and the DuFour House.

An Art Show will also be held during the two-day festival. Many amateur and professional artists primarily from Missouri and Illinois will exhibit their works. A wide variety of methods and mediums will appeal to every cultural taste. Craftsmen from the Ozarks are also to be included in the art show.

The city square will be transformed into the village as Ste. Genevieve was in the 1700's. Store windows will display antiques of a bygone era. Q—What was indicated by the early coins of China?

A—The early makers of coins in China shaped each coin to show what could be bought with it. For example, coins shaped like the human body were called "dress money" and were used to buy clothing.

#35 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area.

THIS WEEK SALUTING ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH

Msgr. Walter J. McGrane

THE ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY

In the first millenium of Christianity, the people for the most part, dwelt on the land as serfs. Their needs, physical and spiritual, were taken care of by the Nobles who represented the Kings. After the Crusades there began a migration away from the land and into the cities which were building up. These cities were the centers of education and culture and particularly the crafts from which were formed the Guilds.

Just as it is a problem today, the urban migration brought on the social unrest due to crowding and poverty. It was the Church then, that met the needs of the people. Now began the teaching orders of the Church. Hospitals were established and as nurses, it was the Religious Orders that supplied their nuns.

One of the best known of these orders of Nursing Sisters was founded by St. Vincent De Paul of Paris during the plague which brought such misery to this already great city in the 16th century. Vincent, a Parish priest, finding so many ill and unattended in the ghettos gathered together a group of woman from among the rich and well-to-do and brought them into the homes of the poor to supply as nurses. Many of these women were of noble birth and titled. So blessed was the work that after the emergency they banded themselves together under the title of the Daughters of Charity, took the vows of Religion and became the great order of Nursing Sisters who today are on every continent.

It was these sisters who came to the battlefield of Gettysburg from their convent in nearby Emmittsburg to nurse the wounded of both sides. It was these nuns who nursed in the cholera plague in New Orleans in the early 19th century. They may be seen on the streets of all the great cities of the world.

Since the poor and the destitute turned to the Church for help, the Parishes organized a group of laymen to give aid and help. The group took the name of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. Their work was a spiritual one as well as a material one, as they were motivated by Charity and love of God and Man. They would go to the homes where help was needed. These groups began to function directly under their founder in Paris and then spread quickly throughout Europe.

The first Council of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul was founded in the U.S. at St. Louis in 1846 at the Old Cathedral Parish.

It is difficult for us today, with our highly organized Poverty program under the supervision of the Federal Government, to think that until the middle 1930's this was done mostly by Church and Church affiliated organizations. The motivation of these people was the love of God and to see Him in every man. Our Blessed Lord gave us this motivation when in a parable concerning the Kingdom of Heaven, He likened it to a King who separated the sheep from the goats and to those on his right the King said according to the gospel of Matthews, 6th chapter, "Come O blessed of my Father inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for when I was hungry you fed me, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me." The righteous will answer 'Lord, when did we feed you and give you drink? And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? And sick and comfort you, and in prison and visit you. And the King will answer them, "Truly I say to you, as you did it unto the least of these my brethren, you did it to me.'"

This is the commandment that our Lord gave to His apostles as He left them after the Pascal feast. We can imagine Him turning to them as He looks upon them for the last time before His death, "This commandment I give you, That you love one another."

Three Area Men Enlist in Army

Three area men enlisted in the U. S. Army for a period of three years Wednesday, according to Sergeant first class A. B. Ledbetter, army recruiter in Sikeston. They were, Willie Conner Mays Jr., New Madrid; Nathaniel Day, New Madrid, and Joe Ray Jr., Bell City.

Willie Mays Jr., enlisted for aircraft mechanics, and is now undergoing basic training. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie C. Mays Sr., reside on route one, Box 44, New Madrid.

Nathaniel Day enlisted in the regular army unlimited, and is also undergoing basic training. He enlisted under the high school graduate specialist program. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Day, reside at route one, box 19, New Madrid.

Joe Ray Jr. enlisted under the "Choice, Not Chance" vocational training program, in the regular army unlimited, and is now in basic training. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ray Sr., reside at route one, box 126, Bell City.

Q—What was indicated by the early coins of China?

A—The early makers of coins in China shaped each coin to show what could be bought with it. For example, coins shaped like the human body were called "dress money" and were used to buy clothing.

#35 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area.

THIS WEEK SALUTING ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH

Msgr. Walter J. McGrane

THE ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY

In the first millenium of Christianity, the people for the most part, dwelt on the land as serfs. Their needs, physical and spiritual, were taken care of by the Nobles who represented the Kings. After the Crusades there began a migration away from the land and into the cities which were building up. These cities were the centers of education and culture and particularly the crafts from which were formed the Guilds.

Just as it is a problem today, the urban migration brought on the social unrest due to crowding and poverty. It was the Church then, that met the needs of the people. Now began the teaching orders of the Church. Hospitals were established and as nurses, it was the Religious Orders that supplied their nuns.

One of the best known of these orders of Nursing Sisters was founded by St. Vincent De Paul of Paris during the plague which brought such misery to this already great city in the 16th century. Vincent, a Parish priest, finding so many ill and unattended in the ghettos gathered together a group of woman from among the rich and well-to-do and brought them into the homes of the poor to supply as nurses. Many of these women were of noble birth and titled. So blessed was the work that after the emergency they banded themselves together under the title of the Daughters of Charity, took the vows of Religion and became the great order of Nursing Sisters who today are on every continent.

It was these sisters who came to the battlefield of Gettysburg from their convent in nearby Emmittsburg to nurse the wounded of both sides. It was these nuns who nursed in the cholera plague in New Orleans in the early 19th century. They may be seen on the streets of all the great cities of the world.

Since the poor and the destitute turned to the Church for help, the Parishes organized a group of laymen to give aid and help. The group took the name of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. Their work was a spiritual one as well as a material one, as they were motivated by Charity and love of God and Man. They would go to the homes where help was needed. These groups began to function directly under their founder in Paris and then spread quickly throughout Europe.

The first Council of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul was founded in the U.S. at St. Louis in 1846 at the Old Cathedral Parish.

It is difficult for us today, with our highly organized Poverty program under the supervision of the Federal Government, to think that until the middle 1930's this was done mostly by Church and Church affiliated organizations. The motivation of these people was the love of God and to see Him in every man. Our Blessed Lord gave us this motivation when in a parable concerning the Kingdom of Heaven, He likened it to a King who separated the sheep from the goats and to those on his right the King said according to the gospel of Matthews, 6th chapter, "Come O blessed of my Father inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for when I was hungry you fed me, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me." The righteous will answer 'Lord, when did we feed you and give you drink? And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? And sick and comfort you, and in prison and visit you. And the King will answer them, "Truly I say to you, as you did it unto the least of these my brethren, you did it to me.'"

This is the commandment that our Lord gave to His apostles as He left them after the Pascal feast. We can imagine Him turning to them as He looks upon them for the last time before His death, "This commandment I give you, That you love one another."

Mrs. David Wolfe Wigdor

Alexandra Joy Kent Exchanges Vows With David W. Wigdor

WARSON WOODS -- In a candlelight ceremony Miss Alexandra Joy Kent became the bride of David Wolfe Wigdor on June 11, 5 p.m. at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Kent, 831 Jamaica Court. The Rev. Roy Ostenson, pastor of St. Matthew's Espicopal church officiated. Wigdor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Wigdor of Charleston.

The vows were exchanged before two white pedestals topped with an arrangement of white Emperor daisies, white stock and smilax. On either side were seven-branched candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers. Mrs. J. Frazier, organist played pre-nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length wedding gown, of re-embroidered organdy over silk peau de soie, featuring bell sleeves, elbow length. The gown was sashed in satin with tailored bow. Her short veil was held in place by a topknot of silk daisies. The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies with satin streamers.

Mrs. Marvin Parker of Springfield, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore an afternoon dress of blue empire crepe with white lace bodice. Her headdress was of blue net, held in place by a silk Dior bow.

Theodore Slein of St. Louis served as best man.

Mrs. Kent, mother of the bride, wore an afternoon dress of pale pink silk organza over satin with a square neckline outlined with Alencon lace and sashed in pink peau de soie. Her shoulder corsage was of white roses. Mrs. Wigdor, mother of the bridegroom, wore an aquamarine dress with short sleeves and lace bodice. She also wore a corsage of white roses.

Immediately after the wedding, hors d'oeuvres were served with punch. A wedding dinner followed at 7 p.m. at the Blu Top Restaurant.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wigdor returned to Columbia, where Wigdor will continue studies for his Ph. D. degree in history. Mrs. Wigdor will teach history at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, this fall. They will be at home at 100 Pannell, Columbia. The bride received her B. A. degree in Modern European History at Missouri University where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and received a Gregory Fellowship. She was done graduate work in Modern European History at the Goethe Institute in West Berlin and at the University of Berlin.

Wigdor received his B. A. and M. A. degrees from Missouri University in American history. He was elected a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa and was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He is an instructor in the history department working toward his degree in legal history. He was recently awarded a Gregory Fellowship.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Jasper, East Prairie; Mrs. John Cornick, Mt. Carmel, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kohn, Hayti; Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Parker, Springfield, and their two daughters, Kristin and Jennifer; Mr. and Mrs. Sid Axelbaum and children, Elsie and Eric; and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel I. Kohn and children Diane and David; and Peter Heinze of Berlin, Germany, a graduate student at Missouri U.

A pre-wedding dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel I. Kohn and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Axelbaum, cousins of the bridegroom, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kohn in Olivette Friday evening at 7 p.m.

Guests were Mrs. Bell Cornick of Mt. Carmel, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kohn of Hayti, Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Wigdor and daughter, Miss Marcia Wigdor, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Slein, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Parker and Miss Kent and Mr. Wigdor. The guests were served at two long tables. The dinner cloths of white linen with sprigged flower embroidery were complemented with arrangements of matching spring flowers in pastel shades.

Rural Families Get Loan

Since January, 1965, more than 22,000 rural families in the United States have enjoyed better incomes because they were eligible for an Economic Opportunity loan from the Farmers Home Administration. Many of these families more than doubled their income the first year after receiving a loan. Loans are made up to $2,500 and can be used by small farmers to improve their farm operation, or by farmers and other rural residents to set up a small business. Mr. Harry S. Littleton, County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration with offices in the old Post Office Building at Sikeston, Missouri, says there are a number of families in Scott and Mississippi Counties who may be eligible for these loans and they should contact him at their earliest convenience.

Rural Families Get Loan

Since January, 1965, more than 22,000 rural families in the United States have enjoyed better incomes because they were eligible for an Economic Opportunity loan from the Farmers Home Administration. Many of these families more than doubled their income the first year after receiving a loan. Loans are made up to $2,500 and can be used by small farmers to improve their farm operation, or by farmers and other rural residents to set up a small business. Mr. Harry S. Littleton, County Supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration with offices in the old Post Office Building at Sikeston, Missouri, says there are a number of families in Scott and Mississippi Counties who may be eligible for these loans and they should contact him at their earliest convenience.

Q—The 38th parallel divides North and South Korea, what parallel divides North and South Viet Nam?

A—The 17th.

Q—May feathers of birds be possessed legally?

A—It is illegal to possess or wear any wild bird feathers, with the single exception that they may be used to make flies for fishing.

Youth Kills Father To Protect Brother

INDEPENDENCE, MO. AP -- A teen-age boy was taken into custody by juvenile authorities Tuesday after he said he shot and killed his father for choking his retarded brother.

The father, Wallace Harry Gade, 45, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound machinist, was shot in the back with a .22 rifle. The boy's identity was withheld. He is 15. Missouri law forbids publication of the names of children involved in criminal cases.

Sgt. Harold Taylor of the Independence police said the boy told him Gade also turned on his wife, Mrs. Vida Mae Gade, and banged her head against the wall.

Taylor quoted the youngster as saying his mother pleaded with his father and screamed at him to stop abusing his disabled brother, who is 16.

The 15-year-old said he got the single-shot rifle, loaded it and asked his mother for permission to shoot. He asked her twice, he told police, then fired.

The Gades also have three daughters.

Porpoises are fond of mackerel and herring.

Youth Kills Father To Protect Brother

INDEPENDENCE, MO. AP -- A teen-age boy was taken into custody by juvenile authorities Tuesday after he said he shot and killed his father for choking his retarded brother.

The father, Wallace Harry Gade, 45, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound machinist, was shot in the back with a .22 rifle. The boy's identity was withheld. He is 15. Missouri law forbids publication of the names of children involved in criminal cases.

Sgt. Harold Taylor of the Independence police said the boy told him Gade also turned on his wife, Mrs. Vida Mae Gade, and banged her head against the wall.

Taylor quoted the youngster as saying his mother pleaded with his father and screamed at him to stop abusing his disabled brother, who is 16.

The 15-year-old said he got the single-shot rifle, loaded it and asked his mother for permission to shoot. He asked her twice, he told police, then fired.

The Gades also have three daughters.

Porpoises are fond of mackerel and herring.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 24, 1916

Capt. C. L. Malone received a letter from Major Lindsey of the National Guards of Missouri, Wednesday asking that he solicit signers for the service in the event that a call is made, with the understanding that the pay will begin with date of organization.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kindred on May 25th, a girl.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Adkinson of Pharris Ridge on the 22nd of May, a girl.

40 Years Ago
June 24, 1926

Mrs. H. J. Welsh left Tuesday for St. Louis to be with her mother, Mrs. T. H. League, who broke her hip Monday, when she slipped upon a hardwood floor and fell.

Mrs. C. L. Blanton and Mrs. H. C. Blanton expect to leave Washington, Wednesday for Sikeston. Misses Rosemary and Patricia Blanton will go from Washington with Mrs. Harry Dailey to Bay City, Mich., to spend the summer.

Word was received Saturday that Mr. and Mrs. Myron Watkins have gone to Richmond, Va., to make their home. Mr. Watkins is employed with the Southern Surity Co., and has been transferred to that city.

30 Years Ago
June 24, 1936

Morley -- A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Lita Foster Sunday to help her celebrate her birthday with a dinner.

Matthews --- Miss Ruth Dunham left Friday for St. Louis, where she will spend a few weeks with relatives.

Oran -- Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moore celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Matthews -- Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilburn are the proud parents of a baby girl born on the 20th.

20 Years Ago
June 24, 1946

A dog that was pronounced afflicted with rabies was shot by acting chief of police John Ledbetter in front of 107 Williams street Wednesday morning.

Sikeston citizens, at a special election held Tuesday, approved a proposition to bond the Sikeston school district in the sum of $125,000 for the purpose of erecting a new Negro school building in Sunset Addition and building an eight-room addition to Bailey school.

Sikeston area residents can have a $700,000 hospital built immediately if they raise $160,000 in a campaign which will begin Friday morning, according to E. P. Coleman, Jr., president of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. The hospital to be built in Sikeston for the area in a 25-mile radius was set up in 1942 but construction was made impossible by the war. Now construction of the hospital will cost approximately twice the amount raised and the hospital cannot be built if an additional $160,000 is not raised locally in the area.

Barbara Lee, daughter of Mrs. Haleene Cole, who fell last Thursday breaking her right arm and receiving other bruises about the face is doing nicely. The accident happened when a railing broke and she fell from a landing on the stairs back of the Felker building.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am 19 years old -- old enough to know better, but I didn't. I thought I was in love with an older man (32 to be exact) and I did some very foolish things.

Rex told me I had the most fantastic figure he had ever seen and he wanted to do an oil painting of me -- in the nude. It was necessary to take some snapshots so he could work from them between sittings, he said. I agreed, although I had never seen a canvas he had painted and there was no sign of a paint brush or an easel in his apartment.

Last week Rex took the snapshots. When he showed them to me yesterday, I got sick to my stomach. I must have been insane. This whole thing has made me realize how unbelievably stupid I was to believe a word he had said.

I told Rex I had changed my mind about sitting for the painting and I asked for the snapshots. He refused to give them to me. I want to stop seeing him but I'm afraid of what he might do if I try to end the relationship. He really has the goods on me and I am at his mercy. Please help. -- BODY BEAUTIFUL

Dear Body Beautiful: I don't know about your body, but your brain belongs in Harvard -- in a bottle.

Stop seeing this man at once. If he makes any attempt to blackmail you, see a lawyer.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend who is supposed to be well-bred has a habit that is becoming annoying. First I should tell you that she is about 20 years younger than I am. (I am 65)

My name is uncommon but it is not difficult to pronounce. This friend who knows very well what my name is, changes it slightly and thinks she is being very amusing. Here is an example of what she does: Say my name is Mrs. Greenly; she calls me Mrs. Greenriver or Mrs. Greengrass or Mrs. Greenhorn.

Up until now I have managed a good-natured smile, but I'm getting fed up.

Should I rise above her bad manners and ignore them? Or should I let her know how I feel? -- VANCOUVER

Dear Vancouver: Your friend (?) is guilty of atrocious bad taste and you ought to stop smiling good-naturedly at her crude attempts to be funny -- at your expense.

The next time she makes a joke of your name, tell her the humor is wearing mighty thin and if she cannot remember your name you will be happy to tell her what it is.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother died a few years ago and my dad has taken out some nice women, which is fine with me. I know he is lonesome and I can understand his need for female companionship.

A few months ago he started to see a tramp. I didn't say anything because I figured it was his business. But last Friday he brought this tramp to our house with an overnight case -- for the weekend. I was very hurt that my father would cheapen our house like that.

I am 16 years old (a boy) and wonder if I have the right to say something to him. --- ANONYMOUS

Dear A.: You do, and you should. And if your father suggests you are out of line, ask him to write to me, please.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Charleston Doctor Joins Faculty

CHARLESTON -- Dr. John E. Dernoncourt, a physician in Charleston for 17 years, will leave September 1 to join the medical faculty of the University of Missouri.

Dr. Dernoncourt has previously been associated as a preceptor with the Department of Community Health and Medical Practice of the School of Medicine, and will assume the rank of assistant professor.

His chief responsibilities will center on the teaching of future physicians in the emergency room and medical practice ward of the University Hospital.

He will also aid in the supervision of the preceptorship program of the school.

Armed Forces

Jimmie D. Ross

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Jimmie D. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ross of 1403 Page St., Dexter, Mo., has completed individual combat training here.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

His next stop is four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar. Marines to be assigned to highly technical specialties will be sent to military technical schools for their specialist training.

Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling, and civic action based on experience gained in Viet Nam.

Jackie C. Bess

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Jackie C. Bess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bess of Route 2, Essex, Mo., has completed individual combat training here.

The four-week course included 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

FORT CARSON, COLO. (AHTNC) -- Army Pvt. John A. King, 20, son of Mrs. Ruby N. Alberson, Box 242, Route 1, Bell City, Mo., completed advanced combat training at Fort Carson, Colo., June 3.

During his eight weeks of training, he received instruction in combat squad tactics, use of infantry weapons, and engineer reconnaissance.

He also was trained in the techniques of road and bridge building, camouflage, and demolitions.

FORT LEE, VA. (AHTNC)-- Pvt. Dennis J. Blevins, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin A. Blevins, 410 S. Main St., Sikeston, Mo., completed a cooking course at the Army Quartermaster School, Fort Lee, Va., June 3.

During the eight-week course, he was trained in cake and pastry baking, meat cutting, and learned to prepare and serve food in Army mess halls and in the field.

Charleston Man To Teach in Puerto Rico

CHARLESTON -- Herbert W. Rien, son of Mrs. John Sanders, has accepted a position as teacher of science, biology, chemistry, physics, and athletic coach at the Fort Allen School near Ponce, Puerto Rico. The school is on a U. S. Navy base.

Rien has taught science and coached football and gymnastics the past six years at Herculaneum High School.

He received his B. S. degree from Arkansas State College Jonesboro, and had done graduate work at the University of Missouri, Northeast Missouri State College, and Murray (Ky.) State College. He was a 1952 graduate of Charleston High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Rien have four children, Rhoda, 9, Bred, 7, Gina, 5, and Donna 3. They are planning to leave Herculaneum August 15.

Bowmans Surprised by Friends

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. David Bowman surprised them with a housewarming Friday night.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Aufdenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Conn, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Dement, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steward, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. John Harper, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Pete Malone, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Rowe, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. David Bailey.

Keith Duncan entertained during the evening with guitar music.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
June 24, 1916

Capt. C. L. Malone received a letter from Major Lindsey of the National Guards of Missouri, Wednesday asking that he solicit signers for the service in the event that a call is made, with the understanding that the pay will begin with date of organization.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kindred on May 25th, a girl.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Adkinson of Pharris Ridge on the 22nd of May, a girl.

40 Years Ago
June 24, 1926

Mrs. H. J. Welsh left Tuesday for St. Louis to be with her mother, Mrs. T. H. League, who broke her hip Monday, when she slipped upon a hardwood floor and fell.

Mrs. C. L. Blanton and Mrs. H. C. Blanton expect to leave Washington, Wednesday for Sikeston. Misses Rosemary and Patricia Blanton will go from Washington with Mrs. Harry Dailey to Bay City, Mich., to spend the summer.

Word was received Saturday that Mr. and Mrs. Myron Watkins have gone to Richmond, Va., to make their home. Mr. Watkins is employed with the Southern Surity Co., and has been transferred to that city.

Morley -- A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Lita Foster Sunday to help her celebrate her birthday with a dinner.

Matthews --- Miss Ruth Dunham left Friday for St. Louis, where she will spend a few weeks with relatives.

Oran -- Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moore celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Matthews -- Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilburn are the proud parents of a baby girl born on the 20th.

A dog that was pronounced afflicted with rabies was shot by acting chief of police John Ledbetter in front of 107 Williams street Wednesday morning.

Sikeston citizens, at a special election held Tuesday, approved a proposition to bond the Sikeston school district in the sum of $125,000 for the purpose of erecting a new Negro school building in Sunset Addition and building an eight-room addition to Bailey school.

Sikeston area residents can have a $700,000 hospital built immediately if they raise $160,000 in a campaign which will begin Friday morning, according to E. P. Coleman, Jr., president of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. The hospital to be built in Sikeston for the area in a 25-mile radius was set up in 1942 but construction was made impossible by the war. Now construction of the hospital will cost approximately twice the amount raised and the hospital cannot be built if an additional $160,000 is not raised locally in the area.

Barbara Lee, daughter of Mrs. Haleene Cole, who fell last Thursday breaking her right arm and receiving other bruises about the face is doing nicely. The accident happened when a railing broke and she fell from a landing on the stairs back of the Felker building.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am 19 years old -- old enough to know better, but I didn't. I thought I was in love with an older man (32 to be exact) and I did some very foolish things.

Rex told me I had the most fantastic figure he had ever seen and he wanted to do an oil painting of me -- in the nude. It was necessary to take some snapshots so he could work from them between sittings, he said. I agreed, although I had never seen a canvas he had painted and there was no sign of a paint brush or an easel in his apartment.

Last week Rex took the snapshots. When he showed them to me yesterday, I got sick to my stomach. I must have been insane. This whole thing has made me realize how unbelievably stupid I was to believe a word he had said.

I told Rex I had changed my mind about sitting for the painting and I asked for the snapshots. He refused to give them to me. I want to stop seeing him but I'm afraid of what he might do if I try to end the relationship. He really has the goods on me and I am at his mercy. Please help. -- BODY BEAUTIFUL

Dear Body Beautiful: I don't know about your body, but your brain belongs in Harvard -- in a bottle.

Stop seeing this man at once. If he makes any attempt to blackmail you, see a lawyer.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend who is supposed to be well-bred has a habit that is becoming annoying. First I should tell you that she is about 20 years younger than I am. (I am 65)

My name is uncommon but it is not difficult to pronounce. This friend who knows very well what my name is, changes it slightly and thinks she is being very amusing. Here is an example of what she does: Say my name is Mrs. Greenly; she calls me Mrs. Greenriver or Mrs. Greengrass or Mrs. Greenhorn.

Up until now I have managed a good-natured smile, but I'm getting fed up.

Should I rise above her bad manners and ignore them? Or should I let her know how I feel? -- VANCOUVER

Dear Vancouver: Your friend (?) is guilty of atrocious bad taste and you ought to stop smiling good-naturedly at her crude attempts to be funny -- at your expense.

The next time she makes a joke of your name, tell her the humor is wearing mighty thin and if she cannot remember your name you will be happy to tell her what it is.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother died a few years ago and my dad has taken out some nice women, which is fine with me. I know he is lonesome and I can understand his need for female companionship.

A few months ago he started to see a tramp. I didn't say anything because I figured it was his business. But last Friday he brought this tramp to our house with an overnight case -- for the weekend. I was very hurt that my father would cheapen our house like that.

I am 16 years old (a boy) and wonder if I have the right to say something to him. --- ANONYMOUS

Dear A.: You do, and you should. And if your father suggests you are out of line, ask him to write to me, please.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Charleston Doctor Joins Faculty

CHARLESTON -- Dr. John E. Dernoncourt, a physician in Charleston for 17 years, will leave September 1 to join the medical faculty of the University of Missouri.

Dr. Dernoncourt has previously been associated as a preceptor with the Department of Community Health and Medical Practice of the School of Medicine, and will assume the rank of assistant professor.

His chief responsibilities will center on the teaching of future physicians in the emergency room and medical practice ward of the University Hospital.

He will also aid in the supervision of the preceptorship program of the school.

Armed Forces

Jimmie D. Ross

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Jimmie D. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ross of 1403 Page St., Dexter, Mo., has completed individual combat training here.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

His next stop is four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar. Marines to be assigned to highly technical specialties will be sent to military technical schools for their specialist training.

Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling, and civic action based on experience gained in Viet Nam.

Jackie C. Bess

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Jackie C. Bess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bess of Route 2, Essex, Mo., has completed individual combat training here.

The four-week course included 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

FORT CARSON, COLO. (AHTNC) -- Army Pvt. John A. King, 20, son of Mrs. Ruby N. Alberson, Box 242, Route 1, Bell City, Mo., completed advanced combat training at Fort Carson, Colo., June 3.

During his eight weeks of training, he received instruction in combat squad tactics, use of infantry weapons, and engineer reconnaissance.

He also was trained in the techniques of road and bridge building, camouflage, and demolitions.

FORT LEE, VA. (AHTNC)-- Pvt. Dennis J. Blevins, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin A. Blevins, 410 S. Main St., Sikeston, Mo., completed a cooking course at the Army Quartermaster School, Fort Lee, Va., June 3.

During the eight-week course, he was trained in cake and pastry baking, meat cutting, and learned to prepare and serve food in Army mess halls and in the field.

Charleston Man To Teach in Puerto Rico

CHARLESTON -- Herbert W. Rien, son of Mrs. John Sanders, has accepted a position as teacher of science, biology, chemistry, physics, and athletic coach at the Fort Allen School near Ponce, Puerto Rico. The school is on a U. S. Navy base.

Rien has taught science and coached football and gymnastics the past six years at Herculaneum High School.

He received his B. S. degree from Arkansas State College Jonesboro, and had done graduate work at the University of Missouri, Northeast Missouri State College, and Murray (Ky.) State College. He was a 1952 graduate of Charleston High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Rien have four children, Rhoda, 9, Bred, 7, Gina, 5, and Donna 3. They are planning to leave Herculaneum August 15.

Bowmans Surprised by Friends

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. David Bowman surprised them with a housewarming Friday right.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Aufdenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Conn, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Dement, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steward, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. John Harper, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Pete Malone, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Rowe, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. David Bailey.

Keith Duncan entertained during the evening with guitar music.

For Today From The Upper Room

The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good. (Proverbs 15;3)

PRAYER: Our Father God, we thank Thee for Thy watchful care and provision for us. May we ever do only that which is good and acceptable in Thy sight. In Christ Jesus' name we ask. Amen.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Friday, June 24, the 175th day of 1966. There are 190 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1948, the Soviet Union blockaded all land traffic between occupied Berlin and West Germany in a dispute over currency. It began a gigantic airlift which lasted 321 days.

On this date

In 1520, the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, entered Mexico City.

In 1793, the first French Republican Constitution was adopted.

In 1940, Marshal Petain's French government signed an armistice with Italy.

In 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt pledged that all possible aid would be granted to Russia in its fight against Germany.

In 1945, Adolf Hitler's personal flag was dragged in the dust as a feature of a victory parade in Moscow.

Ten years ago — Egypt's Premier Nasser, the only candidate on the ballot, was elected the first president of the Republic of Egypt.

Five years ago — More than 200 people were killed in floods in central Japan.

One year ago -- Radio Hanoi announced that the Viet Cong had executed U. S. Army Sgt. Harold Bennett in retaliation for the execution of a Viet Cong.

Joplin Gets Civil Defense Grant

WASHINGTON AP - The Office of Civil Defense has approved a $16,362 grant to the Joplin, Mo., Civil Defense organization for improvement of the communication system at the Joplin emergency operating center.

Matched by local money, the funds will be used to furnish a single point of control for all communications systems there including fire, police, and public works, Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., was told. A new antenna tower is involved.

Mink is the most popular fur in the United States. Minks have been raised in captivity for their fur since 1866 but were not produced in great quantity until around 1930. Fox farmers converted to raising mink and today the production of ranch-raised mink is about 6 million animals per year. Mink accounts for 75 per cent of the fur trade. Wisconsin produces one-third of the total.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Friday, June 24, the 175th day of 1966. There are 190 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1948, the Soviet Union blockaded all land traffic between occupied Berlin and West Germany in a dispute over currency. It began a gigantic airlift which lasted 321 days.

On this date

In 1520, the Spanish conqueror, Hernando Cortez, entered Mexico City.

In 1793, the first French Republican Constitution was adopted.

In 1940, Marshal Petain's French government signed an armistice with Italy.

In 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt pledged that all possible aid would be granted to Russia in its fight against Germany.

In 1945, Adolf Hitler's personal flag was dragged in the dust as a feature of a victory parade in Moscow.

Ten years ago — Egypt's Premier Nasser, the only candidate on the ballot, was elected the first president of the Republic of Egypt.

Five years ago — More than 200 people were killed in floods in central Japan.

One year ago -- Radio Hanoi announced that the Viet Cong had executed U. S. Army Sgt. Harold Bennett in retaliation for the execution of a Viet Cong.

Joplin Gets Civil Defense Grant

WASHINGTON AP - The Office of Civil Defense has approved a $16,362 grant to the Joplin, Mo., Civil Defense organization for improvement of the communication system at the Joplin emergency operating center.

Matched by local money, the funds will be used to furnish a single point of control for all communications systems there including fire, police, and public works, Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo., was told. A new antenna tower is involved.

Mink is the most popular fur in the United States. Minks have been raised in captivity for their fur since 1866 but were not produced in great quantity until around 1930. Fox farmers converted to raising mink and today the production of ranch-raised mink is about 6 million animals per year. Mink accounts for 75 per cent of the fur trade. Wisconsin produces one-third of the total.

MOTHER AND CHILD— Serious state business was going on at the time, but Queen Elizabeth took a second to give youngest son, Prince Edward, 2, a fond smile as they watched the Trooping of the Colors from a Buckingham Palace balcony on the queen's official birthday.

New Space Ball To Assist in Earth Mapping

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—America's new star in the sky—a silvery 100-foot balloon—orbited the poles today, providing a new way to find out where on earth things are.

PAGEOS, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's earth-mapping project, is a 125-pound plastic balloon coated with aluminum. PAGEOS stands for Passive Geodetic Earth-Orbiting Satellite.

The big ball, intricately folded inside a canister, was pushed into orbit Thursday by a thrust-augmented Thor-Agena-D rocket combination. Its orbital path is circular, 2,600 miles above the earth.

Once in orbit, the balloon was popped out of its protective canister. The big gas bag expanded as the heat of the sun vaporized chemicals inside.

PAGEOS' mission, scentists said, is to act as the world's highest-flying photographers' model, providing a pinpoint of reifected light near the horizon nightly.

This pinpoint of light, photographed from several points on earth against a background of stars, will provide the prime reference point for a 5-year study aimed at correcting the world's maps.

The big ball, scientists said, should be visible to the naked eye as it reflects the light of the sun. They said the satellite would be as bright as the star Polaris (the North Star).

Photographs, to be taken from 41 points on earth, will be coordinated to locate, precisely, the continents, islands and other earthly features.

The resulting data, scientists explained, will enable them to locate any point on earth to within 100 feet of its true position.

Radio Systems Failed During Wichita Storm

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)— About $60,000 worth of radio equipment in Civil Defense headquarters was unserviceable and did little but jam other emergency frequencies the night of the tornado June 8, Police Chief Dana Hummer said Thursday.

The chief, appearing at a meeting of disaster officials, urged the naming of a special board of inquiry to look into the problem.

Sixteen persons were killed and 550 injured in the tornado.

Hummer told the group that Lt. James Zimmerman, police communications officer and Civil Defense chief of communications, reported that fire department radios and Civil Defense communications center units were not working that night and were unplugged during the disaster.

The police department transmitter, he said, did not work on one of its assigned frequencies and didn't work well enough on the other frequency to use it.

Zimmerman said a fire department Civil Defense standby unit is unplugged at the transmitter at the present time because it interferes with the fire department's regular communications when it is plugged in.

Master's Men Quartette In Sikeston and Lilbourn

The Master's Men Quartette, a traveling vocal ensemble from Warner Pacific College will present a program of sacred music in the Tanner Street Church of God on Sunday, June 26 at 10:45 a.m. and the First Church of God in Lilbourn on Monday, June27, at 7:30 p.m.

This program is part of a tour that began in the International Convention of the Church of God in Anderson, Indiana (June 13-18), and will include the International Youth Convention of the Church of God in San Diego, California (August 18-21). The quartet will travel more than 10,000 miles and will make more than 75 appearances in Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and California.

The tour is planned to provide Warner Pacific College students the educational opportunity of traveling and of using their musical abilities in a way that will render a service to the church and at the same time promote Warner Pacific College and the quality of education it offers.

Warner Pacific's department of music, headed by William J. Hazelbauer, is very active and boasts an experienced staff and a strong agressive program.

Members of the Master's Men Quartette are Dwight Nelson (tenor) from Juneau, Alaska; Bill Kennemer (second tenor) from Santa Cruz, California; Joe Hooker (baritone) from Fair Oaks, California; and Arlo Hays (bass) from Fresno, California. Their pianist, Ruth Helbling is from Prineville, Oregon, Mona Hoffman, of Sandy Lake, Pennsylvania, will be assisting on the tour.

Warner Pacific College is an accredited four year liberal arts college and is operated under the auspices of the Church of God (Anderson, Indiana).

Radio Systems Failed During Wichita Storm

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)— About $60,000 worth of radio equipment in Civil Defense headquarters was unserviceable and did little but jam other emergency frequencies the night of the tornado June 8, Police Chief Dana Hummer said Thursday.

The chief, appearing at a meeting of disaster officials, urged the naming of a special board of inquiry to look into the problem.

Sixteen persons were killed and 550 injured in the tornado.

Hummer told the group that Lt. James Zimmerman, police communications officer and Civil Defense chief of communications, reported that fire department radios and Civil Defense communications center units were not working that night and were unplugged during the disaster.

The police department transmitter, he said, did not work on one of its assigned frequencies and didn't work well enough on the other frequency to use it.

Zimmerman said a fire department Civil Defense standby unit is unplugged at the transmitter at the present time because it interferes with the fire department's regular communications when it is plugged in.
